Senator Percy's Ordeal In Mortar Fire

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., accompanied by his wife and a number of aides, is making a personal inspection tour of Vietnam. Today, he and his party came under Communist fire in a village they visited. In the following dispatch, the Senator describes the incident.)

DAK SON, Vietnam (UPI)—I wanted to see Dak Son, particularly because it is the worst atrocity that has been committed.

You hear of accidental bombings, problems created by our own forces on occasion. I wanted to see what has happened in that particular area.

We circled five or six times and felt quite certain that there was no one in the village. There seemed to be no sign of life of any kind. No one came out while our helicopter circled.

And so we took the helicopter in, left Mrs. Percy in the helicopter, left the chopper blades going, and the five of us went out to see the burned-out areas, to see some of the bunkers where women and children were covered (killed) as a result of suffocation and so forth.

As we proceeded back to the helicopter, we took five mortar shells and about 15 rounds of ground fire. Fortunately, Dennis (Smith of Milton, Mass., a U. S. refugee official) did have a 38 caliber snub-nosed pistol which he passed to me. I don't know if we were in greater danger with me carrying a pistol, or whether it was the danger from the mortar shells. And he had an M2 (carbine) rifle with 28 rounds in it.

The helicopter took right off and went over the Song Be to alert them and my wife went with it. Within I'd say 15 or 20 minutes, they had four or five helicopters providing cover for us.

It was closer action, I must say, than I got in three years in World War II.

I could say I never got lower to the ground than we did then. We were crawling as we moved out of there.

Dennis was absolutely magnificent, the way he directed us out. He seemed to have intuitive sense in knowing where to go.

When the mortars came in, I started off toward the jungle and he managed to steer me back. We just stayed close to the ground and worked our way clear to the helicopter.

We took five mortar rounds

Lynch Will Head State Demos For LBJ's Nomination

Attorney General Expects A Tough Campaign, War As Central Issue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch announced today he will lead the California Democratic party delegation supporting President Johnson in the party's national nominating convention next year.

The delegation, he told a news conference, will stand on "the record of President Lyndon Johnson, the record of the Democratic party during the past four years."

Lynch said he met with the President in Washington recently and told him he had been asked by California Democratic leaders to head the delegation. The President, he said, smiled and raised no objection.

Lynch said he expects a tough campaign, with Vietnam one of the main issues.

He said he recognizes that there will be "peace people in varying degrees" opposing his candidate in the California presidential primary next June.

He had reference to a "peace" slate of delegates pledged to Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota.

Lynch said he doesn't consider McCarthy a serious opponent of President Johnson. He said McCarthy's statements vary from day to day and that he is unable fully to assess the Minnesotan's intent.

Former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, now seeking to place his American Independent Party on the California primary ballot, "might have an impact in certain areas of California during the campaign," Lynch said, "but not statewide."

Lynch said he hopes his delegation will draw support from all top Democratic leaders and officeholders in California. He said, too, he expects the regu-

471 Reds Killed At Terror Center

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S., South Vietnamese and South Korean troops today reported killing at least 641 Communists in decisive battles on the coast and on the North Vietnam border.

American spokesmen reported 471 North Vietnamese were killed by U. S. and government troops in the six-day battle for Truong Lam village that ended in Allied victory yesterday. The Americans, who suffered 33 men killed and 147 wounded, burned the fortress village's thatched huts under which the Communists had built bunkers.

Near Saigon, Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed government troops in the suburbs and killed 12 today. Near the Cambodian border, 90 miles to the northwest, Communist fire caught U.S. Sen. Charles Percy and his wife Loraine visiting a village where terrorists killed 255 civilians in a flamethrower attack eight days ago.

The Percys escaped, the Illinois Republican suffering cuts and bruises on one hand and both arms.

In major fighting, U.S. Marines reported killing 54 Communists trying to build positions on the southern edge of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Vietnam. The Leather-South Vietnam.

The Leathernecks suffered 21 men injured in the six-hour fight yesterday, spokesmen said. Military sources said the action blocked an apparently Communist attempt to get a major battle under way in the border zone.

In Saigon, government officials reported 380 South Vietnamese troops were killed in action last week—the highest weekly death total for Saigon troops in the war's hostory. The previous record was 379 killed the week ending Feb. 2, 1966.

On the North-South Vietnam border, U.S. Air Force B52 Stratofortresses today bombed Communist positions in the northern half of the DMZ.

In North Vietnam, U.S. jets bombed the Con Tay army barracks 23 miles west-north-west of Hanoi for the second time in a week yesterday. The also pounded transport line targets near the Mu Gia Pass, entrance to the Ho Chi Minh trail. They also hit targets just above the DMZ.

Bolinas-Olema Road Crash Fatal To San Franciscan

A 34-year-old San Francisco woman was fatally injured yesterday when the car in which she was riding swerved off Bolinas-Olema Road and rammed a utility pole.

The driver, Regina Danz, also 34, of 1 Calle Del Occidente, Stinson Beach, escaped serious injury.

California Highway Patrol said the car was travelling south toward Bolinas at 4:45 p.m. when it rounded a turn too wide at the intersection of Upper Bolinas County Road, near Bolinas School, dipped into a ditch, shot back across the road and hit a utility pole.

Miss Meier was taken to Marin General Hospital by Marin County Fire Department ambulance and died at 5:15 p.m. The driver was treated for a cut chin and multiple bruises.

Miss Meier is survived by her mother, Mrs. Paul Meier; two brothers, Herbert and Martin P. Meier, and a sister, Evelyn, all of San Francisco. County Coroner Donovan O. Cooke said.

Funeral is pending at W. C. Lasswell and Co. in Daly City.

The death brought to 32 the number of traffic fatalities in Marin this year. There were 25 at this time last year.

Winds Rake Marin, Sink Boat; Fog-Free But Frosty Night Due

Wind gusts hit 72 miles per hour atop Mount Tamalpais and were steady at 40 miles an hour.

The boat, the Falcon, owned by Robert Serbin, was docked at the north U.S. Army Engineers pier. An object of some kind struck it about 5 a.m., knocking a hole in it, and the boat sank in about 12 feet of water.

A small boat, a Monterey fishing craft owned by an Edward Grimes, broke loose from its moorings at the same pier and drifted atop a concrete barge. It was retrieved and taken to nearby ways for inspection.

Serbin, the fishing boat's owner, was out of town last night.

Skies were clear in the Bay area but the whipping north wind toppled trees and blew in windows. Several trees were down in the East Bay and windows were knocked out in several places in San Francisco.

Small craft warnings were in effect from the Oregon border south to Monterey, but the high wind was expected to decrease tonight and lower temperatures will follow, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Fog prevailed in the Northern California valleys. However, the weatherman said, with dissipation of the fog freezing temperatures can be expected in the valleys tomorrow morning. There will be frost in much of Northern and Central California tonight.

The Weather Bureau said that the winds will ease off tomorrow.

Sit-In Threat Will Not Bring Police To Campus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — City police said today they did not plan to send uniformed officers to San Francisco State College in the event militant students staged a threatened "sit-in" in the president's office.

The police department said officers would be available for quick movement if needed, however.

College officials said they anticipated a small "non-disruptive demonstration but did not intend to close the building.

College Gate Crashing Costs $800 A Month

Vandalism by crashing through wooden parking gate barriers has been costing the College of Marin an estimated $600 a month, according to a business office report to be presented to the Marin Junior College District Board Thursday.

Dr. William K. Ramstad, college president, said today the problem of students and others ramming their vehicles through the gate barriers has been discussed several times in board meetings, and the report was requested about a month ago.

He said the check has disclosed a near $12,000 cost in repair or replacement of the gates since the automatic system was installed Sept. 1, 1966.

The gates, he said, are pine wood and have a strip of plastic cushion along the bottom. They cost about $11 for the college maintenance department to install, he said.

According to Ramstad, the problem is not just vandalism for vandalism's sake. He said there has been a serious parking problem, and students have sometimes driven through the barriers out of "sheer frustration" in not being able to park in time to attend class.

"Very few students, actually no more than a handful, have been seen breaking them," he said. He said these persons have been fined the cost of the barriers. Much of the damage, however, is done at night after the campus police stop patrolling at 11 p.m., he said.

Ramstad said at least a partial solution is in immediate sight, with a 116-space parking lot ready to open within the next few days next to the new fine arts building. Also, a 115-space lot across Sir Francis Drake Boulevard is to be black-topped and used for parking.

Ramstad said the college went to the automatic gates because the system of parking permits required policing and other expenses. It was hoped that revenue from the new gates of the six lots would pay off the installation and maintenance costs officials said. However, Ramstad said, there has been a net profit of only about $1,200 because of the damage and repair costs.

Supervisors Ask Park Land Probe

Hinges On State Action

The Marin County Board of Supervisors today unanimously called for an investigation "of the background of all parties and institutions concerned in the present chain of title" of the Brazil and Souza ranch properties in West Marin.

Purchase of the properties for westward expansion of Mount Tamalpais State Park has been stymied. The state has offered $3,012,000 for the 2,140 acres. But the present owner of the land, First Christian Church of America, a Southern California institution, has held out for $3.3 million.

HINGES ON STATE

The board's action was made subject to agreement by the state not to withdraw its offer for 30 days, despite expiration today of a state deadline.

Supervisor John F. McInnis suggested that the investigation may disclose facts which might lead to condemnation of the land, a course of action the state presently refuses to take.

Supervisors voted $1,000 for the investigation by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and his staff, and also agreed to spend as much as $10,000 if necessary. Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said, "We have to show them that we mean business."

51 DOCUMENTS

Fifty-one documents, some up to 35 pages long, have been recorded since 1964 on the two ranches, Maloney reported. "The problem is not the absence, but the volume of records," he said.

The investigation, Maloney said, "will be a very substantial undertaking of almost staggering complexity."

The board rejected a proposal by Chairman Thomas T. Storer that the board mediate the sale. "We just don't know enough to get involved," said Supervisor Peter H. Behr.

CHURCH TO SELL RANCHES QUICKLY

Bagley's 'Bad Attitude' Blamed For Halt On Plans For Humanities Study Center

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The Brazil and Souza ranches in Franks Valley, apparently dropped from state plans to expand Mount Tamalpais State Park, will be sold "right away" to a private developer, a spokesman for the Beverly Hills church that owns the ranches told the Independent-Journal late yesterday.

One interested buyer wants to develop the valley into "nice acreages for homesites that would be a very fine addition to the county," said John Filatreau, secretary-treasurer for the First Christian Church of America. Another possible buyer "is interested in building a large hotel and resort," he said.

Filatreau declined to identify possible buyers of the 2,140 acres, but said his church had abandoned its plans to build "an institute for advanced studies of the humanities." The church already had spent $125,000 on plans for the institute, he said.

Filatreau said "bad attitudes and animosity built up against us" were responsible for his board of directors' disinterest in building the institute. "Let someone else disappoint the people there," he commented.

Filatreau blamed the "bad attitudes" on Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who last year suggested the church was more involved in real estate speculation than in spiritual matters. "That was just downright slander," said Filatreau.

William Penn Mott Jr., state parks and recreation director, had set yesterday as the deadline for the church to accept the state's offer of $3,012,000 before he looked elsewhere for additions to the park. The church, however, did not budge from its demand for $3.3 million.

Mott could not be reached by telephone today to confirm that the state had withdrawn its offer for the land. He has been in Illinois for several days, and was to return this afternoon.

"We're just handcuffed because there's just more than that owed," said Filatreau of the state's offer. "It would take $3,367,000 just to clear our books as of today," he said.

This sum did not include a $360,000 lien filed Friday against the ranches, a lien which

Middle School Slated For Project 17 Site

Accepting recommendations of advisers, architects and administrators, the Mill Valley School District board last night voted 4-1 to build the new middle school at Project 17.

The school, originally estimated at $2.5 million, may cost up to $3 million at the site south of Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue, Supt. James Collins told the board.

The alternative was to build at Alto-Edna Maguire School site, using Edna Maguire as part of the new school. That solution would have been some $400,000 cheaper, but that was the only advantage advisers found.

At Project 17, now owned by the city, the plan is to build the middle school along with joint city-school recreational facilities. The district and city council have been negotiating for months to bring about the project there.

Collins last night urged the Project 17 site, pointing out the $3.5 million bond issue passed early this year called for a new middle school rather than one built on an existing building. He said a new school would give many more chances for educational changes and innovations.

Trustee William L. Clark cast the sole vote against Project 17, explaining that he felt the extra cost would cut funds available for renovating neighborhood schools in the district. The $3.5 million bond issue was also to finance renovation.

The motion by trustee John K. Robinson for Project 17 contained seven conditions, most of

College Gate Crashing Costs $800 A Month

Vandalism by crashing through wooden parking gate barriers has been costing the College of Marin an estimated $600 a month, according to a business office report to be presented to the Marin Junior College District Board Thursday.

HINGES ON STATE

The board's action was made subject to agreement by the state not to withdraw its offer for 30 days, despite expiration today of a state deadline.

Supervisor John F. McInnis suggested that the investigation may disclose facts which might lead to condemnation of the land, a course of action the state presently refuses to take.

Supervisors voted $1,000 for the investigation by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and his staff, and also agreed to spend as much as $10,000 if necessary. Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said, "We have to show them that we mean business."

51 DOCUMENTS

Fifty-one documents, some up to 35 pages long, have been recorded since 1964 on the two ranches, Maloney reported. "The problem is not the absence, but the volume of records," he said.

The investigation, Maloney said, "will be a very substantial undertaking of almost staggering complexity."

The board rejected a proposal by Chairman Thomas T. Storer that the board mediate the sale. "We just don't know enough to get involved," said Supervisor Peter H. Behr.

Middle School Slated For Project 17 Site

Accepting recommendations of advisers, architects and administrators, the Mill Valley School District board last night voted 4-1 to build the new middle school at Project 17.

The school, originally estimated at $2.5 million, may cost up to $3 million at the site south of Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue, Supt. James Collins told the board.

The alternative was to build at Alto-Edna Maguire School site, using Edna Maguire as part of the new school. That solution would have been some $400,000 cheaper, but that was the only advantage advisers found.

At Project 17, now owned by the city, the plan is to build the middle school along with joint city-school recreational facilities. The district and city council have been negotiating for months to bring about the project there.

Collins last night urged the Project 17 site, pointing out the $3.5 million bond issue passed early this year called for a new middle school rather than one built on an existing building. He said a new school would give many more chances for educational changes and innovations.

Trustee William L. Clark cast the sole vote against Project 17, explaining that he felt the extra cost would cut funds available for renovating neighborhood schools in the district. The $3.5 million bond issue was also to finance renovation.

The motion by trustee John K. Robinson for Project 17 contained seven conditions, most of

Demotion For Security Handout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Demotion, reassignment and a severe reprimand have been handed Otto F. Otepka, the State Department's chief security evaluator, authoritative sources report.

Otepka

The decision by Secretary of State Dean Rusk means Otepka will not lose his job as originally ordered in November 1963 when he was accused of handing classified information over to a Senate subcommittee without authorization.

If Otepka accepts the ruling he will take a new job as a management analyst, a position not involving security matters and paying about $3,000 less a year than his previous job.

Otepka can if he wishes seek further redress by turning to the Civil Service Commission or the courts.

Sen. Dirksen Stages A Kiss-In

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen may be the kissingest senator — at least that's his rating after an appearance last night at the American Newspaperwomen's Club.

Dirksen

Dirksen bussed at least seven ladies, according to one reporter's count, as he smooched his way in to an evening marking his latest record album, "Everett McKinley Dirksen at Christmas Time."

The senator's producer, Arch Lustberg of Chappel and Co., told the gathering that a new album is in the works and added: "I don't think you'll ever get him to stop making records now."

Dirksen told them tongue-in-cheek, "the record business is a racket — all that sweat and agony!"

Honeymooners Still Secluded

ST. JOHN, Virgin Islands (UPI) — The Charles Robbs honeymooned on today, blissfully ignoring an army of curious and a shrill dissenter on a bicycle.

The Robbs—the former Lynda Bird Johnson and her 28-year-old Marine captain bridegroom—spent their first day of married life away from home without setting foot outside their 10-room hotel guest cottage.

They showed no sign of having heard a denunciation of President Johnson by a woman who pedaled past on a bicycle yesterday afternoon.

"If I were his daughter, I'd be ashamed," she shouted. Her accent was American.

29-Day Meatcutter Strike Is At End

LOS ANGELES (AP)— A 29-day strike by six meatcutters unions against 1,100 Southern California supermarkets is over today and union officials say they see no need for a hike in the price of meat.

The new pact was accepted by negotiators late Sunday night. The vote, by a 9-1 majority, includes a 40-cent-an-hour wage increase over two years for journeymen and head meatcutters, a boost in pension benefits, and increases in health, welfare and sick leave benefits.

Moscow Quiet About Deserters' Location

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet officials refused to say today what has become of the four U.S. Navy deserters who spent three weeks in Moscow protesting the American war effort in Vietnam.

The Moscow hotel where the four youths had been staying said Monday they left several days earlier. They could not be located at other Moscow hotels.

Carmichael Returns; His Passport Seized

STOKELY CARMICHAEL
Minus passport

NEW YORK (AP) — Black Power militant Stokely Carmichael was back in the United States today, his passport in the hands of federal officials and his presence stirring Congress to consider penalties for U.S. citizens who travel to forbidden nations.

Carmichael, whose five-month trip included calls in Communist Cuba and North Vietnam, flew into Kennedy airport yesterday and was met by a cheering group of his admirers and by U.S. marshals.

PASSPORT SEIZED

U.S. Atty. Joseph P. Hoey of Brooklyn said Carmichael's passport—issued with the proviso that he not go to either Cuba or North Vietnam—was seized by a marshal executing a federal search warrant.

Shortly before Carmichael arrived, the State Department in Washington asked Congress to authorize penalties of up to one year in prison and $1,000 in fines for unauthorized travel by U.S. citizens to forbidden countries.

Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach termed lifting of a passport to prevent repeated violations of travel restrictions "inadequate to secure the foreign policy interests which are at stake."

CALLS FOR ACTION

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said "the Carmichael case points up the need to invoke criminal penalties for forbidden visits."

A Supreme Court decision on passports earlier this year left the State Department without the power to seek criminal penalties for unauthorized visits to countries to which travel had been restricted.

When Carmichael arrived at Kennedy airport his supporters chanted "Mau Mau! Mau Mau!" Among those greeting him was Charles Kenyatta, head of the Harlem group known as the Mau Mau.

Antipoverty Funds May Be Far Less

WASHINGTON (AP) — Antipoverty boss Sargent Shriver has congressional authorization to spend $4.16 billion over two years—but his agency may wind up with far less money.

The bill sent yesterday to the White House represents the most money ever authorized for the Office of Economic Opportunity, which Shriver heads, and marks the first time Congress has extended the program for more than one year.

But just after House passage of the bill, a House Appropriations subcommittee recommended that only $1.612 billion be provided to foot the antipoverty bill in the first year, compared with the $1.98 billion authorized.

Another $2.18 billion was authorized for fiscal 1969 but because Congress only appropriates on an annual basis, the question of how much money actually will be available for the second year isn't at issue now.

The bill includes a controversial provision giving local public officials control of the OEO's Community Action programs.

Opponents of the move say it will breed vote-buying and patronage in city halls, and Shriver has pledged to keep close watch on results of the change.

Segregation Pledge Spurs School Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration pledge to revise procedures for cutting off funds to segregated schools spurred Senate passage of the $14.2 billion federal aid-to-education bill.

The 71-7 Senate vote yesterday sent the measure to a conference with the House, where further attempts to water down antisegregation procedures are expected.

Southern senators dropped stalling tactics and permitted final action on the measure—largest aid-to-education authorization in history—once the pledge arrived in a letter from Secretary John W. Gardner of the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Democratic leaders said they hoped a quick conference could be held on it and a compromise version sent to President Johnson before Congress adjourns for the year, probably at the end of this week.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., manager of the bill, told reporters it was particularly important to act on the bill because it changes the formula for distribution in the current year of grant funds under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary School Act.

About $1.2 billion of federal money is being made available to school districts over the nation under Title I for the present year. It covers aid to improve educational opportunities for children of low-income families.

The main provisions of the bill would extend for three years, starting next July 1, the authorizations for aid under all sections of the Elementary and Secondary School Act.

Extended for the same period would be the impacted areas program of grants to school districts with enrollments swollen because of nearby federal facilities.

Pay Boosts Likely With Spending Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears certain to approve hefty pay boosts for federal workers at virtually the same time it approves a $4.1 billion cut in federal spending.

In action yesterday on separate measures:

The House voted 366 to 26 for a measure to slash spending $4.1 billion this fiscal year, sending the administration-backed bill to the Senate where speedy acceptance is predicted.

PAY BILL HIKE

The House sent to the Senate, on a 326-62 vote, a measure that would boost the salaries of postal workers 6 per cent and of other federal workers 4.5 per cent. The bill also provides for additional pay hikes on July 1 next year and July 1, 1969 at an eventual annual cost of $2.7 billion.

The pay bill includes proposed increases in postal rates that would raise first-class stamps from 5 to 6 cents and air mail stamps from 8 to 10 cents.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he anticipated no difficulties in speeding the spending cut measure to the White House, which called for the slashes as part of a proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes.

NO TAX CHANCE

The administration advocated the budget cuts in hopes of persuading Congress to approve the tax boost but there's no chance of action on taxes before next year's session.

The bill approved would require federal agencies to cut personnel costs by 2 per cent and other controllable expenditures by 10 per cent.

The action came shortly before the House vote to raise salaries of federal workers more than 10 per cent over the next 19 months.

Congress itself would be exempted from the economy drive it is ordering for most other federal agencies. The federal judiciary wouldn't be affected, either.

Based on current estimates, federal spending in the fiscal year ending next June 30 would be $136.2 billion.

Under the postal-pay measure, also expected to win quick Senate approval, postal rates for all classes of mail would go up by next Jan. 7, generating new revenue of $900 million a year once they're all in effect.

The measure also would boost post-card postage from 4 to 5 cents and air mail cards from 6 to 8 cents. The per-piece postal rates for third-class mail would rise from 2.875 cents to 3.5 cents starting next month, then to 4 cents in July 1969. But a 3.8-cent rate would apply to the first 250,000 pieces mailed in any year.

Second-class rates, which cover newspapers and magazines, would jump next year from 1 cent to 1.1 cent under the minimum rate, then to 1.2 cents in 1969 and 1.3 cents in 1970.

Both the pay and postal rate boosts exceed President Johnson's requests but indications are he'll sign the measure.

In New Youk City in 1907 it was estimated horse-drawn vehicles traveled at an average spped of 11.5 miles per hour. Today, due to heavy traffic, it is estimated cars and trucks average 8.5 miles per hour.

Marin Women To Join Viet Peace March

Fifteen Marin women have agreed to travel to Washington, D.C., next month to join the Jeannette Rankin Brigade March in a plea for peace in Vietnam.

The Marin group, led by Mrs. Jane Schellenberg of Tiburon, met last week to organize support for the march, which will be held on the opening day of next year's congressional session.

The Marin group is planning a campaign of visits, telephone calls and mailings to publicize the march, and is planning a companion demonstration at the San Francisco federal building on the day of the Washington march. A car caravan to San Francisco is planned.

Congresswoman Rankin, now in her 80s, was the first woman elected to Congress and the only congressman to vote against declaring war in World War I. She is to lead the Washington march.

India Quake Toll Increases To 115

BOMBAY, India (AP) — The earthquake toll in southwest India rose to 115 today as search parties fanned out to isolated hamlets in the Western Ghat mountains. There were estimates as many as 200 may have died.

More than 1,600 injured persons were seeking treatment. Hospitals in Karad Sangli and Satara, the towns closest to the disaster area, were unable to take more patients.

The quake rocked the Koynanager area 150 miles southeast of Bombay before dawn Monday. Many were killed when houses built of granite blocks collapsed on them as they slept.

Pay Boosts Likely With Spending Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears certain to approve hefty pay boosts for federal workers at virtually the same time it approves a $4.1 billion cut in federal spending.

In action yesterday on separate measures:

The House voted 366 to 26 for a measure to slash spending $4.1 billion this fiscal year, sending the administration-backed bill to the Senate where speedy acceptance is predicted.

PAY BILL HIKE

The House sent to the Senate, on a 326-62 vote, a measure that would boost the salaries of postal workers 6 per cent and of other federal workers 4.5 per cent. The bill also provides for additional pay hikes on July 1 next year and July 1, 1969 at an eventual annual cost of $2.7 billion.

The pay bill includes proposed increases in postal rates that would raise first-class stamps from 5 to 6 cents and air mail stamps from 8 to 10 cents.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he anticipated no difficulties in speeding the spending cut measure to the White House, which called for the slashes as part of a proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes.

NO TAX CHANCE

The administration advocated the budget cuts in hopes of persuading Congress to approve the tax boost but there's no chance of action on taxes before next year's session.

The bill approved would require federal agencies to cut personnel costs by 2 per cent and other controllable expenditures by 10 per cent.

The action came shortly before the House vote to raise salaries of federal workers more than 10 per cent over the next 19 months.

Congress itself would be exempted from the economy drive it is ordering for most other federal agencies. The federal judiciary wouldn't be affected, either.

Based on current estimates, federal spending in the fiscal year ending next June 30 would be $136.2 billion.

Under the postal-pay measure, also expected to win quick Senate approval, postal rates for all classes of mail would go up by next Jan. 7, generating new revenue of $900 million a year once they're all in effect.

The measure also would boost post-card postage from 4 to 5 cents and air mail cards from 6 to 8 cents. The per-piece postal rates for third-class mail would rise from 2.875 cents to 3.5 cents starting next month, then to 4 cents in July 1969. But a 3.8-cent rate would apply to the first 250,000 pieces mailed in any year.

Second-class rates, which cover newspapers and magazines, would jump next year from 1 cent to 1.1 cent under the minimum rate, then to 1.2 cents in 1969 and 1.3 cents in 1970.

Both the pay and postal rate boosts exceed President Johnson's requests but indications are he'll sign the measure.

In New Youk City in 1907 it was estimated horse-drawn vehicles traveled at an average spped of 11.5 miles per hour. Today, due to heavy traffic, it is estimated cars and trucks average 8.5 miles per hour.

Marin Women To Join Viet Peace March

Fifteen Marin women have agreed to travel to Washington, D.C., next month to join the Jeannette Rankin Brigade March in a plea for peace in Vietnam.

The Marin group, led by Mrs. Jane Schellenberg of Tiburon, met last week to organize support for the march, which will be held on the opening day of next year's congressional session.

The Marin group is planning a campaign of visits, telephone calls and mailings to publicize the march, and is planning a companion demonstration at the San Francisco federal building on the day of the Washington march. A car caravan to San Francisco is planned.

Congresswoman Rankin, now in her 80s, was the first woman elected to Congress and the only congressman to vote against declaring war in World War I. She is to lead the Washington march.

Federal Funds Sought To Help Prevent Floods

The county public works department will investigate the possibility of federal aid to relieve flooding along Meadow Drive in Santa Venetia.

The zone advisory board of Flood Control Zone 7 (Santa Venetia and Gallinas Village) last night asked Mogens Ring, county flood control engineer, to see if some type of federal assistance is possible.

Ring estimated it would cost $150,000 to $200,000 to eliminate flood conditions on Meadow Drive.

Ronald W. Shafer, chairman of the Zone 7 advisory board, presided at the meeting, held in the Civic Center. Supervisor John F. McInnis attended the meeting.

He said the process of selecting delegation members is under way now and that the list may be completed in about two months.

The attorney general said he already has the assured support of Democratic State Chairman Charles Warren of Los Angeles and indication from Los Angeles Mayor Samuel Yorty that he would help the cause. He said there had been no indication yet of support from Democratic Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh. Unruh has said he doesn't expect to participate in any slate of delegates.

Four-Week Vacation Plan Passes

Marin County supervisors today agreed to give four-week vacations instead of the maximum three to county employees who have worked more than 15 years.

By unanimous vote, supervisors authorized County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to draw up an amendment to the county salary ordinance and bring it back to the supervisors for formal approval in three weeks. The four-week vacation provision will go into effect next February.

Supervisors also agreed with a recommendation of personnel director Robert D. Elliott and granted a five per cent pay differential for maintenance workers who are required to work the graveyard and swing shifts. Cost of this five per cent premium for the rest of the fiscal year, from January to June, would be $2,163, Elliott reported.

Supervisors did not approve other fringe benefits requested by the employees association through its manager Frederick H. Ward. These included pay for stand-by time required of sheriff's matrons and aides in the coroner's office, and premium overtime pay.

Train Cross Crash Fatal To Marinite

A 48-year-old Larkspur man was killed when his pickup truck was struck by a freight train at a crossing about one mile north of Woodland in Yolo County Saturday afternoon.

The victim was William N. Cullins of 11 Opal Street, a design engineer with H. Koch and Sons in Corte Madera.

Cullins reportedly had been hunting and was scheduled to attend a gun show in Woodland. He was in the pickup with his dog when the fatal crash occurred at about 2 p.m.

Cullins was vice president of the Field Trial Gunners Association, a past president of the German Short Haired Pointer Club of California, a member of the Machinists Union, Local 268, in Marin and a member of St. Patrick's Church, Larkspur.

A native of Ross, he was a lifetime resident of Marin, and served briefly in the Marine Corps in World War II.

Surviving are his wife, Virginia Cullins of Larkspur, his mother, Mrs. Margaret Loraine Berthinier of Larkspur, a son William M. Cullins of Pennsylvania, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Loraine Kufner of Salem, Ore.

The family reported that there will be no funeral services.

Drums Recovery Saves Concert

A Christmas concert scheduled for tonight at Davidson Junior High School, San Rafael, will have the right sort of beat after all.

Drums and cymbals worth $322 were stolen from the school's music room over the weekend but were discovered safe and sound yesterday, said police.

A 15-year-old student liked them so much he climbed through a window and took them home with him. Acting on a tip, police visited the boy, cited him and returned the instruments in time for the show.

Filatreau said he was "not aware of."

The lien was filed by the Fidelity Bank of Los Angeles against the church and 10 corporations which "interlock," according to the bank's attorney, Victor M. Epport of Los Angeles.

The defendants — not "plaintiffs" as incorrectly stated yesterday by the Independent-Journal—were listed by Epport as the church, Consolidated Trust Assn., Baptist Foundation of America Inc., Southwest Conservation Inc., Federal Investment Corp., Palos Verdes Holding Corp., Consolidated Financial Corp., Cal-L-Exploration Co., Urban Life Corporation of America, Taylor Building and Development and Taylor Land Enterprises.

Filatreau denied that the church "interlocks" with any of the defendants, but said that the Palos Verdes Holding Corp. was among the church's nine creditors.

Mystery Blast Digs A Crater

A mystery explosion dug a crater four feet wide and 18 inches deep, broke some windows and cracked paint inside a house on the Crest Farm in the hills above Fairfax last night, the Marin Sheriff's Office reported today.

Herman Holthouse said the blast broke some windows in his house and cracked paint on the inside walls, even though the explosion occurred some 100 yards away.

Deputies were still investigating the blast this morning, but said it may have been caused by dynamite.

them negotiated at length between the city and school board. They were:

1. The school board will exchange its 11-acre Enchanted Knolls site for Project 17 land plus the Blithedale trestle parcel.

2. The school will buy the 3.6 acre Biggio parcel adjoining project 17, and give the city half an acre for street widening to be done at city expense.

3. Operating costs for joint recreational facilities will be shared by the city.

4. Lands exchanged will be held in public use unless the two bodies agree on a change.

5. The city will buy, if available, marshland east of Project 17 owned by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and the Biggio family as part of the park-recreational complex.

6. A plan for relocating the horse ring at Project 17 will be worked out.

7. The school district will pay up to $10,000 of the cost of relocating the community center to land the city makes available, the city to pay any further cost.

The board went on to approve a contract with Campbell and Wong and Associates of San Francisco as architects for the middle school, and asked Collins to bring in a contract for discussion next meeting with Educational and Community Consultants and Planners (ECCP) for advisory services on the project.

The Mill Valley School District board also:

OPTION — Agreed to let an option lapse on three acres north of the Maguire School after Collins reversed an earlier recommendation to keep the option open. He said all money available should be saved now on the middle school and neighborhood school renovation. The land will probably still be available if needed several years from now, Collins said.

SECRETARY — Hired Mrs. Susan Mathews as secretary to the superintendent at a starting salary of $546 a month. She replaces Mrs. Ruth Lascy, who is now administrative assistant.

PERCY

and frankly, I must say that I only counted three—but I must say I was busy trying to learn how to operate this snub-nosed pistol.

We didn't know where the ground fire was coming from. We were in among the unburned thatched huts. We wanted to get out of the clear area, which is the burned-out area. In fact, I had just been down in one of the bunkers to see what it was like and to see why so many people died in these bunkers. They never got out.

It's perfectly obvious what happened. The flamethrowers just came in and burned everything. The stuff came right down into the bunkers. And the fire sucked the air out and they suffocated in there.

As I was getting out of the bunker, the first mortar shell hit. I didn't know where the helicopter was, as a matter of fact. I couldn't find the helicopter. I thought I started to run toward it. I was going toward the jungle.

I didn't realize the accuracy with which they could zero in on us, nor did I really realize that we were that visible, or that they would really have under observation a village that they had totally wiped out.

I must say my wife was as calm as can be about the experience. She had her seatbelt on when it (helicopter) took off. When we left it took off, before any of us had a chance to put our seatbelts on. We were just hanging on that thing with the open door. It was the most comforting feeling I've ever had: Seeing three or four of those things hovering around as ours came in.

Beach Slaying Leads Are Slim

Marin County Sheriff's officers reported today they still have no firm leads to the killer of Barbara Jane Parkin, the 34-year-old Berkeley nurse whose bullet-riddled body was found Friday at McClure's Beach.

Officers are still interviewing relatives and friends of the slain nurse, seeking the identity of the person who pumped about 10 .32 caliber bullets through her body, reported Inspector Guido V Battaglia.

Petty Theft Draws A Plea Of Guilty

Federal Funds Sought To Help Prevent Floods

The county public works department will investigate the possibility of federal aid to relieve flooding along Meadow Drive in Santa Venetia.

The zone advisory board of Flood Control Zone 7 (Santa Venetia and Gallinas Village) last night asked Mogens Ring, county flood control engineer, to see if some type of federal assistance is possible.

Ring estimated it would cost $150,000 to $200,000 to eliminate flood conditions on Meadow Drive.

Ronald W. Shafer, chairman of the Zone 7 advisory board, presided at the meeting, held in the Civic Center. Supervisor John F. McInnis attended the meeting.

He said there had been no indication yet of support from Democratic Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh. Unruh has said he doesn't expect to participate in any slate of delegates.

Four-Week Vacation Plan Passes

Marin County supervisors today agreed to give four-week vacations instead of the maximum three to county employees who have worked more than 15 years.

By unanimous vote, supervisors authorized County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to draw up an amendment to the county salary ordinance and bring it back to the supervisors for formal approval in three weeks. The four-week vacation provision will go into effect next February.

Supervisors also agreed with a recommendation of personnel director Robert D. Elliott and granted a five per cent pay differential for maintenance workers who are required to work the graveyard and swing shifts. Cost of this five per cent premium for the rest of the fiscal year, from January to June, would be $2,163, Elliott reported.

Supervisors did not approve other fringe benefits requested by the employees association through its manager Frederick H. Ward. These included pay for stand-by time required of sheriff's matrons and aides in the coroner's office, and premium overtime pay.

Drums Recovery Saves Concert

A Christmas concert scheduled for tonight at Davidson Junior High School, San Rafael, will have the right sort of beat after all.

Drums and cymbals worth $322 were stolen from the school's music room over the weekend but were discovered safe and sound yesterday, said police.

A 15-year-old student liked them so much he climbed through a window and took them home with him. Acting on a tip, police visited the boy, cited him and returned the instruments in time for the show.

Filatreau said he was "not aware of."

The lien was filed by the Fidelity Bank of Los Angeles against the church and 10 corporations which "interlock," according to the bank's attorney, Victor M. Epport of Los Angeles.

The defendants — not "plaintiffs" as incorrectly stated yesterday by the Independent-Journal—were listed by Epport as the church, Consolidated Trust Assn., Baptist Foundation of America Inc., Southwest Conservation Inc., Federal Investment Corp., Palos Verdes Holding Corp., Consolidated Financial Corp., Cal-L-Exploration Co., Urban Life Corporation of America, Taylor Building and Development and Taylor Land Enterprises.

Filatreau denied that the church "interlocks" with any of the defendants, but said that the Palos Verdes Holding Corp. was among the church's nine creditors.

them negotiated at length between the city and school board. They were:

1. The school board will exchange its 11-acre Enchanted Knolls site for Project 17 land plus the Blithedale trestle parcel.

2. The school will buy the 3.6 acre Biggio parcel adjoining project 17, and give the city half an acre for street widening to be done at city expense.

3. Operating costs for joint recreational facilities will be shared by the city.

4. Lands exchanged will be held in public use unless the two bodies agree on a change.

5. The city will buy, if available, marshland east of Project 17 owned by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and the Biggio family as part of the park-recreational complex.

6. A plan for relocating the horse ring at Project 17 will be worked out.

7. The school district will pay up to $10,000 of the cost of relocating the community center to land the city makes available, the city to pay any further cost.

The board went on to approve a contract with Campbell and Wong and Associates of San Francisco as architects for the middle school, and asked Collins to bring in a contract for discussion next meeting with Educational and Community Consultants and Planners (ECCP) for advisory services on the project.

The Mill Valley School District board also:

OPTION — Agreed to let an option lapse on three acres north of the Maguire School after Collins reversed an earlier recommendation to keep the option open. He said all money available should be saved now on the middle school and neighborhood school renovation. The land will probably still be available if needed several years from now, Collins said.

SECRETARY — Hired Mrs. Susan Mathews as secretary to the superintendent at a starting salary of $546 a month. She replaces Mrs. Ruth Lascy, who is now administrative assistant.

PERCY

and frankly, I must say that I only counted three—but I must say I was busy trying to learn how to operate this snub-nosed pistol.

We didn't know where the ground fire was coming from. We were in among the unburned thatched huts. We wanted to get out of the clear area, which is the burned-out area. In fact, I had just been down in one of the bunkers to see what it was like and to see why so many people died in these bunkers. They never got out.

It's perfectly obvious what happened. The flamethrowers just came in and burned everything. The stuff came right down into the bunkers. And the fire sucked the air out and they suffocated in there.

As I was getting out of the bunker, the first mortar shell hit. I didn't know where the helicopter was, as a matter of fact. I couldn't find the helicopter. I thought I started to run toward it. I was going toward the jungle.

I didn't realize the accuracy with which they could zero in on us, nor did I really realize that we were that visible, or that they would really have under observation a village that they had totally wiped out.

I must say my wife was as calm as can be about the experience. She had her seatbelt on when it (helicopter) took off. When we left it took off, before any of us had a chance to put our seatbelts on. We were just hanging on that thing with the open door. It was the most comforting feeling I've ever had: Seeing three or four of those things hovering around as ours came in.

Marin Board Aids Education TV Net

The Marin County Board of Education last night supported the idea of a four-county instructional television network, but made no commitments.

Board members supported an application by the Napa County Schools Office for four channels in the 2,500 megacycle band that could serve schools in Napa, Solano, Sonoma and Marin counties.

They emphasized that such support wasn't meant to commit Marin to joining the network.

Alan Young, representing the Napa County Schools Office, explained network plans, including the use of Mount Tamalpais for a relay tower and the College of Marin studio for transmitting programs.

After notice that state funds for special education improvements can be increased $219,806, the board approved increasing the special education budget next year from $810,634 to $1,030,440.

There would be additional funds for educable mentally retarded, physically handicapped, educationally handicapped and trainable mentally retarded.

Board members met at the Gallinas School Annex for children with hearing handicaps in Santa Venetia, and heard a report on the hearing program from Rudolph Kupfer, supervisor, staff members and a voluntary worker.

Building Permits In Corte Madera Up In November

Eight building and addition permits totaling $125,300 in evaluation and including a $100,500 community recreation center in East Corte Madera were issued last month by the Corte Madera Building and Zoning Department.

The amount compares with six permits for $35,615 issued in October and nine permits totaling $155,030 issued for November of 1966.

The recreation center application is by Lytton Savings and Loan Association, owner of the 144-unit Mariner Green Apartment project at Paradise and Prince Royal drives.

The structure, to be called a natorium, is also planned to house an indoor swimming pool. The pool will be on a separate permit application, however, department officials said.

Is Bill Of Rights Too Controversial A Topic?

The Marin County Board of Education will consider calling for a countywide committee to develop "interest and enthusiasm" for the Bill of Rights and the U.S. Constitution.

Board Member Adele Alpers urged last night that there should be more emphasis on the two documents in schools.

She proposed that a committee work to "remove whatever it is that makes it (the Bill of Rights) controversial." She said she "had a strong feeling the subject hasn't been too carefully handled."

Mrs. Alpers told of a teacher who was hesitant about the Bill of Right "because it was controversial. This is beyond my comprehension."

Board members referred her suggestion to its educational services committee.

Warren Binzley, curriculum coordinator, earlier reported on a recent conference on teaching the Bill of Rights. There will be a workshop for Bay Area teachers on teaching of constitutional rights at the City College of San Francisco Jan. 13, he reported.

Israel Says Jordan Fired At Kibbutz

TEL AVIV (AP) — Jordanian forces fired briefly with machine guns and rifles last night on the Beisan valley kibbutz of Kfar Ruppin, the Israeli Army said today, but there were no casualties.

The spokesman also reported sappers uncovered an antipersonnel mine in a field near Ashdot Yaakov farther north. It was believed to have been laid during a terrorist raid on the kibbutz three weeks ago.

Vocational Study Grant To Be Sought

By a narrow margin, the Marin County Board of Education last night approved application for federal funds for development of a vocational education program.

Asst. Supt. Charles E. McCully estimated that the first-year cost for the proposed three-year study would be about $300,000.

Board members approved the application by a 4-3 vote with James A. Carroll, Patrick Pollock and Lee C. Richardson Jr. dissenting.

Asst. Supt. Stanley Friese described it as a "most significant project" with the objectives to:

Prepare students who will enter jobs immediately after high school, prepare students for technical training schools, provide guidance and vocational placement and increase "each student's probability for occupational success."

"The aim is to increase every student's chance of vocational success," Friese said.

The first year would be spent in developing a program and during the second year there would be a pilot project, and the third year expansion and evaluation.

After three years and an expenditure estimated at $1 million "what would you have?" Carroll asked.

Friese said the program could be implemented in schools in Marin, Napa, Solano and Sonoma counties by the 1971-72 school year.

Zoning Session

A public hearing on a variance sought by Robert Graver to build a carport at 254 Miller Avenue will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow in the Mill Valley City Council chamber by director of community development Harvey E. Bragdon.

Marin Board Aids Education TV Net

The Marin County Board of Education last night supported the idea of a four-county instructional television network, but made no commitments.

Board members supported an application by the Napa County Schools Office for four channels in the 2,500 megacycle band that could serve schools in Napa, Solano, Sonoma and Marin counties.

They emphasized that such support wasn't meant to commit Marin to joining the network.

Alan Young, representing the Napa County Schools Office, explained network plans, including the use of Mount Tamalpais for a relay tower and the College of Marin studio for transmitting programs.

After notice that state funds for special education improvements can be increased $219,806, the board approved increasing the special education budget next year from $810,634 to $1,030,440.

There would be additional funds for educable mentally retarded, physically handicapped, educationally handicapped and trainable mentally retarded.

Board members met at the Gallinas School Annex for children with hearing handicaps in Santa Venetia, and heard a report on the hearing program from Rudolph Kupfer, supervisor, staff members and a voluntary worker.

ANSWER TO SMOG — The Amitron, arrowhead-shaped, lightweight car designed to run on new lithium storage batteries, is displayed today in Detroit by American Motors and Gulton Industries Inc., joint developers of the proposed commuter's auto. (UPI Telephoto)

Auto Firm Unveils Peppy, Lightweight Electric Car

DETROIT (AP) — Development of an electronic automobile, shaped like an arrowhead and which its builders say will have a cruising speed of 50 miles per hour and a range of 150 miles without recharging, was announced today.

American Motors and Gulton Industries of Metuchen, N.J. disclosed details of the joint project.

An operational model of the electronic car will be road tested within a year, reported Roy D. Chapin Jr., chairman of the board of American Motors. No price was announced.

A prototype of the small, three-passenger commuter car was unveiled at a news conference. It is called the "Amitron" and has a newly developed long-life Gulton lithium battery system.

Dr. Leslie K. Gulton, president of Gulton Industries, said "for the first time in a half-century, the gasoline-burning automobile is about to share the road with an electrically powered car whose performance needs no apologies."

"We make no claim that the forthcoming electronic vehicle is about to put conventional cars out of business. What we do say is that we have made considerable strides toward the creation of an electronic car with characteristics far superior to any that have thus far been seen," he said.

Gulton said batteries made from lithium, the world's lightest metal, can store 10 times as much energy as conventional lead-acid batteries of the same size.

He said the batteries are expected to provide acceleration from zero to 50 mph in 20 seconds.

Gulton said the complete system can be fully recharged about 1,000 times over a period of three years. The batteries can be recharged in four hours.

The prototype has an over-all length of 85 inches, a width of 69½ inches and a height of 46 inches. It has a wheelbase of 60 inches and a tread of 60 inches. It has eight-inch wheels.

Tiburon Orders Bids For Firehouse Drain

Tiburon city councilmen debated long-distance drainage problems with the Tiburon Fire District and storekeeper Fred Mantegani last night, then authorized City Engineer Ray W. Foreaker to call for bids to get the work going.

In a meeting last Thursday, between directors of the district and City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose, the district had agreed to pay 20 per cent of the cost of installing drainage from the firehouse to Main Street.

However, a report last night from a drainage committee made up of council and planning commission members recommended the district pay to raise the floor of the firehouse to "achieve maximum effectiveness of the drainage system" and the city would then pick up the district's share of the drainage cost.

Mayor John S. Hoffmire explained to puzzled fire district representatives that Rose had not been authorized Thursday to negotiate on the second plan.

Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher told the council the fire engines would no longer fit in the firehouse if the floor were raised several inches, as the lower floor of the building has only a ten-foot ceiling.

Director Fred C. Hannash said the district had already found raising the firehouse not feasible.

Fred Mantegani, owner of the Corner Market across from the firehouse, which also has a flooding problem, urged the council to "do something about it. Let's get the water out."

Mantelgani is being asked to contribute the cost of a proposed drain front of his store, $1,400, but has not committed himself.

The original offer of the fire district to pay half of the cost was accepted by the council. Rose was authorized to negotiate with other "benefiting property owners" for the unbudgeted $2,200 needed for sidewalk construction and Foreaker was instructed to call for bids for the whole project.

"That's progress," acknowledged Mantegani after the vote.

In another decision on drainage, the council accepted Foreaker's recommendation that the city not contribute $250 to a further study of runoff water this winter, as requested by the City of Belvedere.

In other actions, the council agreed 4-1 to send a strong letter of protest to the public utilities commission, to a proposed raise in Greyhound bus fare rates, particularly those for commuter fares, before the Jan. 10 hearing.

Two commuters in the audience protested that the 51 per cent raise from $10.70 for 20 rides to $16.20 was unreasonable.

"It's pretty evident they are out to nick the commuters," Mayor Hoffmire agreed.

Councilman Gordon W. Strawbridge abstained from voting, as he claimed ignorance of the Greyhound company's reasons for wanting to raise the rates.

The Tiburon City Council also:

SIGN ORDINANCE — Reviewed 11 possible changes in the proposed sign ordinance, sent them to the planning commission along with letters from interested citizens, and recommended the commission hold at least one public hearing on the ordinance.

ORDINANCES ADOPTED — Unanimously adopted an ordinance awarding a franchise to Clear View Cable Systems, Inc. to install a community antenna television service in Tiburon, and one establishing a property transfer tax of 55 cents for each $500 of property value.

ASSESSMENT DISTRICT — Adopted several resolutions to set up a special assessment district for improvements in El Marinero subdivision, estimated at $282,874. The firm of Rhodes and Burton of Mill Valley was appointed to do engineering at a fee of $22,000.

PARALLEL PARKING — Urged by Mantegani to consider establishing parallel instead of perpendicular parking all along Tiburon Boulevard instead of for just 250 feet, the council deferred action until the Jan. 8 meeting.

TRAILS CONTRACT — Authorized Mayor Hoffmire to sign a contract with the county planning department to design a trail system for Tiburon Peninsula. The city will pay one-third of the cost, not to exceed $700, according to the agreement.

APPOINTMENT — Approved unanimously Mayor Hoffmire's recommendation that Elmo De Martini be reappointed to represent Tiburon on the Mosquito Abatement District board.

WATERFRONT PLAN — Heard a report from Vice Mayor Thomas E. Drohan that a verbal agreement has been reached between the Tiburon Peninsula Co. and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad to put their waterfront property together and design it as one parcel.

It's Voting Day On Peninsula

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — San Mateo County voters choose a congressman today to fill the seat vacated by the death of J. Arthur Younger, Republican.

The contenders are Democrat Roy A. Archibald, 48, and Republican Paul M. "Pete" McCloskey, 41, who defeated Shirley Temple Black, the former child movie star, and other candidates in an open primary Nov. 14.

The runoff election in the 11th Congressional District was expected to produce a turnout of 60 per cent of the county's 223,000 registered voters.

Another prize winner from Terra Linda High School was Liz Keating, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Keating, 387 Devon Drive. As a finalist, she was awarded a certificate of merit.

The contenders are Democrat Roy A. Archibald, 48, and Republican Paul M. "Pete" McCloskey, 41, who defeated Shirley Temple Black, the former child movie star, and other candidates in an open primary Nov. 14.

The runoff election in the 11th Congressional District was expected to produce a turnout of 60 per cent of the county's 223,000 registered voters.

Change Is Stolen From Gift Shop

A burglar yesterday evening forced the door of the house of Fraser Gift shop at Village Fair, Sausalito, and stole $25 in change from the cash register, Sausalito police reported today.

The crime took place between 5:15 and 8:40 p.m. when merchant patrolman Earl Holling discovered the break-in.

Auto Firm Unveils Peppy, Lightweight Electric Car

DETROIT (AP) — Development of an electronic automobile, shaped like an arrowhead and which its builders say will have a cruising speed of 50 miles per hour and a range of 150 miles without recharging, was announced today.

American Motors and Gulton Industries of Metuchen, N.J. disclosed details of the joint project.

An operational model of the electronic car will be road tested within a year, reported Roy D. Chapin Jr., chairman of the board of American Motors. No price was announced.

A prototype of the small, three-passenger commuter car was unveiled at a news conference. It is called the "Amitron" and has a newly developed long-life Gulton lithium battery system.

Dr. Leslie K. Gulton, president of Gulton Industries, said "for the first time in a half-century, the gasoline-burning automobile is about to share the road with an electrically powered car whose performance needs no apologies."

"We make no claim that the forthcoming electronic vehicle is about to put conventional cars out of business. What we do say is that we have made considerable strides toward the creation of an electronic car with characteristics far superior to any that have thus far been seen," he said.

Gulton said batteries made from lithium, the world's lightest metal, can store 10 times as much energy as conventional lead-acid batteries of the same size.

He said the batteries are expected to provide acceleration from zero to 50 mph in 20 seconds.

Gulton said the complete system can be fully recharged about 1,000 times over a period of three years. The batteries can be recharged in four hours.

The prototype has an over-all length of 85 inches, a width of 69½ inches and a height of 46 inches. It has a wheelbase of 60 inches and a tread of 60 inches. It has eight-inch wheels.

Hit In Lateral

A story in the Independent-Journal yesterday incorrectly reported that Daulat-Rai Mantravadi, 14, of 30-C Villa Drive, Mill Valley, was struck by an auto on Highway 101 Saturday, suffering a fractured leg. The boy was hit on the Sausalito lateral just below Highway 101.

Sausalito Due $112,000 For Classrooms

The Sausalito School District has received state approval of a $112,000 grant for portable classrooms to house first grade classes at Bayside School, the district board was told last night.

The money will buy five classrooms and one portable to be divided into a dispensary and a teachers' lounge.

The board decided last week to close Bayside after an engineering report branded the World War II building unsafe. The state money was authorized under Senate Bill 28 for classroom use in the district, and state officials have now approved the plan submitted by the administration.

BUS CHANGE

After hearing results of a bus survey, the board approved one change in pupil busing in an attempt to equalize the distances pupils must walk. Complaints were raised last month that Marin City pupils have had to walk more than a mile to school while children in Sausalito have access to buses although nearer school.

Busing is authorized for kindergarten through grade pupils living more than ¾ mile from school and for fourth through eighth graders living a mile or more from school.

ANOTHER BUS

The board recommended busing for Marin City pupils along Eureka, Buckelew and Pacheco streets and Dutton Court as soon as possible. The district plans to buy another bus to improve scheduling. The streets are slightly more than a mile from Richardson Bay School.

The board approved keeping bus stops at the heliport and at Easterby Street, although only .9 mile from Richardson Bay School, because there are no sidewalks and walking pupils would be exposed to heavy traffic.

The Sausalito school district board also:

EMPLOYEES — Approved two increased benefits for classified employees, but sent a third back to a study committee.

The board approved longevity pay of 5 per cent after 10 years, 10 per cent after 15 years and 15 per cent after 20 years. The boost, effective July 1, will cost $3,256 during 1968-9. Also approved were full holidays instead of half days on Good Friday, Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve.

The board returned to committee a proposal for longer vacations. The district now gives two weeks vacation for the first five years, then three weeks. Asked were three weeks from the first year and four weeks after five years.

PARENTS CLUB — Heard a report on formation of a Sausalito parents club and last week's organizational meeting.

CLOSED MEETING — Went into closed session to discuss a replacement for speech therapist, Wanda Jones, who is leaving Dec. 31 to go to Hawaii. No candidates were presented for the job.

MEETING — Agreed to meet at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 27 if action is needed then to get the Bayside portables. Otherwise the next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 3 at the district office.

TRANSFER — A proposed closed session on a pupil transfer request was postponed. The pupil's parent asked the delay because of illness.

Lagunitas Christmas Program On Thursday

Lagunitas Trustees Seek Septic Tank Alternates

Lagunitas School District trustees last night considered alternate proposals to the septic tank which had been planned for the school now under construction to meet Marin County Department of Public Health objections.

Supt. Marshall J. McCuniff reported that a plan similar to a septic tank, called the "Burton process" which uses redwood bark to cut bacteria will be discussed with the health department by the engineering firm for the school district, Yanow and Bauer of San Francisco. The Burton process would cost about the same —$15,000 as a septic tank to construct.

District trustees ruled too expensive the $25,000 cost of construction of a holding pond, with treated effluent to be used for watering and fertilizing district grounds in the summer, McCunnif said. This plan is backed by the health department.

Trustees set a teacher workshop for Jan. 26, when there will be no school and set a trustee-staff meeting for 7:30 p.m. Jan. 15 to discuss staffing of the non-graded school for 200 children now under construction next to Lagunitas School.

New Gold-Buying Rush Threatens U.S. Dollar

LONDON (UPI)—A wave of buyers besieged the London and Paris gold bullion markets today in a new threat against the U.S. dollar. The sterling price of gold hit a record.

Dealers said the surge in demand was the result of the Basle meetings of nations working the international gold pool. The Swiss meeting ended yesterday. The group has worked for years to keep the price of gold stable.

The Swiss Credit Bank said gold buying was twice as high today in Swiss banks as yesterday. There were no early figures.

The pound sterling price of gold moved today to 292-10½ pence to the fine ounce, the highest ever, but this mirrored the weakness of the pound as much as the demand factor.

The dollar price held at $35.19-⅝ the fine ounce which was just one quarter cent below the official ceiling at which the gold pool permits the price to rise.

But demand continued strong and one dealer told UPI he was quoting $35.21 because strong demand justified that price.

A Financial Times editorial today said the latest official U.S. figures of the cost to its reserves of meeting the recent gold rush had reawakened doubts about ability to keep the price of gold at $35 an ounce.

Boat Escapes Being Hit By Freighter

Three San Rafael men, on a small boat, in Sunday night's fog in San Francisco Bay, narrowly escaped being hit by a freighter that bore down on them in the murk.

"I never saw anything as big as that in my life," said Mervyn Attell, 25, of 530 Canal Street, who was skippering their 25-foot Monterey fishing boat. "It didn't miss us by more than 60 feet."

With Attell on the boat were his brother, Peter Attell, 22, of 400 Canal Street, and a friend, William Miller, 25, of 530 Canal Street. They were coming back from Tiburon to San Rafael Sunday night when the fog set in and they were forced to anchor.

"We must have been anchored in deep water somewhere near the Richmond Bridge," said Attell. "It was about 3 a.m. when I saw the lights of this freighter coming down on us, at first I thought we had started drifting and were nearing Alcatraz Island.

"We had our lights off to save the batteries. I jumped up, started the engine and threw it into reverse. The freighter went by us about 60 feet away."

Firemen Plan Fete

Final plans for their annual Christmas party were made last night by Novato volunteer firemen at their regular meeting in the main fire station. Santa Claus will be at the main fire station from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Dec. 23 to greet the children and pass out candy and oranges.

New Gold-Buying Rush Threatens U.S. Dollar

LONDON (UPI)—A wave of buyers besieged the London and Paris gold bullion markets today in a new threat against the U.S. dollar. The sterling price of gold hit a record.

Dealers said the surge in demand was the result of the Basle meetings of nations working the international gold pool. The Swiss meeting ended yesterday. The group has worked for years to keep the price of gold stable.

The Swiss Credit Bank said gold buying was twice as high today in Swiss banks as yesterday. There were no early figures.

The pound sterling price of gold moved today to 292-10½ pence to the fine ounce, the highest ever, but this mirrored the weakness of the pound as much as the demand factor.

The dollar price held at $35.19-⅜ the fine ounce which was just one quarter cent below the official ceiling at which the gold pool permits the price to rise.

But demand continued strong and one dealer told UPI he was quoting $35.21 because strong demand justified that price.

A Financial Times editorial today said the latest official U.S. figures of the cost to its reserves of meeting the recent gold rush had reawakened doubts about ability to keep the price of gold at $35 an ounce.

Swedish Festival Of Lights Planned By Mama Gravander

By MOLLY MARIN

Mrs. Axel Gravander, Mill Valley's noted Swedish weaver who is better known as "Mama" Gravander, will have her traditional Santa Lucia party on Sunday at her home. Some 70 neighbors and their children will attend the party, highlighted by the Santa Lucia ceremony at 7 p.m. The parties, which Mama Gravander has been giving ever since she came to Mill Valley in 1944, are in observance of the Swedish Festival of Santa Lucia, or Festival of Lights, actually on Dec. 13, which celebrates the return of light to the world.

ON THAT day the eldest or prettiest daughter, wearing a long white robe and crown of lighted candles, serves refreshments to the rest of the family before dawn, saying as she enters their rooms, "Today is the darkest day of the year, but Santa Lucia brings you light and cheer." This year 10-year-old Bridget Siedler, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Duane H. Siedler of Mill Valley, will be wearing the crown of lighted candles as Santa Lucia. Almost equally important is the traditional cookie baking for the party that the children will do all day on Saturday at Mama Gravander's home. Sylvia Newsom will do the supervising.

THEIR TRADITIONAL Christmas Bauble party, now in its 10th year, will be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Witter of Belvedere on Saturday. Thirty-six friends have been invited to bring an ornament for the tree and enjoyed cocktails and buffet supper at the Witters' Lagoon home. The couple's son, Jack, a senior at the University of Colorado, will arrive home in time for the holiday party.

HENRY CALVERT DUN is the name chosen for their new son by the Rev. and Mrs. Angus Dun Jr. of Greenbrae. He will be christened on Sunday at Christ Episcopal church in Sausalito. Godparents will be Jack Millar of Napili Bay, Maui, and Mr. and Mrs. Yates Calvert Greer of Yreka. His grandparents are the Rt. Rev. and Mrs. Angus Dun of Washington, D.C. and Andrew Olsen of San Francisco.

MR. AND MRS. Myron Du Bain of Kent Woodlands will be entertaining at cocktails before the Marin Debutante Ball Dec. 21. Their daughter, Cynthia Du Bain, who was presented at the Presbyterian Hospital Ball in San Francisco in June, will attend with her escort, Robert Thomas. Guests include Messrs. and Mesdames Russell Pierce, Gerald Stratford, and Philip Cox, Marian Pierce and her escort, Ross and John MacKay and their dates.

VISITING the Tim Harrises of Belvedere during the holiday season will be Tim's mother, Mrs. J. S. Harris of Boston. She will fly out with her grandson, Robin Harris, who is attending St. Mary's Academy near Boston, and will also be spending the Christmas vacation in Belvedere with his family.

FOR THE Belvedere Volunteer Firemen's annual children's party, set for 2 p.m. Saturday, Mrs. James McGuiness of Belvedere is baking dozens of cookies in the shape of fire trucks. These will be used, along with ornaments being made by the children, on the tree in the firemen's quarter's. The Belvedere volunteers and their wives will have a holiday dinner party Friday, and will decorate the tree during the evening.

RESIDENTS AT The Tropicana in San Rafael were entertained Saturday night at a Christmas cocktail party hosted by the Paul Sades and George Laufenbergs.

A FAMILY SUPPER party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Kilgore in Paradise Cove was given Sunday to honor the Kilgores' daughter, Bea, who was confirmed at St. Stephens Chruch, Belvedere, earlier in the day. Bea and Ann Lamott are among Tiburon Peninsula youngsters planning to play in the Rancho Park celebrity tennis tournament at Cheviot Hills Dec. 15-19. The girls will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Gordon, frequent visitors in Belvedere, at their home in Brentwood.

Story Exhibit Tour Planned

An excursion to the De Young Museum's Christmas story exhibit is planned by families of the Community Congregational Church of Belvedere-Tiburon on Dec. 20. The group will meet at 3 p.m. at the church.

Mrs. K. L. Rice Jr. of Tiburon, a docent at the De Young Museum, will conduct the museum tour beginning at 4 p.m. The exhibit includes an arrangement of paintings and sculpture with the Christmas theme in the museum's permanent collection, plus 76 prints and drawings on loan from the California Palace of the Legion of Honor from the Auchenbach Foundation for Graphic Arts.

Mrs. Herbert Drake, chairman, and Mrs. E. R. Jerome, assistant, have planned a dinner at a San Francisco restaurant after the tour.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Was Egged On Halloween, Should Learn To Control Impulses

DEAR HELEN:

I've liked this boy for a year and everyone said he liked me. We don't get to see each other much as we go to different schools.

Well, on Halloween night we were fooling around on our block and we met him. I don't know what came over me, but I took an egg and smashed it over his head. He had on this goony looking hat which he treasured and it was ruined!

I told him I was sorry, but he threw three eggs at me. I didn't feel bad over that as I knew I deserved them.

Since then I haven't seen him very much and I'm afraid he is mad at me. Do you think I should buy a hat like his and send it to him? Why can't boys understand that girls sometimes do crazy things because they like them? — EGGED ON

DEAR E. O.:

They do—sometimes. But that doesn't bring back a favorite hat, nor would a new replacement be the same. A hat has to be old and experienced before it becomes goony.

However, three eggings for one should have evened the score. Act natural when you see him, and don't build a case out of ancient history.

Moral: She who follows an irresistible impulse may end up with egg on her face! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My sister eloped with a boy a year ago. She dropped out of school and they got married.

Every time the subject comes up, my mother blames me for making her elope. She says I had so many fights with her I forced her to run away.

Lately my mother has been blaming me for everything that goes wrong. Whenever there's a fight in the family, I'm the one who is yelled at. Otherwise, both my parents ignore me, and act like they hate me.

Helen, I need someone to talk to. I have fears and problems and lots of tears, but who'll understand me? — CRAVING FOR LOVE

DEAR CRAVING:

Shoving the blame off on someone else is much easier than smouldering it, so your mother makes you the scapegoat for family troubles.

On the other hand, you're just as busy blaming your parents for their failures, and your unhappiness. Perhaps you're making them the scapegoat for your lacks too.

Won't you try my one-week peace plan? For the next seven days pretend you're vising in the home of distant relatives you'd like to impress. Volunteer for work: do your regular chores without being told: be polite and thoughtful of others (even when they aren't); don't lose your temper (even when you're baited). If you can manage all these things, I think you'll see a decided change for the better in a week. It won't be easy, but it's worth a try. — H.

DEAR HELEN

Over a year ago, while I was in Hawaii on vacation, I met a sailor who made my visit perfect. We enjoyed each others' company, but figuring the chances that we'd ever meet again were slight, we decided writing would be silly.

Ever since, I've thought of him. All I know is his name and his home town, which is rather small. How could I get in touch? — C. L.

DEAR C:

Why not send a letter to him in an envelope addressed to the postmaster of his small hometown? Explain your situation, and if the postmaster has any romance in his soul, he'll look up the address and send the letter on. Good luck. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Japanese Have Headache Cure

NEW YORK (UPI)—Through the ages man has dealt with headache with a variety of techniques.

Consider the Japanese method, as outlined by the Chiropractic Headache Clinic in Maywood, N.J. The Japanese utilize a principle called "negi.' ' This involved the individual sufferer biting on specially grown green onions with the back molars on that side of the mouth where the headache occurred. The bite was to be maintained until the headache went away.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Was Egged On Halloween, Should Learn To Control Impulses

DEAR HELEN:

I've liked this boy for a year and everyone said he liked me. We don't get to see each other much as we go to different schools.

Well, on Halloween night we were fooling around on our block and we met him. I don't know what came over me, but I took an egg and smashed it over his head. He had on this goony looking hat which he treasured and it was ruined!

I told him I was sorry, but he threw three eggs at me. I didn't feel bad over that as I knew I deserved them.

Since then I haven't seen him very much and I'm afraid he is mad at me. Do you think I should buy a hat like his and send it to him? Why can't boys understand that girls sometimes do crazy things because they like them? — EGGED ON

DEAR E. O.:

They do—sometimes. But that doesn't bring back a favorite hat, nor would a new replacement be the same. A hat has to be old and experienced before it becomes goony.

However, three eggings for one should have evened the score. Act natural when you see him, and don't build a case out of ancient history.

Moral: She who follows an irresistible impulse may end up with egg on her face! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My sister eloped with a boy a year ago. She dropped out of school and they got married.

Every time the subject comes up, my mother blames me for making her elope. She says I had so many fights with her I forced her to run away.

Lately my mother has been blaming me for everything that goes wrong. Whenever there's a fight in the family, I'm the one who is yelled at. Otherwise, both my parents ignore me, and act like they hate me.

Helen, I need someone to talk to. I have fears and problems and lots of tears, but who'll understand me? — CRAVING FOR LOVE

DEAR CRAVING:

Shoving the blame off on someone else is much easier than smouldering it, so your mother makes you the scapegoat for family troubles.

On the other hand, you're just as busy blaming your parents for their failures, and your unhappiness. Perhaps you're making them the scapegoat for your lacks too.

Won't you try my one-week peace plan? For the next seven days pretend you're vising in the home of distant relatives you'd like to impress. Volunteer for work: do your regular chores without being told: be polite and thoughtful of others (even when they aren't): don't lose your temper (even when you're baited). If you can manage all these things, I think you'll see a decided change for the better in a week. It won't be easy, but it's worth a try. — H.

DEAR HELEN

Over a year ago, while I was in Hawaii on vacation, I met a sailor who made my visit perfect. We enjoyed each others' company, but figuring the chances that we'd ever meet again were slight, we decided writing would be silly.

Ever since, I've thought of him. All I know is his name and his home town, which is rather small. How could I get in touch? — C. L.

DEAR C:

Why not send a letter to him in an envelope addressed to the postmaster of his small hometown? Explain your situation, and if the postmaster has any romance in his soul, he'll look up the address and send the letter on. Good luck. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Women Arrested As Dope Suspects

Three young women were booked into Marin County Jail early today on suspicion of narcotics offenses after San Rafael police said they found equipment in the apartment of one.

Leslie Stott, 19, of 2 Allen Avenue, Ross; Linda Mayer, 18, of no fixed address; and Loreen G. Edwards of the Bermuda Palms Motel, San Rafael, were booked on suspicion of possession of narcotic paraphernalia.

Miss Mayer was further booked on suspicion of possessing stolen credit cards.

San Rafael police said they talked to the trio in the apartment of Loreen Edwards at 3:54 a.m. today. Officers wanted to know why two of the women were seen climbing through a window of the motel.

In the apartment, police said they found equipment including hypodermic needles, eyedroppers and spoons, apparently used for taking drugs.

Hearing Is Set On Extension Of Rentals In Ross

Ross Town Council, sitting as a planning commission, will have a public hearing on extending the deadline for enforcement of an ordinance outlawing non-conforming rental units at 8 p.m. Thursday at Town Hall.

The deadline is Feb. 10 and the council is scheduled to consider extending it to Aug. 10.

There also will be a public hearing on an ordinance change that would permit owners with guest houses on lots smaller than an acre the right to apply for use permits. At present, only those with guest houses on one acre or more may apply.

Sitting as a council, councilmen will consider introduction of an ordinance reducing the speed limits on Laurel Grove Avenue and Lagunitas Road from 30 miles an hour to 25 miles an hour.

The state flower of Alabama is the camellia.

Bach To Mozart Concert Is Sunday

The Bach to Mozart group will present the second concert in the current Candlelight series Sunday at 8 p.m. in Brown's Hall, Mill Valley, not Monday, as erroneously stated in the Independent-Journal Saturday. The concerts are sponsored by the Homestead Valley Improvement Club.

Arias and cantatas from the Christmas Oratorio of J. S. Bach will be performed as well as songs by Pergloesi, four Blake songs by Vaughan Williams and J. S Bach's Sinfonia for oboe, strings and continuo.

Session Due On Employee Relations

Marin County Personnel Commissioners want to take another look at the employer-employee relations policy, which they approved unanimously last month.

They will meet at 3 p.m. Thursday for "further discussion and clarification" of the policy statement that was drafted after several meetings with employee representatives.

The meeting will be devoted entirely to that one subject, and the regular commission agenda will resume in January, personnel director Robert D. Elliott reported.

The employer-employee relations policy outlines the methods by which employee organizations are set up, their rights and responsibilities, freedom from domination or pressure by management, and grievance procedures.

The policy was approved at the last meeting on Nov. 16, but commissioners want to take one more look before recommending its adoption by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

John MacPhail School Caroling On Friday

Christmas caroling will be heard at the John MacPhail School in Santa Venetia Friday with the lower grades performing from 1 to 1:30 p.m. and the upper grades at 2:15 p.m.

Entries in a school-wide coloring contest will be on display in the school hallways.

Trembling Bandit Gets $100 In Delicatessen

bled so much he had to steady himself against a counter, grabbed about $100 from Perry's Delicatessen at 1005 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, last night, said police.

He made his escape after hitting shop assistant William Eggers across the head with the gun.

Still being sought today was the robber, described as Latin-looking, aged 23 to 25, six feet tall and wearing a brown sweater, light brown trousers and brown leather desert boots.

Eggers, 28, said the bandit walked into the store about 10:30 p.m. and held a snub-nosed revolver in his left hand.

"This is a stickup. Give me everything in the drawer and put it in a paper bag," he demanded. With the money in his right hand, the robber told Eggers: "If anybody walks in now, you're dead."

After ordering the assistant to turn around, the gunman jumped the counter and hit him on the head with the weapon.

Eggers fell to the floor but did not lose consciousness. He told police he heard the man leave and he called police.

He said the bandit appeared to shake when he pointed the gun and had to hold his hand against the counter for support.

Performance Set For 'The Crucible'

Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" will be presented again this weekend by the Tamalpais High School drama department.

The play, which opened last weekend, will be presented at 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday at Ruby Scott Auditorium. Director is Daniel Caldwell, assisted by Margo Jones.

Extra Showing Of Play Is Set

An additional performance of "Hansel and Gretel" will be given by the opera workshop at 11 a.m. in the new music building at Sonoma State College.

Marin singers appearing in this performance will be Anna Secrist of Novato as the dew fairy; Marjorie Broughton of San Rafael as the mother and Lori Kutsko of Sausalito as the witch.

The extra performance was scheduled because the 2 p.m. performance Saturday is sold out.

Meeting Called Off

San Anselmo design review committee will not meet tomorrow because no applications were received. Next scheduled meeting is at 8 p.m. on Dec. 27 in the city council chambers.

School Bond Group Names Assistants

A 10-member committee to aid Tamalpais High School District in holding another multi-million dollar bond issue last night appointed Frank Miller of Greenbrae to serve as vice chairman of the committee.

He also will head a sub-committee to review district student enrollment projections for the next 10 years.

David Faw of San Anselmo was named to head a sub-committee to look into construction costs if the bond issue passes, and George Stone of Fairfax will head a subcommittee to study transportation problems that would arise.

The committee has recommended that the district place the issue on the June 4 primary election ballot. The $12.3 million bond issue would build new high schools at Tiburon and San Geronimo and additions to existing high schools. A similar issue was defeated in the Oct. 10 election.

Mrs. James Compton of Greenbrae is committee chairman.

'Hansel And Gretel' Due This Weekend

A new version of "Hansel and Gretel" will be presented at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday by the Tamalpais High School drama department at the Mill Valley golf clubhouse. Performances are under the auspices of the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts.

Court Gives Vets Vacation Wages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has ruled that servicemen who return to their jobs must be paid for holidays and vacations they earned before going into service.

Justices William O. Douglas, John M. Harlan and Potter Stewart dissented and Justice Thurgood Marshall did not participate in the case brought by four employees of Magma Copper Co. at San Manuel, Ariz.

The majority cited a 1966 ruling upholding the seniority rights of returning servicemen. The dissenters declared the Magma case concerns fringe benefits rather than seniority and said Magma had followed appropriate Selective Service provisions.

ASHIBETSU, Japan (UPI)—Dentist Yoshitaka Kawahara has pulled about 60,000 teeth in his 20 years of practice in this Hokkaido city, and he's not going to let the world forget it.

Kawahara buried 54,000 of the teeth recently and then erected a monument shaped like a tooth over them. He plans to turn the area into a park with the tooth-monument in the middle—probably the only park in the world dedicated to pulled teeth.

NOT THINKING

When today's hand was played, South was thinking of overtricks or, perhaps, not thinking at all. He lost the first club trick to the ace, won the club return in dummy and led out the ace and king of spades.

This would have brought in an overtrick if the queen of spades had dropped on the second spade, but the actual spade break gave East two trump tricks. The ace of diamonds took the setting trick.

CAUTIOUS PLAY

South should play to avoid the loss of two trump tricks. After winning the first trump with the ace he should lead a low trump toward dummy.

If West started with Q-10-x-x of trumps, he could step up with the queen of trumps, but then dummy's jack and South's king would draw the rest. In the actual hand East would capture dummy's jack of trumps with the queen.

RUFF CLUB

South would ruff the club return, enter dummy with the ace of hearts and lead a trump for a finesse through the 10-8 with the K-9 in the South hand. South would have to use up all of his trumps to draw those held by East.

South would then lead diamonds to force out the ace. If East had the last club, South would be down one; but South would make his contract since the opponent with the ace of diamonds could not return a club.

The play of the second trump trick is worth remembering since it gives South his best chance to limit the trump loss to one trick even if the trumps break badly.

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

You have 12 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton, enough for an optional opening bid. You decide to bid because you have a strong five-card spade suit.

Science Discovers Singing Flames

SUNNYVALE (AP) — God spoke to Moses from a burning bush, the Bible says. That was about 3,200 years ago.

Today, three scientists at United Technology Center are using flames experimentally to produce sounds. But they admit they don't know how it works.

Wayne Babcock, Dr. A. G. Cattaneo and K. L. Baker, the rocket propulsion company researchers, hooked a power source and an amplifier to an ordinary acetyline torch and ran a tape recording into the system.

STARTLING RESULTS

"We were quite startled to hear the flame of the torch reproducing the sounds from the tape recording," Babcock said.

He said they are studying the discovery for possible use in evaluating the combustion efficiency of experimental liquid rocket engines by taking sound recordings from the superhot flames inside the combustion chamber of a rocket being fired.

"More down-to-earth applications might be musical fireplaces or musical candles for the dinner table at home or in restaurants," Babcock added.

NEW LOUDSPEAKER

Dr. Cattaneo said, "by using a flame, we have introduced the world's only omnidirectional loudspeaker. This means that sounds are emitted from the flame in all directions with equal force. This could prove important to future sound systems in such places as auditoriums and movie houses where, at the present time, somebody is always being blasted out of his seat or can't hear well because of his position relative to the placement of loudspeakers."

Cattaneo said flame can reproduce sounds no matter how closely spaced, while the best loudspeaker available would have trouble with some sound trains because its diaphragm must physically move each time a sound is reproduced.

"This phenomena could prove important in the development of very high-speed information transmission systems and superfidelity loudspeakers," Babcock said.

The researchers found that flames can contain the elements of sound. This means, they explained, that an eavesdropper could pick a known electronic device on the candle flame.

The scientists said interaction between sound and flames was first reported by John Leconte in 1858 and has been studied by many others since. But they they are apparently the first to discover that flames can reproduce sound.

Haitian Police Chief Reported As Wounded

GENEVA (AP) — Elois Maitre, chief of Haitian Dictator Francois Duvalier's brutal Ton Ton Macoute, was shot and critically wounded at Port au Prince's International Airport Dec. 7, a Haitian exile leader claimed today.

Raymond Alcide Joseph, secretary-general of the New York-based Haitian Coalition, said he received the news from intelligence sources during his current trip to Europe. He has been contacting other exiles.

Maitre was the chief of Duvalier's notorious secret police.

Lake Merrit, Oakland, is the oldest wildlife sanctuary in North America. It is a haven for ducks, geese and other waterfowl and was established by Samuel Merritt soon after the Gold Rush.

Possessing LSD Charge Is Filed

Toni Novak, 22, of San Francisco, was charged by the Marin County District Attorney's office yesterday of possessing LSD Oct. 22, when she was arrested by the California Highway Patrol.

Her attorney, William B. Wolfson, argued to Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley that the charge was improperly brought, since she was neither indicted by the grand jury nor confronted with evidence of LSD possession at a recent preliminary hearing.

Judge Haley arraigned Miss Novak on a charge of marijuana possession, stemming from her arrest by the Highway Patrol, but postponed arraignment on the LSD charge until Jan. 2.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales argued that he has authority to bring the charge and said there was evidence of LSD possession introduced the the preliminary hearing.

A Hollowed Out Book Is Found

Eleven-year-old Paul Farnham of Mill Valley found a funny sort of book Saturday while he and his brother were playing in West Blithedale Redwood Park.

The book's pages were hollowed out and inside were four wooden matches, a small aluminum clip and a small amount of what police believe to be marijuana.

Paul took the book home to his mother, Mrs. John P. Farnham of 216 Corte Madera Avenue, who passed it on to police. Police sent it to the state Narcotics Bureau for disposal.

Title of the book was not given in the police report.

Science Discovers Singing Flames

SUNNYVALE (AP) — God spoke to Moses from a burning bush, the Bible says. That was about 3,200 years ago.

Today, three scientists at United Technology Center are using flames experimentally to produce sounds. But they admit they don't know how it works.

Wayne Babcock, Dr. A. G. Cattaneo and K. L. Baker, the rocket propulsion company researchers, hooked a power source and an amplifier to an ordinary acetyline torch and ran a tape recording into the system.

STARTLING RESULTS

"We were quite startled to hear the flame of the torch reproducing the sounds from the tape recording," Babcock said.

He said they are studying the discovery for possible use in evaluating the combustion efficiency of experimental liquid rocket engines by taking sound recordings from the superhot flames inside the combustion chamber of a rocket being fired.

"More down-to-earth applications might be musical fireplaces or musical candles for the dinner table at home or in restaurants," Babcock added.

NEW LOUDSPEAKER

Dr. Cattaneo said, "by using a flame, we have introduced the world's only omnidirectional loudspeaker. This means that sounds are emitted from the flame in all directions with equal force. This could prove important to future sound systems in such places as auditoriums and movie houses where, at the present time, somebody is always being blasted out of his seat or can't hear well because of his position relative to the placement of loudspeakers."

Cattaneo said flame can reproduce sounds no matter how closely spaced, while the best loudspeaker available would have trouble with some sound trains because its diaphragm must physically move each time a sound is reproduced.

"This phenomena could prove important in the development of very high-speed information transmission systems and superfidelity loudspeakers," Babcock said.

The researchers found that flames can contain the elements of sound. This means, they explained, that an eavesdropper could pick a known electronic device on the candle flame.

The scientists said interaction between sound and flames was first reported by John Leconte in 1858 and has been studied by many others since. But they they are apparently the first to discover that flames can reproduce sound.

Haitian Police Chief Reported As Wounded

GENEVA (AP) — Elois Maitre, chief of Haitian Dictator Francois Duvalier's brutal Ton Ton Macoute, was shot and critically wounded at Port au Prince's International Airport Dec. 7, a Haitian exile leader claimed today.

Raymond Alcide Joseph, secretary-general of the New York-based Haitian Coalition, said he received the news from intelligence sources during his current trip to Europe. He has been contacting other exiles.

Maitre was the chief of Duvalier's notorious secret police.

Lake Merrit, Oakland, is the oldest wildlife sanctuary in North America. It is a haven for ducks, geese and other waterfowl and was established by Samuel Merritt soon after the Gold Rush.

Possessing LSD Charge Is Filed

Toni Novak, 22, of San Francisco, was charged by the Marin County District Attorney's office yesterday of possessing LSD Oct. 22, when she was arrested by the California Highway Patrol.

Her attorney, William B. Wolfson, argued to Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley that the charge was improperly brought, since she was neither indicted by the grand jury nor confronted with evidence of LSD possession at a recent preliminary hearing.

Judge Haley arraigned Miss Novak on a charge of marijuana possession, stemming from her arrest by the Highway Patrol, but postponed arraignment on the LSD charge until Jan. 2.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales argued that he has authority to bring the charge and said there was evidence of LSD possession introduced the the preliminary hearing.

A Hollowed Out Book Is Found

Eleven-year-old Paul Farnham of Mill Valley found a funny sort of book Saturday while he and his brother were playing in West Blithedale Redwood Park.

The book's pages were hollowed out and inside were four wooden matches, a small aluminum clip and a small amount of what police believe to be marijuana.

Paul took the book home to his mother, Mrs. John P. Farnham of 216 Corte Madera Avenue, who passed it on to police. Police sent it to the state Narcotics Bureau for disposal.

Title of the book was not given in the police report.

Commodore K. Thanabalasingam said the frigate is being purchased for $11.3 million from Britain. It is to be launched in Portsmouth later this month. The navy now has 3,000 officers and men, one frigate, 20 patrol craft and eight minesweepers.

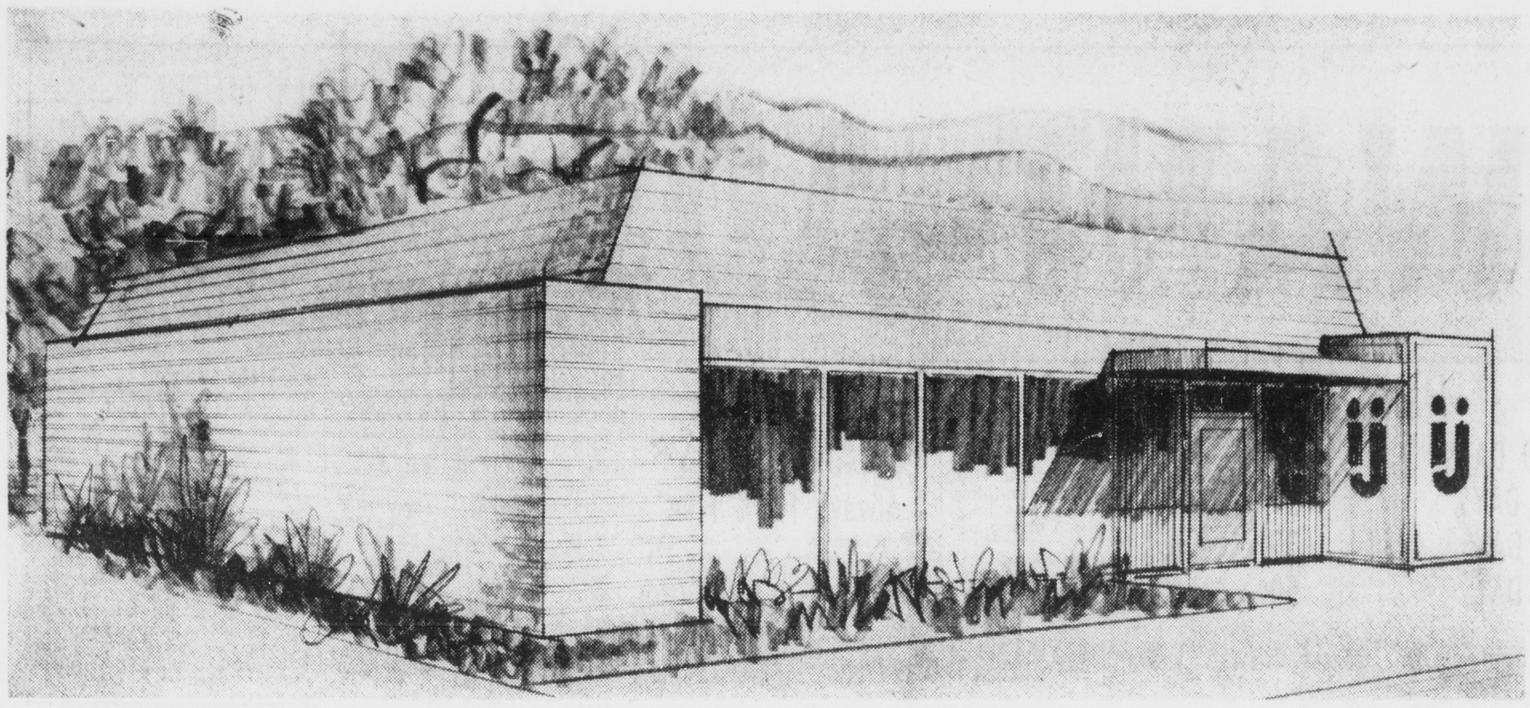
Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1967 19



NEW I-J OFFICE — Architect's drawing depicts new North Marin bureau of the Independent-Journal in Novato. Building is expected to be finished in 60 to 90 days.

Marijuana Problem Minor, San Rafael Parents Told

The marijuana problem at San Rafael High School "is nothing at all" compared to that at Redwood and Tamalpais high schools, according to the San Rafael student body president.

Student President Tom Bales gave this assurance last night at a special board meeting of the San Rafael High School Parent-Teacher Association, called as result of violence during a brief blackout in the school's Liberal Arts Building last Wednesday

"If your kids want marijuana, they can get it. . . They can get it any place," young Bales told the parents. But, he said, "I think it's pretty overly exaggerated. . . I've never seen smoking of marijuana on campus. . . Definitely there's been a problem at Redwood and Tam. Compared to their problems we have nothing at all."

One parent had reported children were approached by pushers at the school. Another said, "They give them (marijuana cigarettes) away."

Principal Alan L. Elsberg said the school has had one case "where we felt rather certain the student was high on marijuana" and the past week a case where a student was found with marijuana in his possession. Both were suspended and turned over to police, he said.

Gary Mordue, chief of the student police, said, "We have heard marijuana is used on the football field," but "I'm sure no student will ever be approached to buy marijuana on the campus."

Cigarette smoking is a greater problem to the school, according to both Elsberg and young Mordue. The principal said "at least half the students smoke," and said enforcement of the law against smoking at the school is difficult "Because so many parents smoke at home."

Mordue said he felt the campus police could enforce the ban on both marijuana and tobacco on campus if they were given the authority to do so.

He said he now has 35 students on the campus police force and is to get 11 more. Their principal duty has been to apprehend students for littering the campus — a problem he said is worse this year than last.

Both Mordue and Bales deplored a decline in school spirit this year.

The blackout incident, in which three girls were roughed up and one of them cut when a student threw the switch to black out the Liberal Arts Building during the lunch hour, was reviewed by Elsberg with little change from previous reports.

He said Angelo Colombo, administrative assistant, was patrolling the building at the time and called for help, being "very disturbed."

"He said it was a pretty bad scene," the principal reported. (Colombo was not present at last night's meeting.)

Elsberg said initial reports were that a girl had been knifed, "and we even had a description of the knife, but later on the knife kind of disappeared."

The principal said he had not been misquoted in the Independent-Journal report of the incident but objected to the prominent position given the news story.

Young Mordue, however, said he felt exaggerated reports of the blackout violence mostly resulted from word-of-mouth stories by students. Many such stories were in circulation before a report appeared in the newspaper, he noted.

FORUM SURVIVES

Officials Battle Over Police Plan

A forum for city-county cooperation almost went down the drain last night with a bitter argument between two members of the City-County Services Committee — Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Mill Valley Councilman Michael Wornum.

Even before the meeting started, Kettenhofen demanded an apology from Wornum for a statement made by Mill Valley Mayor Albert E. White, criticizing Kettenhofen's "contadictory" vote on a county services area for police services.

SHIFT DENIED

At the Mill Valley council meeting last week, the mayor lambasted Kettenhofen for voting "yes" as a member of the City-County Services Committee and then voting "no" as a member of the board of supervisors.

"I have been consistent throughout," said Kettenhofen. He explained that he voted for a county services area for police services with higher taxes to be paid only by those communities who want better police service than now. "But I won't vote for additional taxes at the present level of services," said Kettenhofen.

At the supervisors meeting, Kettenhofen said it became evident that higher taxes would be imposed on unincorporated areas with no change in police services. Therefore he voted no.

COST SHARING

If unincorporated areas must pay a bigger share for sheriff's services, then the same pattern should be followed in the cost sharing of the county public works department and the county planning department. "We'd be getting into $10 million, and you're destroying county government," said Kettenhofen. "I'm surprised you take that stand," he told Wornum, "because you are running for the county government which you want to destroy." (Wornum is running for supervisor.)

"I'll admit your attitude was consistent but your vote was contradictory," replied Wornum. He said the record will show that Kettenhofen voted for the county service area for police protection "without any strings attached" at the City-County Services Committee, then voted no on the Board of Supervisors.

TAXES, SERVICE

Kettenhofen insisted his "yes" vote was conditioned on no additional taxes at the present level of police services.

Furthermore, said Kettenhofen, there is no reason why a City-County Services Committee member cannot vote one way as a committee member and then vote another as a supervisor or city councilman if later evidence is conclusive enough to change his views. "Even if I had voted differently, which I hadn't, I should not have been critized," insisted Kettenhofen.

BALKS AT VOTE

"If you're going to lock me to my vote here, then I'm forced to be non-commital here and wait until I vote as a county supervisor," said Kettenhofen. On those grounds, Kettenhofen said he would abstain from voting on any item that came up last night.

"Then we can't conduct any business here tonight because we have only two city representatives voting," said Novato Councilman Douglas Merrill. Wornum and Merrill represent cities, and Kettenhofen and Supervisor John F. McInnis represent the county on the Committee. McInnis missed the first part of the meeting because he was attending a flood control meeting elsewhere in the Civic Center.

ABOLITION TALK

Abolition of the City-County Services Committee came up several times during the discussion. "The committee itself is in jeopardy," said Merrill. "This is the only means of communication between the cities and the county."

"God help us if we don't have a forum where we can meet," said Wornum.

Wornum conceded this much to Kettenhofen: "If you would like a retraction from me that you were not dishonest in your vote, I'll do that, although I still think it was a pity you voted that way."

Kettenhofen in turn told Wornum: "I don't think you did it with malice, but it was thoughtless!"

"Is there any need to question whether this committee should continue to exist?" asked Wornum.

McInnis, who joined the meeting at 9:30 p.m. purred tactfully: "I wouldn't even suggest that such a possibility exists, even if it did."

The City-County Services Committee thus remained intact, as tempers cooled. Both Wornum and Kettenhofen were chiding each other in friendly fashion before the meeting was over.

Wornum said he recognizes Kettenhofen's right to vote as he chooses. "I hate your guts but recognize your right to vote the way you see it."

I-J Building New Offices In Novato

The Independent-Journal announced today construction would begin this week on a new North Marin bureau in Novato.

Publisher Wishard A. Brown said the 38-by-30 foot building will house classified and display advertising offices and news, society and circulation staffs.

$25,000 COST

Cost of the new building, at 1535 Grant Avenue, is estimated at $25,000. The Independent-Journal office in Novato is now at 866 Grant Avenue.

"We are pleased to be making this investment in Novato," Brown said today. "We have great faith in the future growth and prosperity in the Novato area.

"More than 6,000 families in the area now subscribe to the Independent-Journal, and we wish to continue to serve them in first-rate fashion. We believe our new offices will be a credit both to Novato and to the Independent-Journal."

The building will be of slumpstone and stucco design, and architecturally compatible with the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and new Wells Fargo Bank buildings in the block, west of Fifth Street. Construction is expected to take 60 to 90 days, Eugene D. McGillicuddy, Novato contractor, said.

PROPERTY SOLD

Sale of the property was handled by Dan Poliak of Bellucci Realty in Novato. Architects are Bushnell, Jessup, Murphy and Van De Weghe of San Francisco.

It is the first bureau office to be built by the Independent-Journal newspaper, which also has bureaus in Corte Madera, Mill Valley, Tiburon and the Civic Center.

Ross School Asks Police Traffic Help

Ross police will be asked to direct traffic at Ross School during closing hours, especially on rainy days, to cut traffic congestion which might endanger pupils crossing streets.

Supt. Robert D. Gowan told Ross School trustees last night of double parking and congestion near the school and said he would confer with police in an effort to lessen it.

Trustees heard a report on grading and grouping of pupils for individual differences in learning in the third and fourth grades.

Trustees hired Mrs. Marjorie Beckwith as a seventh-eighth grade English teacher, beginning in January, at an annual salary of $9,500. They approved a workmen's compensation policy coverage of some 30 volunteer teacher aides and library workers, most of them mothers of pupils, at no expected added cost to the district, Gowan reported.

Marin May Tie Into Bay Police Computer

A police information hookup with Alameda County that would bring Marin County within a Bay Area network of almost instantaneous exchange of police information won the endorsement of the City-County Services Committee last night.

Assistant Administrator John F. Barrows reported that the police information network services would be added to the centralized county drug abuse bureau, and a centralized police services council would administer the information exchange.

ON AGENDA

A proposed joint powers agreement between Marin and Alameda County to set up the exchange was to be considered today by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

John F. McInnis, member of the City-County Services Committee, described the police information network as "fabulous."

He said information can be requested from a computer "by auto license, driver's license, or by name, and the person's police record comes back in about six seconds."

The City-County Services Committee last night also approved the formation of the City-County Planning Council of Marin, an advisory body which would take up area-wide problems which cannot be solved by any one city or by the county alone.

CITIES APPROVE

Six cities have already approved the planning council. It will have two representatives from each participating city, two members of the Board of Supervisors and two members of the County Planning Commission.

The planning council proposal will now go to the Marin County Planning Commission and to the supervisors for final decision. It will be an advisory body only.

The City-County Services Committee also:

SALES TAX — Sent to the Marin County Supervisors a proposal that a five-member committee be appointed to study the redistribution of sales tax revenue. The Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen named San Rafael, Sausalito, Mill Valley and Novato to the committee. The supervisors will name the fifth representative. Committee member Ernest N. Kettenhofen said he does not want Mill Valley on the committee. "I don't think it's a balanced committee," said Kettenhofen. He did not oppose having the matter sent to the supervisors but would not vote his approval.

COUNTYWIDE FLOOD CONTROL — Tabled any study on the possibility of a countywide flood control zone. "I think it is best handled on a watershed basis," said John F. McInnis.

RESIGNATION? — Heard Chairman Michael Wornum announce that he may offer to resign as chairman of the Committee because he is running for supervisor in the Third District. Wornum said he may bring up the matter at the next meeting of the Council of Mayors and Councilmen to get the group's opinion.

Bid Opening Set

TRIAL BY JURY

The People Want It, But Not Defendant

This was the question raised in Marin Superior Court yesterday by Carl B. Shapiro, attorney for Joseph Thurston Joslin, 39-year-old suspended deputy county probation officer accused of indecent exposure and molesting two children.

On Shapiro's motion, Superior Judge Joseph G. Wilson ordered Marin Municipal Court to show Monday why it would not be stopped in its plans to try Joslin by jury.

Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony objected vigorously, claiming the state also has the right to demand trial by jury.

Judge Peter Allen Smith left the case on calendar for a jury trial to begin Monday.

The trial will not begin that day. The court is restrained from trying Joslin by jury until Judge Wilson rules on Joslin's petition for a writ prohibiting the jury trial.

Shapiro, in written argument submitted yesterday, said "it is an unalienable right of the petitioner to waive trial by jury, regardless of the petition, objection or stand by any other person, including the district attorney of Marin County."

Shapiro said there are no cases dealing with the "alleged power" of the district attorney to prevent the waiving of that right, but noted that a court's failure to allow a defendant to waive his right to be represented by an attorney has been ruled an error.

Anthony argued that the California Constitution says a jury trial can be waived only by the consent of both the people and the accused.

Failure To Provide Draws Guilty Plea

Jerry Brierley, 33, and his wife Joan, 34, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to misdemeanor charges of failure to provide for children.

San Rafael police said they were called to 155 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, Sept. 1, and found the Brierley's four children, aged 18 months to 11 years, in the company of a relative who said he was unable to care for them. The couple is to appear in Marin Municipal Court, Jan. 11 for sentencing.

"Is there any need to question whether this committee should continue to exist?" asked Wornum.

McInnis, who joined the meeting at 9:30 p.m. purred tactfully: "I wouldn't even suggest that such a possibility exists, even if it did."

The City-County Services Committee thus remained intact, as tempers cooled. Both Wornum and Kettenhofen were chiding each other in friendly fashion before the meeting was over.

Wornum said he recognizes Kettenhofen's right to vote as he chooses. "I hate your guts but recognize your right to vote the way you see it."

I-J Building New Offices In Novato

The Independent-Journal announced today construction would begin this week on a new North Marin bureau in Novato.

Publisher Wishard A. Brown said the 38-by-30 foot building will house classified and display advertising offices and news, society and circulation staffs.

$25,000 COST

"We are pleased to be making this investment in Novato," Brown said today. "We have great faith in the future growth and prosperity in the Novato area.

"More than 6,000 families in the area now subscribe to the Independent-Journal, and we wish to continue to serve them in first-rate fashion. We believe our new offices will be a credit both to Novato and to the Independent-Journal."

The building will be of slumpstone and stucco design, and architecturally compatible with the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and new Wells Fargo Bank buildings in the block, west of Fifth Street. Construction is expected to take 60 to 90 days, Eugene D. McGillicuddy, Novato contractor, said.

PROPERTY SOLD

Sale of the property was handled by Dan Poliak of Bellucci Realty in Novato. Architects are Bushnell, Jessup, Murphy and Van De Weghe of San Francisco.

It is the first bureau office to be built by the Independent-Journal newspaper, which also has bureaus in Corte Madera, Mill Valley, Tiburon and the Civic Center.

Ross School Asks Police Traffic Help

Ross police will be asked to direct traffic at Ross School during closing hours, especially on rainy days, to cut traffic congestion which might endanger pupils crossing streets.

Supt. Robert D. Gowan told Ross School trustees last night of double parking and congestion near the school and said he would confer with police in an effort to lessen it.

Trustees heard a report on grading and grouping of pupils for individual differences in learning in the third and fourth grades.

Trustees hired Mrs. Marjorie Beckwith as a seventh-eighth grade English teacher, beginning in January, at an annual salary of $9,500. They approved a workmen's compensation policy coverage of some 30 volunteer teacher aides and library workers, most of them mothers of pupils, at no expected added cost to the district, Gowan reported.

Failure To Provide Draws Guilty Plea

Jerry Brierley, 33, and his wife Joan, 34, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to misdemeanor charges of failure to provide for children.

San Rafael police said they were called to 155 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, Sept. 1, and found the Brierley's four children, aged 18 months to 11 years, in the company of a relative who said he was unable to care for them. The couple is to appear in Marin Municipal Court, Jan. 11 for sentencing.

Marin May Tie Into Bay Police Computer

A police information hookup with Alameda County that would bring Marin County within a Bay Area network of almost instantaneous exchange of police information won the endorsement of the City-County Services Committee last night.

Assistant Administrator John F. Barrows reported that the police information network services would be added to the centralized county drug abuse bureau, and a centralized police services council would administer the information exchange.

ON AGENDA

A proposed joint powers agreement between Marin and Alameda County to set up the exchange was to be considered today by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

John F. McInnis, member of the City-County Services Committee, described the police information network as "fabulous."

He said information can be requested from a computer "by auto license, driver's license, or by name, and the person's police record comes back in about six seconds."

The City-County Services Committee last night also approved the formation of the City-County Planning Council of Marin, an advisory body which would take up area-wide problems which cannot be solved by any one city or by the county alone.

CITIES APPROVE

Six cities have already approved the planning council. It will have two representatives from each participating city, two members of the Board of Supervisors and two members of the County Planning Commission.

The planning council proposal will now go to the Marin County Planning Commission and to the supervisors for final decision. It will be an advisory body only.

The City-County Services Committee also:

SALES TAX — Sent to the Marin County Supervisors a proposal that a five-member committee be appointed to study the redistribution of sales tax revenue. The Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen named San Rafael, Sausalito, Mill Valley and Novato to the committee. The supervisors will name the fifth representative. Committee member Ernest N. Kettenhofen said he does not want Mill Valley on the committee. "I don't think it's a balanced committee," said Kettenhofen. He did not oppose having the matter sent to the supervisors but would not vote his approval.

COUNTYWIDE FLOOD CONTROL — Tabled any study on the possibility of a countywide flood control zone. "I think it is best handled on a watershed basis," said John F. McInnis.

RESIGNATION? — Heard Chairman Michael Wornum announce that he may offer to resign as chairman of the Committee because he is running for supervisor in the Third District. Wornum said he may bring up the matter at the next meeting of the Council of Mayors and Councilmen to get the group's opinion.

Bid Opening Set

Bids to remodel building 934 at Hamilton Air Force Base have been called to be opened at 2 p.m., Dec. 22, by the base procurement office at Hamilton.

TRIAL BY JURY

The People Want It, But Not Defendant

This was the question raised in Marin Superior Court yesterday by Carl B. Shapiro, attorney for Joseph Thurston Joslin, 39-year-old suspended deputy county probation officer accused of indecent exposure and molesting two children.

On Shapiro's motion, Superior Judge Joseph G. Wilson ordered Marin Municipal Court to show Monday why it would not be stopped in its plans to try Joslin by jury.

Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony objected vigorously, claiming the state also has the right to demand trial by jury.

The trial will not begin that day. The court is restrained from trying Joslin by jury until Judge Wilson rules on Joslin's petition for a writ prohibiting the jury trial.

Shapiro, in written argument submitted yesterday, said "it is an unalienable right of the petitioner to waive trial by jury, regardless of the petition, objection or stand by any other person, including the district attorney of Marin County."

Shapiro said there are no cases dealing with the "alleged power" of the district attorney to prevent the waiving of that right, but noted that a court's failure to allow a defendant to waive his right to be represented by an attorney has been ruled an error.

Anthony argued that the California Constitution says a jury trial can be waived only by the consent of both the people and the accused.

ACCOUNTANTS' REPORT

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS
Marin General Hospital
Marin Hospital District

We have examined the accompanying balance sheet of MARIN GENERAL HOSPITAL as of June 30, 1967, and the related statement of revenue and expense for the year then ended, and including the accumulated excess of revenue over expense. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

The accompanying statements include only the finances of Marin General Hospital and are exclusive of funds and accounts administered by the County Treasurer in connection with Marin Hospital District Bonds.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the financial position of Marin General Hospital at June 30, 1967, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year, except for depreciation of hospital buildings referred to in Note 1.

ACCOUNTANTS' REPORT

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS
Marin Hospital District

We have examined the accompanying balance sheet of MARIN GENERAL HOSPITAL as of June 30, 1967, and the related statement of revenue and expense for the year then ended, and including the accumulated excess of revenue over expense. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

The accompanying statements include only the finances of Marin General Hospital and are exclusive of funds and accounts administered by the County Treasurer in connection with Marin Hospital District Bonds.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the financial position of Marin General Hospital at June 30, 1967, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year, except for depreciation of hospital buildings referred to in Note 1.

Supervisors Reverse Girls' Home Refusal

Marin County Board of Supervisors reversed last week's decision and agreed to help finance Marin Foundation's project to set up an 18-bed home for troubled teen-age girls in Larkspur.

The action came this morning at the request of Mrs. Don Deane, president of the Marin Foundation. Last week, the vote was 3-2 in favor of the project, but four-fifths vote was required.

The vote today was 5-0 as last week's dissenters John F. McInnis and Peter H. Behr gave their approval.

Mrs. Deane reported that 17 of the 21 directors of the foundation had expressed a vote of confidence in the project, as compared to the 12-10 split among directors reported last week.

This change in the percentage of support, plus support from the Juvenile Justice Commission, brought the unanimous vote this morning.

Today's decision means the county will commit up to $54.0000 for the 18-bed home at 476 Cane Street in Larkspur.

New School Hours Set By Trustees

West Marin School District pupils will go home 30 minutes earlier beginning Jan. 2, Supt. Howard F. Brose reported today.

The new schedule, adopted last night by district trustees, will mean pupils in first through third grades will leave school at 2 p.m., and that pupils in fourth through eighth grades will leave at 3 p.m. Bus stops will remain in their present order, but will be a half-hour earlier in the afternoon.

Brose, who proposed the change, said the present day "is just too long for those youngsters." The one-hour lunch period will be cut to 30 minutes for sixth through eighth grades, and to 45 minutes for the first five grades.

Trustee Bruce B. Daniels was absent.

West Marin School District trustees also:

CONTRACT — Set a special meeting to consider renewing Brose's three-year contract, which expires June 30, tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the school. Brose has been superintendent for almost five years.

BURGLARY — Heard Brose report that projector and recording equipment stolen from the school during Thanksgiving weekend by an elementary school pupil has been returned undamaged.

TEACHER — Hired Mrs. June Tolbert of Forest Knolls to replace Mrs. Susan Baty on Jan. 2 as an upper grade team teacher at $5,800 a year.

VICE PRINCIPAL — Appointed Michael Conway as teaching vice principal to replace Peter Nelson, who asked to be relieved to spend full time as librarian. Conway is an upper grade team teacher.

TESTING — Received report from Brose that sixth grade pupils tested low in state reading tests given in October, producing scores expected in fifth grade.

TAX RELIEF — Adopted a resolution asking the state legislature to provide tax relief for property taxpayers.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Some Persons Have Physical Reasons For Hating The Cold

VAN DELLEN

Protection against the cold means wearing proper gloves, footgear, clothing, and going indoors when thoroughly chilled. Still, most northerners envy their southern counterparts who can bask in warm sunny air when wintry winds visit our area.

Some persons have physical reasons why they suffer from the cold and are bothered even though the temperatures are not subzero. They may be malnourished, have a low metabolism, diabetes, anemia, or poor circulation. Others are overly sensitive or allergic to the cold or have a marked intolerance to low temperatures. These people need maximum protection or, perhaps they should winter in the south.

INDIVIDUALS WHO must remain out of doors in subzero weather or work in artificially-cooled environments must also protect themselves against cold damage by wearing appropriate clothing. Thick multilayered coats and pants are preferred. The garments should be lightweight and windproof. Fibers that are not easily compressed and trap air offer excellent insulation.

Ordinary gloves should be worn, but in extreme cold, it may be necessary to wear a double pair. Many manufacturers of safety equipment sell thermal gloves with a plastic outer lining and a long gauntlet that fits snugly around the wrist. The inner part is soft-napped, bulky, meshed cotton. The porous liner permits air to circulate and minimizes perspiration. Good shoes and heavy socks keep the feet warm.

AVOID WET and tight garments. Sweating feet become a problem, especially when rubber boots are worn. Dry the feet frequently and put on loose-fitting dry socks. Activity improves the circulation and generates heat. A face mask is helpful, especially for oldsters with emphysema or heart trouble.

VEGETARIANISM RISKS

L. T. writes: I wnat to switch from eating meat to eating vegetable. Are there any risks involved?

REPLY

No, except for anemia and vitamin deficiencies. Vegetarians get their proteins from nuts, cereals, and legumes. These foods are second class proteins but are better than none.

AFTER SURGERY

P. F. writes: How long does it take for the abdominable muscles to get back into shape after surgery?

REPLY

Depends upon what you started with and what you need your muscles for. The majority of patients are back in shape by the end of six weeks to three months. Some incisions, such as those in the midabdominal line, do not go thru muscles and any weakness that is present is due to disuse.

State Supreme Court Upsets Loitering Ban

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court has ruled a Los Angeles city ordinance prohibiting loitering in depots or airports cannot be used to stop free speech.

The court issued the 5-2 decision yesterday in reversing the convictions of two antiwar demonstrators who were arrested under the ordinance in Los Angeles Union Station on Labor Day, 1966.

The decision set aside convictions of Frederick A. Hoffman and Clyde Carson who were arrested with a group that passed out antiwar leaflets to servicemen.

The leaflets protested U.S. action in Vietnam and an impending court martial at Fort Hood, Tex., of three soldiers who refused to go to Vietnam.

A majority opinion by Chief Justice Roger J. Traynor ruled as unconstitutional a portion of the ordinance "prohibiting presence in a terminal longer than reasonably necessary to conduct business with a carrier."

The ordinance also provided that no one may "loaf or loiter" about a depot or airport "unless he is catching a train or plane, or is meeting one, or has some legitimate business there."

Speaking for the court's majority, Traynor said: "The primary uses of municipal property can be amply protected by ordinances that prohibit activities that interfere with those uses. Similarly, the primary use of railway stations can be amply protected by ordinances prohibiting activities that interfere with those uses.

"In neither case can First Amendment (free speech) activities be prohibited solely because the property involved is not maintained primarily as a forum for such activities."

"It should not be necessary," Burke said, "to await a disturbance, interference, riot, theft, pickpocketing, baggage snatching, blocking passage, soliciting for improper purposes or interfering with the business of the common carriers involved, before a valid municipal interest arises to warrant the enactment or enforcement of the ordinance here involved."

Cluster Housing Public Hearing Set In January

The Corte Madera Planning Commission last night completed its proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance to permit cluster housing and scheduled a public hearing for 8 p.m. on Jan. 8 at Town Hall.

The amendment would permit a development with a concentrated cluster of houses into a small portion of land, leaving the remaining area as open space.

The commission also approved the request of William McDevitt Co. of San Rafael to build a new pet hospital at 5796 Paradise Drive. It denied an application by Federal Sign and Signal Co. for additional 101 square feet of sign space at Campbell Bishop Chevrolet, 5880 Paradise Drive.

Purse Is Stolen

Theft of a purse containing $74 in cash was reported today by Corte Madera police. Kiriaki Sakellariou of 45 Diamond Head Passage said she laid the purse down while shopping yesterday at Montgomery Ward and Co. in Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Plumbing Contractor Election Scheduled

New directors will be elected Thursday by Plumbing, Heating and Cooling Contractors of Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino counties.

The meeting will be at 5 p.m. at Nero's Restaurant, Ignacio. Two directors from Marin county, three from Sonoma and a trustee will be elected. A general membership dinner will follow at 7 p.m.

Cluster Plan Approved By Reed Board

Trustees of Reed School District last night approved a sketch by architect Ron Young for the new cluster to be built at Granada School, according to Supt. H. Joe Edgington.

Young was directed to make working drawings, then report back to the board with cost estimates before February, according to Edgington. He added that the plans have to be submitted by February to the State Department of Education for approval.

The board also authorized the spending of not more than $1,600 for soil engineering tests on Hilarita Housing and Reed School land, to determine the feasibility of using both for playgrounds, Edgington said.

The district is considering the purchase of six to ten acres of the adjacent Hilarita Housing site for the expansion of Reed School.

A citizens committee report on acquisition and use of the property is expected at the Dec. 19 board meeting, Edgington said.

The board also hired Mrs. Annelies Pesl as a kindergarten teacher at Bel Aire School, at a salary of $9,200.

Optometric Society Names New Officers

Dr. Gerald W. Belanger of Mill Valley was elected president of the Marin County Optometric Society last night.

Fairfax Party Set

Publishers Join Secret Session Suit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Newspaper Publishers Association has entered a legal battle to prevent local government agencies from holding secret meetings with their legal advisers.

The association, composed of about 400 daily and weekly newspapers, filed a "friend of the court" brief with the Third District Court of Appeal in support of the Sacramento Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO.

The Sacramento County board of supervisors is appealing the guild's suit, aimed at keeping governing bodies such as city councils, boards of supervisors and school boards from meeting in private with legal aides.

Superior Court Judge B. Abbott Goldberg ruled in favor of the guild, which claimed the supervisors last February met privately with county counsel John B. Heinrich in violation of the Ralph M. Brown anti-secrecy act.

Innocent Plea In Gun Charge

Edward Arnold Weaver, 23, of Montezuma Street, Forest Knolls, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to charges of firing a shotgun in an inhabited area and possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

Sheriff's deputies arrested him last month after a neighbor called to report hearing a shotgun blast.

Weaver allegedly told deputies he fired the weapon to scare unknown persons who were annoying him. Officers said they found an eyedropper syringe, three needles and two needle holders in his house.

Jury trial was scheduled for Feb. 13.

Innocent Plea

Gene J. Bonnotti of 116 Ward Street, Apt. 1, Larkspur, bartender for Zack's in Sausalito, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of pouring liquid spirits from one stamped bottle to another, a misdemeanor. Jury trial was scheduled for Jan. 25.

Strawbridge Bares Secret Resignation

Tiburon Councilman Gordon W. Strawbridge publicly announced his resignation last night, although Mayor John S. Hoffmire said Strawbridge disclosed his plans at a Nov. 13 closed meeting of the council called for another purpose.

The state Brown act, regulating secret meetings of local public bodies, restricts such sessions to the topic for which the meetings are called.

The Nov. 13 meeting was held after the regular council session, and Hoffmire said at that time the purpose of the closed meeting was to discuss a parks and recreation commission appointment.

Strawbridge announced his resignation at the council meeting last night — he recently told the Council of Mayors and Councilmen he would not run again — and the city council named Planning Commissioner Rampton W. Harvey to finish Strawbridge's term, ending in April.

Hoffmire said today Harvey was considered for the post at the Nov. 13 closed meeting.

After last night's regular meeting, Hoffmire called a closed session to discuss a replacement for Harvey on the planning commission, but no decision was reached, the mayor said.

Strawbridge, first mayor of the City of Tiburon, said his resignation would be effective at the Jan. 8 meeting.

Freeway Blowout Injures Three

Three people were injured yesterday when a car rolled over on Highway 101, a quarter-mile south of the Waldo Tunnel.

A flat tire at 10:55 p.m. caused the car to swerve and roll over three times before stopping, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Girl Given Probation On Fleeing With Ring

Janice Johnson, 20, of San Francisco was placed on three years probation by Marin Superior Judge Harold J. Haley today after she pleaded guilty to stealing a $2,800 ring from a San Rafael jewelry store Aug. 15, 1966.

Miss Johnson ran with the ring from Herbert Roher Jewelers, 1219 Fourth Street, when a clerk gave it to her for examination.

Gnoss Estates Elects Seven Board Members

The Gnoss Estates Association last night elected seven members to a board of directors, according to Mrs. Ralph Rungo Jr., secretary.

Elected to the board were Robert Forrest, H. James Mumma, Edward Saunders, George Steffey, John Muniz, Kenneth Beagle and Sotera Muniz.

The board will hold its first organizational meeting at 1 p.m. Saturday at the home of Mrs. Rungo, 135 Westwood Drive, Novato.

The association voted unanimously to oppose a proposed mobile home park at 300 Olive Avenue and to present a letter of protest today to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The next general meeting was set for 8 p.m. Jan. 8 at Olive School.

Novato Cyclist In Good Condition

Bob Joe Jackson, 34, of 557 McClay Road, Novato, was reported in good condition at Novato General Hospital today with a back injury suffered when he was thrown from his motorcycle Sunday.

The California Highway Patrol reported Jackson was driving down a terraced hill south of Bugeia Lane in Novato when the throttle of his cycle became stuck, causing it to lurch and throw him.

WHOO WANTS THEM?

No one seems to give a hoot for four baby barn owls left at the Houston animal shelter about a week ago. It's natural, says shelter manager J. P. Lowe — the 6-weeks-old fledglings aren't very tame. After they grow up enough to fly on their diet of raw beef, they will be turned loose. (UPI Telephoto)

Supervisors Reverse Girls' Home Refusal

Marin County Board of Supervisors reversed last week's decision and agreed to help finance Marin Foundation's project to set up an 18-bed home for troubled teen-age girls in Larkspur.

The action came this morning at the request of Mrs. Don Deane, president of the Marin Foundation. Last week, the vote was 3-2 in favor of the project, but four-fifths vote was required.

The vote today was 5-0 as last week's dissenters John F. McInnis and Peter H. Behr gave their approval.

Mrs. Deane reported that 17 of the 21 directors of the foundation had expressed a vote of confidence in the project, as compared to the 12-10 split among directors reported last week.

This change in the percentage of support, plus support from the Juvenile Justice Commission, brought the unanimous vote this morning.

Strawbridge Bares Secret Resignation

Tiburon Councilman Gordon W. Strawbridge publicly announced his resignation last night, although Mayor John S. Hoffmire said Strawbridge disclosed his plans at a Nov. 13 closed meeting of the council called for another purpose.

The state Brown act, regulating secret meetings of local public bodies, restricts such sessions to the topic for which the meetings are called.

The Nov. 13 meeting was held after the regular council session, and Hoffmire said at that time the purpose of the closed meeting was to discuss a parks and recreation commission appointment.

Strawbridge announced his resignation at the council meeting last night — he recently told the Council of Mayors and Councilmen he would not run again — and the city council named Planning Commissioner Rampton W. Harvey to finish Strawbridge's term, ending in April.

Hoffmire said today Harvey was considered for the post at the Nov. 13 closed meeting.

After last night's regular meeting, Hoffmire called a closed session to discuss a replacement for Harvey on the planning commission, but no decision was reached, the mayor said.

Strawbridge, first mayor of the City of Tiburon, said his resignation would be effective at the Jan. 8 meeting.

Publishers Join Secret Session Suit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Newspaper Publishers Association has entered a legal battle to prevent local government agencies from holding secret meetings with their legal advisers.

The association, composed of about 400 daily and weekly newspapers, filed a "friend of the court" brief with the Third District Court of Appeal in support of the Sacramento Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO.

The Sacramento County board of supervisors is appealing the guild's suit, aimed at keeping governing bodies such as city councils, boards of supervisors and school boards from meeting in private with legal aides.

Superior Court Judge B. Abbott Goldberg ruled in favor of the guild, which claimed the supervisors last February met privately with county counsel John B. Heinrich in violation of the Ralph M. Brown anti-secrecy act.

New School Hours Set By Trustees

West Marin School District pupils will go home 30 minutes earlier beginning Jan. 2, Supt. Howard F. Brose reported today.

The new schedule, adopted last night by district trustees, will mean pupils in first through third grades will leave school at 2 p.m., and that pupils in fourth through eighth grades will leave at 3 p.m. Bus stops will remain in their present order, but will be a half-hour earlier in the afternoon.

Brose, who proposed the change, said the present day "is just too long for those youngsters." The one-hour lunch period will be cut to 30 minutes for sixth through eighth grades, and to 45 minutes for the first five grades.

Trustee Bruce B. Daniels was absent.

West Marin School District trustees also:

CONTRACT — Set a special meeting to consider renewing Brose's three-year contract, which expires June 30, tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the school. Brose has been superintendent for almost five years.

BURGLARY — Heard Brose report that projector and recording equipment stolen from the school during Thanksgiving weekend by an elementary school pupil has been returned undamaged.

TEACHER — Hired Mrs. June Tolbert of Forest Knolls to replace Mrs. Susan Baty on Jan. 2 as an upper grade team teacher at $5,800 a year.

VICE PRINCIPAL — Appointed Michael Conway as teaching vice principal to replace Peter Nelson, who asked to be relieved to spend full time as librarian. Conway is an upper grade team teacher.

TESTING — Received report from Brose that sixth grade pupils tested low in state reading tests given in October, producing scores expected in fifth grade.

TAX RELIEF — Adopted a resolution asking the state legislature to provide tax relief for property taxpayers.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

Protection against the cold means wearing proper gloves, footgear, clothing, and going indoors when thoroughly chilled. Still, most northerners envy their southern counterparts who can bask in warm sunny air when wintry winds visit our area.

Some persons have physical reasons why they suffer from the cold and are bothered even though the temperatures are not subzero. They may be malnourished, have a low metabolism, diabetes, anemia, or poor circulation. Others are overly sensitive or allergic to the cold or have a marked intolerance to low temperatures. These people need maximum protection or, perhaps they should winter in the south.

INDIVIDUALS WHO must remain out of doors in subzero weather or work in artificially-cooled environments must also protect themselves against cold damage by wearing appropriate clothing. Thick multilayered coats and pants are preferred. The garments should be lightweight and windproof. Fibers that are not easily compressed and trap air offer excellent insulation.

Ordinary gloves should be worn, but in extreme cold, it may be necessary to wear a double pair. Many manufacturers of safety equipment sell thermal gloves with a plastic outer lining and a long gauntlet that fits snugly around the wrist. The inner part is soft-napped, bulky, meshed cotton. The porous liner permits air to circulate and minimizes perspiration. Good shoes and heavy socks keep the feet warm.

AVOID WET and tight garments. Sweating feet become a problem, especially when rubber boots are worn. Dry the feet frequently and put on loose-fitting dry socks. Activity improves the circulation and generates heat. A face mask is helpful, especially for oldsters with emphysema or heart trouble.

VEGETARIANISM RISKS

L. T. writes: I wnat to switch from eating meat to eating vegetable. Are there any risks involved?

REPLY

No, except for anemia and vitamin deficiencies. Vegetarians get their proteins from nuts, cereals, and legumes. These foods are second class proteins but are better than none.

AFTER SURGERY

P. F. writes: How long does it take for the abdominable muscles to get back into shape after surgery?

REPLY

Depends upon what you started with and what you need your muscles for. The majority of patients are back in shape by the end of six weeks to three months. Some incisions, such as those in the midabdominal line, do not go thru muscles and any weakness that is present is due to disuse.

State Supreme Court Upsets Loitering Ban

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court has ruled a Los Angeles city ordinance prohibiting loitering in depots or airports cannot be used to stop free speech.

The court issued the 5-2 decision yesterday in reversing the convictions of two antiwar demonstrators who were arrested under the ordinance in Los Angeles Union Station on Labor Day, 1966.

The decision set aside convictions of Frederick A. Hoffman and Clyde Carson who were arrested with a group that passed out antiwar leaflets to servicemen.

The leaflets protested U.S. action in Vietnam and an impending court martial at Fort Hood, Tex., of three soldiers who refused to go to Vietnam.

A majority opinion by Chief Justice Roger J. Traynor ruled as unconstitutional a portion of the ordinance "prohibiting presence in a terminal longer than reasonably necessary to conduct business with a carrier."

The ordinance also provided that no one may "loaf or loiter" about a depot or airport "unless he is catching a train or plane, or is meeting one, or has some legitimate business there."

Speaking for the court's majority, Traynor said: "The primary uses of municipal property can be amply protected by ordinances that prohibit activities that interfere with those uses. Similarly, the primary use of railway stations can be amply protected by ordinances prohibiting activities that interfere with those uses.

"In neither case can First Amendment (free speech) activities be prohibited solely because the property involved is not maintained primarily as a forum for such activities."

Justice Louis H. Burke wrote a dissenting opinion which was joined by Justice Marshall F. McComb.

"It should not be necessary," Burke said, "to await a disturbance, interference, riot, theft, pickpocketing, baggage snatching, blocking passage, soliciting for improper purposes or interfering with the business of the common carriers involved, before a valid municipal interest arises to warrant the enactment or enforcement of the ordinance here involved."

Plumbing Contractor Election Scheduled

New directors will be elected Thursday by Plumbing, Heating and Cooling Contractors of Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino counties.

The meeting will be at 5 p.m. at Nero's Restaurant, Ignacio. Two directors from Marin county, three from Sonoma and a trustee will be elected. A general membership dinner will follow at 7 p.m.

Cluster Housing Public Hearing Set In January

The Corte Madera Planning Commission last night completed its proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance to permit cluster housing and scheduled a public hearing for 8 p.m. on Jan. 8 at Town Hall.

The amendment would permit a development with a concentrated cluster of houses into a small portion of land, leaving the remaining area as open space.

The commission also approved the request of William McDevitt Co. of San Rafael to build a new pet hospital at 5796 Paradise Drive. It denied an application by Federal Sign and Signal Co. for additional 101 square feet of sign space at Campbell Bishop Chevrolet, 5880 Paradise Drive.

Purse Is Stolen

Theft of a purse containing $74 in cash was reported today by Corte Madera police. Kiriaki Sakellariou of 45 Diamond Head Passage said she laid the purse down while shopping yesterday at Montgomery Ward and Co. in Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Cluster Plan Approved By Reed Board

Trustees of Reed School District last night approved a sketch by architect Ron Young for the new cluster to be built at Granada School, according to Supt. H. Joe Edgington.

Young was directed to make working drawings, then report back to the board with cost estimates before February, according to Edgington. He added that the plans have to be submitted by February to the State Department of Education for approval.

The board also authorized the spending of not more than $1,600 for soil engineering tests on Hilarita Housing and Reed School land, to determine the feasibility of using both for playgrounds, Edgington said.

The district is considering the purchase of six to ten acres of the adjacent Hilarita Housing site for the expansion of Reed School.

A citizens committee report on acquisition and use of the property is expected at the Dec. 19 board meeting, Edgington said.

The board also hired Mrs. Annelies Pesl as a kindergarten teacher at Bel Aire School, at a salary of $9,200.

Optometric Society Names New Officers

Dr. Gerald W. Belanger of Mill Valley was elected president of the Marin County Optometric Society last night.

Fairfax Party Set

Innocent Plea In Gun Charge

Edward Arnold Weaver, 23, of Montezuma Street, Forest Knolls, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to charges of firing a shotgun in an inhabited area and possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

Sheriff's deputies arrested him last month after a neighbor called to report hearing a shotgun blast.

Weaver allegedly told deputies he fired the weapon to scare unknown persons who were annoying him. Officers said they found an eyedropper syringe, three needles and two needle holders in his house.

Jury trial was scheduled for Feb. 13.

Innocent Plea

Gene J. Bonnotti of 116 Ward Street, Apt. 1, Larkspur, bartender for Zack's in Sausalito, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of pouring liquid spirits from one stamped bottle to another, a misdemeanor. Jury trial was scheduled for Jan. 25.

Freeway Blowout Injures Three

Three people were injured yesterday when a car rolled over on Highway 101, a quarter-mile south of the Waldo Tunnel.

A flat tire at 10:55 p.m. caused the car to swerve and roll over three times before stopping, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Her husband, Daniel Frank Goodwin, 29, was reportedly in fair condition with chest bruises.

Girl Given Probation On Fleeing With Ring

Janice Johnson, 20, of San Francisco was placed on three years probation by Marin Superior Judge Harold J. Haley today after she pleaded guilty to stealing a $2,800 ring from a San Rafael jewelry store Aug. 15, 1966.

Miss Johnson ran with the ring from Herbert Roher Jewelers, 1219 Fourth Street, when a clerk gave it to her for examination.

Gnoss Estates Elects Seven Board Members

The Gnoss Estates Association last night elected seven members to a board of directors, according to Mrs. Ralph Rungo Jr., secretary.

Elected to the board were Robert Forrest, H. James Mumma, Edward Saunders, George Steffey, John Muniz, Kenneth Beagle and Sotera Muniz.

The board will hold its first organizational meeting at 1 p.m. Saturday at the home of Mrs. Rungo, 135 Westwood Drive, Novato.

The association voted unanimously to oppose a proposed mobile home park at 300 Olive Avenue and to present a letter of protest today to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The next general meeting was set for 8 p.m. Jan. 8 at Olive School.

Novato Cyclist In Good Condition

Bob Joe Jackson, 34, of 557 McClay Road, Novato, was reported in good condition at Novato General Hospital today with a back injury suffered when he was thrown from his motorcycle Sunday.

The California Highway Patrol reported Jackson was driving down a terraced hill south of Bugeia Lane in Novato when the throttle of his cycle became stuck, causing it to lurch and throw him.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Nancy Shows Dad She Can Produce

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Nancy Sinatra, with only a casual assist from her father and his friends, moved into television's big time last night with one of the season's most imaginative and well-produced variety specials.

The NBC program, produced and directed by Jack Haley Jr., was an artful blend of interesting backgrounds—most of them taken on location up and down the California coast —and unusual camera work. Added to this were dandy musical arrangements, attractive singing and—an extra—a fashion show, for Miss Sinatra's costumes and hairdos were in the mode and mood of young moderns.

Dean Martin strolled into view for one number with Nancy. The number used mannequins instead of human beings for background. Sammy Davis Jr. turned up for a number—perhaps the most forced bit in the show—and played a fashion photographer.

The famous father of the show's star sang at the show's end, after a long, supersentimental but interesting preliminary in which we saw blow-ups of baby pictures of both the senior Sinatra and his elder daughter.

Earlier, and partly in conflict, there was CBS's second National Geographic Society special of the season, "Winged World." It was a fascinating study of birds. We saw close-up films of the woodpecker finch which uses a stick to dig food out of tree cracks, illustrating a discussion of whether birds have intelligence. We saw the shearwater of the British Isles, a bird with such keen homing instincts it can find its way back to its nest even when taken thousands of miles away.

Birds, observed narrator Alexander Scourby, can usually survive the onslaught of any of its enemies except one: Man.

The program was informative and well photographed.

Danny Thomas' NBC hour was an amusing, good-humored takeoff on the elaborate movie musicals of the 1930s. "The Royal Follies of 1933" had a lot of songs, dances, broad comedy and a plot about a prince falling in love with a show girl. It was a happy, entertaining hour.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Nancy Shows Dad She Can Produce

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Nancy Sinatra, with only a casual assist from her father and his friends, moved into television's big time last night with one of the season's most imaginative and well-produced variety specials.

The NBC program, produced and directed by Jack Haley Jr., was an artful blend of interesting backgrounds—most of them taken on location up and down the California coast —and unusual camera work. Added to this were dandy musical arrangements, attractive singing and—an extra—a fashion show, for Miss Sinatra's costumes and hairdos were in the mode and mood of young moderns.

Dean Martin strolled into view for one number with Nancy. The number used mannequins instead of human beings for background. Sammy Davis Jr. turned up for a number—perhaps the most forced bit in the show—and played a fashion photographer.

The famous father of the show's star sang at the show's end, after a long, supersentimental but interesting preliminary in which we saw blow-ups of baby pictures of both the senior Sinatra and his elder daughter.

Earlier, and partly in conflict, there was CBS's second National Geographic Society special of the season, "Winged World." It was a fascinating study of birds. We saw close-up films of the woodpecker finch which uses a stick to dig food out of tree cracks, illustrating a discussion of whether birds have intelligence. We saw the shearwater of the British Isles, a bird with such keen homing instincts it can find its way back to its nest even when taken thousands of miles away.

Birds, observed narrator Alexander Scourby, can usually survive the onslaught of any of its enemies except one: Man.

The program was informative and well photographed.

Danny Thomas' NBC hour was an amusing, good-humored takeoff on the elaborate movie musicals of the 1930s. "The Royal Follies of 1933" had a lot of songs, dances, broad comedy and a plot about a prince falling in love with a show girl. It was a happy, entertaining hour.

Use Permit Requests Sent To Committee

The two main items on the Novato Planning Commission agenda were referred to the architectural review committee at last night's regular commission meeting.

They were the applications for use permits to construct 65 apartments on 3.83 acres on the west side of Scottsdale Boulevard, south of Rowland Boulevard requested by Space Age Small Business Investment Co. and to establish a convalescent hospital on the southwest corner of Hill and Indian Valley roads, requested by Novato Investments.

The commission approved a use permit for a restaurant-bar in the Pacheco Plaza Shopping Center on Ignacio Boulevard requested by Walter Kieckhefer Co.

Lawrence A. Coleman, public works director, explained the $5,750,000 street program and Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director, explained the $2,250,000 park program. Both will be on the $8 million bond election ballot on Jan. 23.

Because there were no items scheduled and the next regular meeting would fall on Dec. 25, that meeting was canceled. Next session will be Jan. 8.

No Money In Wallet Robbery

Three Negro men joined in a strong arm robbery of his wallet early Saturday but got no money, Francis R. Welch of 49 Cole Drive, Apt. 16, Marin City, told sheriff's deputies.

Welch said he left his apartment at 1 a.m. to walk to Sausalito and saw a group of five to seven Negro men as he walked past the corner of Drake Avenue and Cole Drive. He said one man fell in on either side of him and grabbed his arms as a third took the wallet from his pocket. Welch said he kept walking to avoid trouble.

Ferry Study Two-County Drive Urged

The Marin Transportation Action Committee last night urged Marin and San Francisco legislators to make a "concerted push" next month to pass legislation to enable the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District help finance a study of a ferry system.

Michael Peevey of San Rafael reported that the committee also urged that the legislation permit the district to help finance establishment of a ferry system if the study finds it would be feasible.

Legislation amending the act that created the bridge district is necessary, Peevey said, because the district's attorney, Jerome B. White, has ruled that the district cannot participate in a ferry study.

The ruling "draws into question the bridge district's annual contribution of $25,000 a year to the Redwood Empire Association and of $18,000 a year to the San Francisco Visitors and Convention Bureau," Peevey said. The bridge district has contributed over $600,000 to the REA in the past 30 years, he added.

The committee agreed a ferry study should be done by a consulting firm, and not by county staff, Peevey said.

The committee, formed in October to oppose a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge and to support a ferry and bus system, has about 100 active members, he said. Peevey and Donald Vail of Lucas Valley were elected co-chairmen by the 20 members attending the meeting at the Co-Op Marin in Corte Madera.

Marin Transportation Action Committee also:

GREYHOUND — Voted to send a representative to oppose Greyhound Lines' application for a 50 per cent fare hike at a prehearing conference to be held by the state Public Utilities Commission Jan. 10 at 10 a.m. at 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco.

REDISTRICT — Urged redistribution of the 14 seats on the bridge board to give Marin more than two directors and to reduce the five seats held by northern counties.

Guilty Plea Made To Welfare Chisel

Dolly Deans, 43, of Bakersfield, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge of welfare chiseling.

Mrs. Deans drew $721 excess welfare money from Marin County by failing to report outside income as a waitress from November 1965 to June 1966.

Pop Warner Grid Game Was Against The Rules

MERRY CHRISTMAS — Terra Linda Junior Trojans' "Merry Christmas Bowl" game in Honolulu Dec. 2 was in direct violation of the National Pop Warner Football Conference regulations.

The expensive and athletically-meaningless junket involved 40 players, 3 waterboys, 6 (SIX)! coaches, 5 cheerleaders and 3 officers of the Terra Linda Junior Trojans Parents Club (57 in all).

The commissioner and coaches in Hawaii who set up the game will be censured by Warner officials.

One irate resident of Terra Linda at one point threatened to call for a District Attorney's investigation into the disbursement of the nearly $10,000 funds raised to finance the trip and still may fulfill his threat.

Causing All Kinds Of Commotion

And that whirrrr you may have heard lately may have been Glenn S. "Pop" Warner spinning in his final resting place.

Those developments came to light today as Pop Warner District One Commissioner Stephen Spelman of Larkspur admitted the holiday trip for the Terra Linda youngsters . . . is causing all kinds of commotion."

Spelman emphatically added, "I strongly disapprove of such post-season trips. No one from Terra Linda has ever contacted my office seeking official approval of the game. If they had I would have said 'no.' In the first place, the game violates national conference regulations."

Spelman explained that the Marin team plays at an "offset Junior Bantam Weight" and the Hawaiian team plays at the lighter Midget classification. "Actually," he said, "there was no great weight disparity at this point in the year, but the Marin boys just enjoyed the advantage of a heavier weigh-in at the start of the season."

Matter Will Be Fully Aired

Spelman, who said the matter would be fully aired at a meeting of California Pop Warner officials in Fresno next month, said he contacted Terra Linda coach Jim Finnegan after he caught wind of the game and fund-raising drive last month.

"Mr. Finnegan told me that the drive had already raised $6,000 and that all plans had been completed," said Spelman, a San Francisco police sergeant. "With all that radio, television and newspaper publicity underway, the thing just got out of hand. They (Terra Linda officials) were selling clothes and raffle tickets. What in the heck is this thing coming to?"

He continued: "Well, it was beyond the point of no return. I contacted state and regional officers and discussed it with them. We agreed that since arrangements had gone so far and that there was no weight or age disparity in the teams, we had to approve, but only at the last minute. We're going to get to the bottom of this and make certain it doesn't happen again."

Officials Will Be Censured

Spelman, whose jurisdiction in Pop Warner extends from Monterey north to Santa Rosa, said Hawaiian leagues are notorious for their expensive post-season junkets. "We'll have to straighten them out on THAT," he cracked, saying the coaches and commissioner in Hawaii would be censured.

The District One commissioner said he approves of post-season games ". . . only on a local basis, like Marin playing the Peninsula or San Francisco against the East Bay. But I don't like these long-distance games. In fact, I am on record as having voted down a proposed state championship playoff system."

The Terra Linda trip was made possible by a fund-raising campaign that netted nearly $10,000.

The players missed three days of school and traveled some 4,000 miles to play an abbreviation of football as we know it. The game — one of three played that day — was of six-minute quarters on an 80-by-40-yard gridiron. The Marin teams usually play 12 minute quarters on regulation 100-by-53-yard fields.

$60 Expense Money For Adults

According to a reliable source, each adult member of the traveling party was given $60 expense money in addition to the free air and hotel accommodations.

Two parties for parents, coaches and officials of both teams — one hosted by the Terra Linda Club — took place Friday and Saturday nights, Dec. 1-2 in Honolulu. Few, if any, players were invited.

The only "parties" for the children on the exotic trip were two almost identical tours of the island and a picnic Sunday before their departure. The team was booked out of Honolulu at 11:45 p.m. Sunday for an exhausting flight home, causing most of the players to miss school the next day.

Two of the six coaches remained in Hawaii on an extended vacation.

Higher Costs By Honolulu Firm

And, get this, all travel arrangements were made through a Honolulu firm at costs higher than those quoted locally.

All this for a game of football that had absolutely no significance. Come on, now!

Can't the people of Terra Linda find something more lasting on which to spend their $10,000? Something like recreational facilities for all the children in the community to enjoy.

And, oh yes, one more question: Did Terra Linda team officials solicit this expensive invitation or was the overture made by Hawaiian league officials?

No Letdown By Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders say they will be going all out Sunday against the New York Jets even though the Oaklanders have cinched the Western Division.

The Raiders dumped Houston 19-7 last Sunday but the Jets also lost to stay even with the Oilers in the Eastern Division.

Oakland frankly admits it would prefer to meet Houston in the American Football League playoff.

"Houston is a running team and we like to feel that nobody can beat us running," explained defensive end Ben Davidson.

The jets can be dangerous when Joe Namath and his receivers have one of their big days. That's what happened in New York (where the Raiders absorbed their lone loss.

Houston dominated play the first half Sunday and led 7-0 at the intermission. The second half, they could barely make a yard.

"We figured out what they were doing and made some minor changes. Next time we should do better," said Davidson.

High-Ranking Cage Teams Will Get A Quick Test

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vanderbilt and Kentucky won't have to wait long before putting on the line their new, high-ranking positions in the Associated Press' major-college basketball poll.

In fact both the Commodores and the Wildcats face other rated opponents tonight. Vandy, No. 3, goes against Davidson, No. 8, while Kentucky, No. 4, plays North Carolina, No. 7.

UCLA, once again with a solid lead in the weekly balloting, is idle this week. Houston, the runnerup, participates in the Bluebonnet Classic tomorrow and Thursday nights against George Washington, Mississippi State and Montana State.

The Bruins, 3-0 including victories over Wichita State and Iowa State last week, drew 34 first-place votes in the latest balloting by a national panel of 35 sports writers and broadcasters.

UCLA accumulated 349 points on the basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third etc. Houston, which picked up the other vote for the top position, had 313 points Vanderbilt advanced from eighth place and Kentucky from the No. 9 spot. The voting was based on games through last Saturday.

Davidson, Indiana and Princeton are the new teams in the Top Ten. They replaced Kansas, Dayton and Purdue, fourth, sixth and seventh, respectively, a week ago.

The Jayhawks were beaten by Louisville and Chicago Loyola. Dayton also dropped a pair—to Miami of Ohio and Eastern Kentucky while Purdue split two games with Washington.

Mira Given Good Chance To Start

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — George Mira apparently will open at quarterback Saturday when the San Francisco 49ers host Dallas.

Or as Coach Jack Christiansen put it yesterday: "Off George's performance against Atlanta, I see no reason not to start him again."

3 FOR 4

Mira, who is playing out his option, completed 20 of 34 passes for 324 yards to beat the Atlanta Falcons, 34-28, last Saturday. Mira has quarterbacked the 49ers four times in his career and has produced three victories.

Mira wants to be a starter in the pros and is fighting John Brodie and Steve Spurrier for that honor for the 49ers. Brodie and Spurrier did not look sharp during the team's recent six-game losing streak but Christiansen says the situation of who will be the 1968 starter is still being studied.

END OF YEAR

"Mira did a fine job against the Falcons," said Christiansen, "but we wouldn't make a decision on just one game. The whole thing will be evaluated at the end of the year."

Meanwhile, defensive halfback Kermit Alexander, who saved the Atlanta game with an interception in the last 1:20, undergoes surgery today for a broken jaw. It is believed he will be able to play Saturday, using a special face guard.

Vancouver Might Be New Home

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Barry Van Gerbig, principal owner of the expansion Oakland Seals, visited Vancouver yesterday to consider the city as a possible location for his National Hockey League team.

Oakland is in last place in the NHL's Western Division in both the standings and attendance and the Seals' millionaire owner was given permission by the league last Friday to look into possible new sites.

He came directly from a league meeting in New York Friday to Vancouver and was joined Sunday by Coach Bert Olmstead.

"With the lack of support in Oakland, we have to consider alternatives, which could mean the transfer of the franchise," said Van Gerbig.

"But we certainly haven't decided on this kind of action yet, and we're hoping the crowds pick up in Oakland once the football season is over."

L.A. Fans Running For TV

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The showdown battle between the Los Angeles Rams and the Baltimore Colts for the National Football League's Coastal division crown will send Southern California fans scurrying north and east.

As usual, television coverage will be blacked out in the Los Angeles-San Diego area.

Airlines report a sharp rise in reservations to Las Vegas and Northern California cities for the weekend.

Hotels and motels outside Southern California also report an upswing in reservations.

Usually, the airlines and hotel-motel managers say, there's an increase in reservations the weekends of key games but rarely has the call come so early.

Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty, in a telegram yesterday to Rams president Dan Reeves, asked that the game be televised locally. It has long been sold out.

"Give your fans who cannot buy tickets the joy of rooting our team to another great victory," Yorty asked.

Pop Warner Grid Game Was Against The Rules

MERRY CHRISTMAS — Terra Linda Junior Trojans' "Merry Christmas Bowl" game in Honolulu Dec. 2 was in direct violation of the National Pop Warner Football Conference regulations.

The expensive and athletically-meaningless junket involved 40 players, 3 waterboys, 6 (SIX)! coaches, 5 cheerleaders and 3 officers of the Terra Linda Junior Trojans Parents Club (57 in all).

The commissioner and coaches in Hawaii who set up the game will be censured by Warner officials.

One irate resident of Terra Linda at one point threatened to call for a District Attorney's investigation into the disbursement of the nearly $10,000 funds raised to finance the trip and still may fulfill his threat.

Causing All Kinds Of Commotion

And that whirrrr you may have heard lately may have been Glenn S. "Pop" Warner spinning in his final resting place.

Those developments came to light today as Pop Warner District One Commissioner Stephen Spelman of Larkspur admitted the holiday trip for the Terra Linda youngsters . . . is causing all kinds of commotion."

Spelman emphatically added, "I strongly disapprove of such post-season trips. No one from Terra Linda has ever contacted my office seeking official approval of the game. If they had I would have said 'no.' In the first place, the game violates national conference regulations."

Spelman explained that the Marin team plays at an "offset Junior Bantam Weight" and the Hawaiian team plays at the lighter Midget classification. "Actually," he said, "there was no great weight disparity at this point in the year, but the Marin boys just enjoyed the advantage of a heavier weigh-in at the start of the season."

Matter Will Be Fully Aired

Spelman, who said the matter would be fully aired at a meeting of California Pop Warner officials in Fresno next month, said he contacted Terra Linda coach Jim Finnegan after he caught wind of the game and fund-raising drive last month.

"Mr. Finnegan told me that the drive had already raised $6,000 and that all plans had been completed," said Spelman, a San Francisco police sergeant. "With all that radio, television and newspaper publicity underway, the thing just got out of hand. They (Terra Linda officials) were selling clothes and raffle tickets. What in the heck is this thing coming to?"

He continued: "Well, it was beyond the point of no return. I contacted state and regional officers and discussed it with them. We agreed that since arrangements had gone so far and that there was no weight or age disparity in the teams, we had to approve, but only at the last minute. We're going to get to the bottom of this and make certain it doesn't happen again."

Officials Will Be Censured

Spelman, whose jurisdiction in Pop Warner extends from Monterey north to Santa Rosa, said Hawaiian leagues are notorious for their expensive post-season junkets. "We'll have to straighten them out on THAT," he cracked, saying the coaches and commissioner in Hawaii would be censured.

The District One commissioner said he approves of post-season games ". . . only on a local basis, like Marin playing the Peninsula or San Francisco against the East Bay. But I don't like these long-distance games. In fact, I am on record as having voted down a proposed state championship playoff system."

The Terra Linda trip was made possible by a fund-raising campaign that netted nearly $10,000.

The players missed three days of school and traveled some 4,000 miles to play an abbreviation of football as we know it. The game — one of three played that day — was of six-minute quarters on an 80-by-40-yard gridiron. The Marin teams usually play 12 minute quarters on regulation 100-by-53-yard fields.

$60 Expense Money For Adults

According to a reliable source, each adult member of the traveling party was given $60 expense money in addition to the free air and hotel accommodations.

Two parties for parents, coaches and officials of both teams — one hosted by the Terra Linda Club — took place Friday and Saturday nights, Dec. 1-2 in Honolulu. Few, if any, players were invited.

The only "parties" for the children on the exotic trip were two almost identical tours of the island and a picnic Sunday before their departure. The team was booked out of Honolulu at 11:45 p.m. Sunday for an exhausting flight home, causing most of the players to miss school the next day.

Two of the six coaches remained in Hawaii on an extended vacation.

Higher Costs By Honolulu Firm

And, get this, all travel arrangements were made through a Honolulu firm at costs higher than those quoted locally.

All this for a game of football that had absolutely no significance. Come on, now!

Can't the people of Terra Linda find something more lasting on which to spend their $10,000? Something like recreational facilities for all the children in the community to enjoy.

And, oh yes, one more question: Did Terra Linda team officials solicit this expensive invitation or was the overture made by Hawaiian league officials?

No Letdown By Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders say they will be going all out Sunday against the New York Jets even though the Oaklanders have cinched the Western Division.

The Raiders dumped Houston 19-7 last Sunday but the Jets also lost to stay even with the Oilers in the Eastern Division.

Oakland frankly admits it would prefer to meet Houston in the American Football League playoff.

"Houston is a running team and we like to feel that nobody can beat us running," explained defensive end Ben Davidson.

The jets can be dangerous when Joe Namath and his receivers have one of their big days. That's what happened in New York (where the Raiders absorbed their lone loss.

Houston dominated play the first half Sunday and led 7-0 at the intermission. The second half, they could barely make a yard.

"We figured out what they were doing and made some minor changes. Next time we should do better," said Davidson.

Mira Given Good Chance To Start

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — George Mira apparently will open at quarterback Saturday when the San Francisco 49ers host Dallas.

Or as Coach Jack Christiansen put it yesterday: "Off George's performance against Atlanta, I see no reason not to start him again."

3 FOR 4

Mira, who is playing out his option, completed 20 of 34 passes for 324 yards to beat the Atlanta Falcons, 34-28, last Saturday. Mira has quarterbacked the 49ers four times in his career and has produced three victories.

Mira wants to be a starter in the pros and is fighting John Brodie and Steve Spurrier for that honor for the 49ers. Brodie and Spurrier did not look sharp during the team's recent six-game losing streak but Christiansen says the situation of who will be the 1968 starter is still being studied.

END OF YEAR

"Mira did a fine job against the Falcons," said Christiansen, "but we wouldn't make a decision on just one game. The whole thing will be evaluated at the end of the year."

Meanwhile, defensive halfback Kermit Alexander, who saved the Atlanta game with an interception in the last 1:20, undergoes surgery today for a broken jaw. It is believed he will be able to play Saturday, using a special face guard.

BASKETBALL QUESTION

How Many Refs?

Two, the present number used? Three, which has been tried in previous years and is getting support again this season? Or maybe one?

How about none?

Referees were the main topic of discussion yesterday at a weekly basketball writers luncheon. About 20 college coaches attended and most had something to say about the use of three officials.

INTRODUCED

John Nucatola, director of officials for the Eastern College Athletic Conference, introduced the subject—not for the first time—and said that the experiment was being used primarily in the East and the Big Ten Conference this year.

"In the three-official system, the officials don't get as tired, and I think you'll find there is less whistle blowing. The system was devised by me 19 years ago and tried then. I thought it worked out well."

The Big Ten will play 25 games with the new system and Villanova and St. Joseph's, Pa., will use it in some of their home games.

OPPOSITION

"With two officials, you are dealing with two different personalities. Add another," Norton said, " and you have three separate personalities. It just makes for inconsistency.

"For instance, one official might miss a foul that his partner sees. He doesn't call it because he doesn't want him to look bad.

RELAX

"Two or three referees have a tendency to lean on one another, it's human nature. They tend to relax. With just one official, you'll have consistency and find that he won't have a chance to relax. Therefore he'll be on the ball with less chance of missing a play."

In a lighter vein, Bobby Knight, Army's head coach, said, "At my urging, our athletic director has offered to play our home games without any officials."

27 Southerners For Senior Bowl

SECOND TEAM

Five other South squadsmen made the All-America second team.

They are Florida State's quarterback Kim Hammand, who ranked second in the nation in total offense; Clemson lineman Harry Olszewski; Tennessee lineman John Boynton; and linebackers Fred Carr of Texas-El Paso and D. D. Lewis of Mississippi State.

Carr, at 6-5 and 232 pounds, will be the biggest linebacker ever to play in the Senior Bowl.

TENNESSEE QB

Dividing the signal calling duties with Hammond will be Dewey Warren, who guided Tennessee to the Southeastern Conference championship. The two passed for a total of more than 3,000 yards this season.

Homan, Auburn's Freddie Hyatt, Vanderbilt's Bob Goodridge and Virginia Tech's Ken Barefoot will be the chief targets for Hammond and Warren. The four totaled 193 pass receptions in 1967.

COACHES

Hank Stram of Kansas City's Chiefs will coach the South squad and Mike Holovak of the Boston Patriots will direct the North. The North squad will be announced later this week.

Georgia's '11' Draws Praise

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State Coach Earle Edwards says his team will have to be sharp "and go at them real hard" to win Saturday's Liberty Bowl football game against Georgia at Memphis, Tenn.

Edwards told a news conference yesterday that Georgia does not have a weakness the N. C. State staff has been able to detect.

"They are sound in all departments," said Edwards, whose team finished the season with an 8-2 record. "They are strong offensively. Their quarterback, Kirby Moore, is an excellent runner and an adequate passer."

Edwards said Georgia's "passing is effective because of the strength of their running attack . . . it's just a real good team. It's one that is accustomed to winning and playing and winning in bowl games."

Edwards indicated he does not expect his team or Georgia to try anything fancy Saturday. He said Georgia, 7-3 for the season, "is not a team that tries to fool you, and we don't intend to have a lot of changes from what we did during the regular season. There are too many things that can go wrong when you do that."

The Wolfpack "will have to be much sharper than we were in four final games of the regular season," Edwards said. "We will have to be ready to go at them real hard, and we will have to do it all through the game."

A squad of 47 N.C. State players will leave the Raleigh-Durham Airport Friday morning for Memphis.

Legal Papers Filed To Tie Up Wolman's Holdings

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHILADELPHIA — A New York financial corporation has filed legal papers to tie up all of Jerry Wolman's holdings until $150,000 in back rent is paid.

"It prevents the person named Wolman from selling anything until there is a court decision on the complaint or the corporation decides to remove the writ," said Richard A. Gallagher, chief deputy sheriff.

Wolman, principal owner of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, has stated he is in a financial bind because of tight money. He reportedly has sold the Eagles and Connie Mack Stadium, although he denies it. Yesterday's action may block those deals.

BASKETBALL QUESTION

How Many Refs?

Two, the present number used? Three, which has been tried in previous years and is getting support again this season? Or maybe one?

How about none?

Referees were the main topic of discussion yesterday at a weekly basketball writers luncheon. About 20 college coaches attended and most had something to say about the use of three officials.

INTRODUCED

John Nucatola, director of officials for the Eastern College Athletic Conference, introduced the subject—not for the first time—and said that the experiment was being used primarily in the East and the Big Ten Conference this year.

"In the three-official system, the officials don't get as tired, and I think you'll find there is less whistle blowing. The system was devised by me 19 years ago and tried then. I thought it worked out well."

The Big Ten will play 25 games with the new system and Villanova and St. Joseph's, Pa., will use it in some of their home games.

OPPOSITION

"With two officials, you are dealing with two different personalities. Add another," Norton said, " and you have three separate personalities. It just makes for inconsistency.

"For instance, one official might miss a foul that his partner sees. He doesn't call it because he doesn't want him to look bad.

RELAX

"Two or three referees have a tendency to lean on one another, it's human nature. They tend to relax. With just one official, you'll have consistency and find that he won't have a chance to relax. Therefore he'll be on the ball with less chance of missing a play."

In a lighter vein, Bobby Knight, Army's head coach, said, "At my urging, our athletic director has offered to play our home games without any officials."

Jim McDermott, Iona coach, said he'd heard a lot of suggestions, "but I haven't heard anyone suggest we play on the honor system."

27 Southerners For Senior Bowl

Alabama end Dennis Homan, the crack pass catcher, and rugged Tennessee center Bob Johnson are from the All-America first team on offense; linemen Dennis Byrd of North Caroline State and Greg Pipes of Baylor are from the first team defensive array.

SECOND TEAM

Five other South squadsmen made the All-America second team.

They are Florida State's quarterback Kim Hammand, who ranked second in the nation in total offense; Clemson lineman Harry Olszewski; Tennessee lineman John Boynton; and linebackers Fred Carr of Texas-El Paso and D. D. Lewis of Mississippi State.

Carr, at 6-5 and 232 pounds, will be the biggest linebacker ever to play in the Senior Bowl.

TENNESSEE QB

Dividing the signal calling duties with Hammond will be Dewey Warren, who guided Tennessee to the Southeastern Conference championship. The two passed for a total of more than 3,000 yards this season.

Legal Papers Filed To Tie Up Wolman's Holdings

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHILADELPHIA — A New York financial corporation has filed legal papers to tie up all of Jerry Wolman's holdings until $150,000 in back rent is paid.

"It prevents the person named Wolman from selling anything until there is a court decision on the complaint or the corporation decides to remove the writ," said Richard A. Gallagher, chief deputy sheriff.

Wolman, principal owner of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, has stated he is in a financial bind because of tight money. He reportedly has sold the Eagles and Connie Mack Stadium, although he denies it. Yesterday's action may block those deals.

Vincent T. Lombardi, Football's Madman

Football coaches are the oddest cast of characters on the whole American scene. It was the contention of the quarterback George Ratterman ("Confessions Of A Gypsy Quarterback") that they are not people, they are things. That if you look closely, you can see the bolts sticking out of the forehead and that there's a mad doctor with a broken rope looking for them some place. They can also be seen in the full of the moon running over the moors on all fours, he suggests.

Vincent T. Lombardi, a career coach, has officially copped out to being a madman in a moment of candor which shocked the rest of the civilized world but achieved only a shrugged "So, what else is new?" in most of the game's more hep locker rooms.

THE GAME itself is a form of madness. The mere fact that you can call something "a game" which gives you a) a limp; b) cavities; c) a headache; d) multiple contusions; and e) a 90 per cent probability of broken bones, gives the sport the same high level of sanity as wing-walking, barrel-riding over Niagara Falls and smoking in bed.

AS WITH all war, the trick is to turn moderately sane young men into homicidal maniacs. This requires first and foremost that the enemy be caricatured. Obviously, you cannot spread cartoons showing him bayoneting babies, or laughing uproariously as he bombs lifeboats. There aren't enough wife-stealers around to keep the home forces properly incensed.

So, you build up a lunatic image of yourself. You rule your own troops by a Neapolitan combination of fear and love. You convey an image of an ungovernable temper. "Troops fight for love or fear," Napoleon said. Football players, no less. The trick is to be part-Machiavelli, part-Daddy.

A FOOTBALL team is not a democracy. But it may be the last bastion of sentimentality in a cynical world.

The patron saint of the breed is a broken-nosed old gaffer, born on a crag in Norway, who did more for the Irish-Catholic image in this country than four generations of Irish tenors. Knute Rockne got more out of invoking the dead, the lame, and the halt than most coaches could with a fleet of convertibles.

AT LAST count, George Gipp won more games posthumously than ever he did with a football. Rockne could sear ("I'll tell your grandchildren you're the first Notre Dame that ever quit"), cajole ("We'll go out there and fight! fight! fight!"), inspire ("we'll all kneel down and pray") or just plain instruct ("The Army will go up the middle because the Army always goes up the middle. Today, they will die up the middle.")

VINCE LOMBARDI does not keep the names and addresses of the critical ward of General Hospital. If he prays, he prays alone. If he cries, no one sees him. But he has the same pathological fear of failure as every other successful coach who ever lived.

His creed runs exactly counter to the American ethic, the Hollywood standby that the poor, the afflicted, the outlaw are the oppressed minority. The man on top is the oppressed minority in Vince Lombardi's world. The rest of the world are jackals, lapping at the legs of a lion, praying for someone to draw his blood for them. Staying on top requires much more fortitude than getting there.

COACH LOMBARDI never feels he has to justify himself — any more than the lion does. But he sat in a Santa Barbara Inn suite on the eve of the Rams' game, a game HE didn't have to win but the Rams did, and lifted a small corner of the psyche of Coach Lombardi:

"I'm a shouter and a driver. But the first man I drive is Vince Lombardi. I never say a thing unless I feel it. I don't even plan what I say. I just let it come out. Sometimes I don't say anything. I never PRETEND to be angry. I am angry. Earl Blaik once said that Vince Lombardi is a thoroughbred with a peasant's tember.

"Football players have egos or they wouldn't be football players. It's a question of how you bring out that ego. Some coaches do it by being buddy with their players. Others are aloof. I do it by being myself."

Not Rockne, not Blaik, not George Allen nor George Halas, but V. (for Violent) Lombardi — The Beast Of Green Bay, the un-Paper Lion, half-man, half-mad, all Italian.

Parker May Have Weight Problem

Sunday morning, prior to watching his former Baltimore Colts' teammates play the New Orleans Saints, Parker stepped on a scale at home. He was 280.

At the game, Parker confessed to eating six hamburgers, two hot dogs, two coffees and two hot chocolates.

"I'm going to try and stay under 300," said the retired offensive lineman. "Anything under 300 will be satisfactory."

At the rate he's going, the eight-time All-Pro selection will have more trouble with the knife and fork than he did with opposing linemen.

Cage Team Cracks Iowa Scoring Mark

DENISON, Iowa (AP) — Midwestern scored more points than any other Iowa college basketball team in history in whipping Northwood Institute of Michigan 136-117 last night.

Yaz Captures Another Prize

BOSTON (AP) — Slugging outfielder Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox picked up another in his list of honors today when he was named Most Valuable Player by the Boston chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Three other members of the Red Sox organization were also selected to be honored at the writers' annual dinner Jan. 24. Jim Lonborg was chosen as the outstanding Pitcher, Dick Williams as Manager of the Year, and Dick O'Connell as Executive of the Year.

Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State has coached the East team on three occasions in the East-West Shrine Game at San Francisco.

Umpiring Housewife

She's a Long Island housewife, who says she wants to make a career out of calling balls and strikes in men's professional baseball.

Mrs. Bernice Gera today joined more than 6,000 males as a full-time member of the National Baseball Congress' Association of Umpires.

Mrs. Gera made her baseball debut in the 33rd annual National Baseball Congress tournament last August. Officials of the semi-pro tournament said she made a favorable impression on both fans and players.

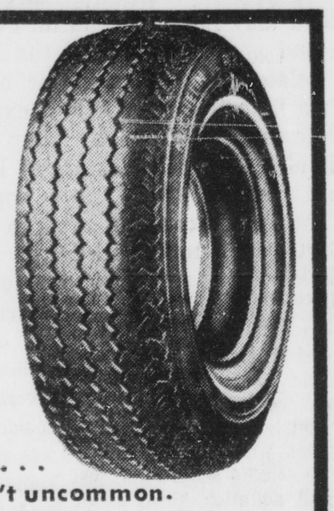
She was graduated from the Florida Baseball Umpires School at West Palm Beach with high honors.

Cadet Cagers Lose Three Tourney Tilts

San Rafael Military Academy fattened its losing streak with a three-game visit to the Anderson Valley Tournament in Boonville last week.

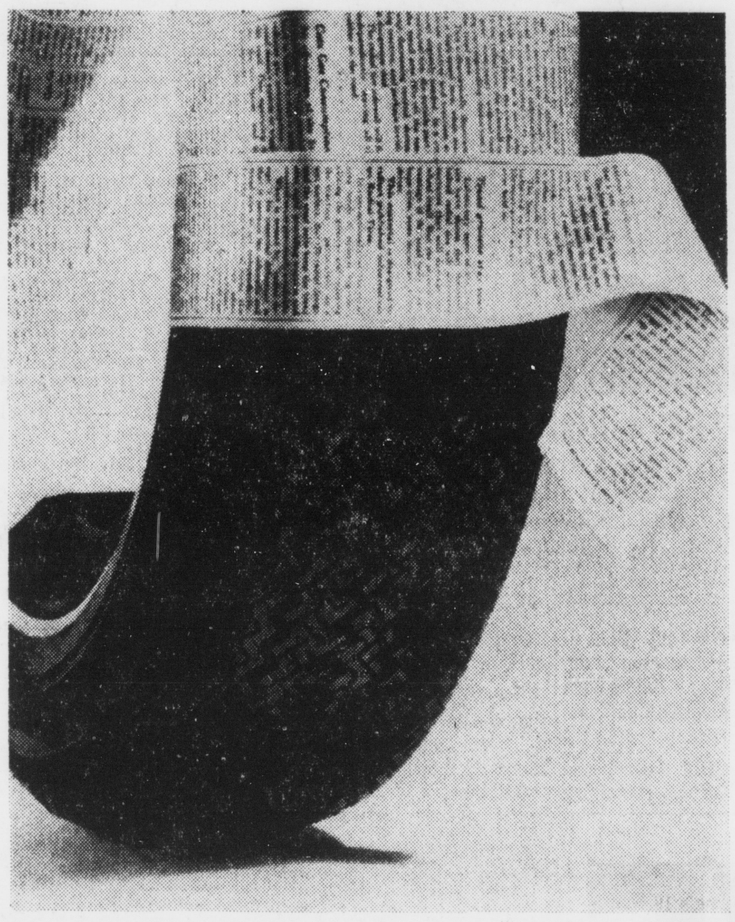
The Cadets lost all three games but Bruce Camileri pumped in 57 points for the tournament. The Cadets were beaten by Mendocino 60-36, St. Vincent's of Petaluma 57-43, and Potter Valley 55-40. Camileri scored, 12, 25 and 20 points respectively. The Cadets are now 1-6.

Here is the full story on the tire you've been reading about . . . The MICHELIN X Steel Radial Ply Tire!



This is a true story about the revolutionary Michelin X Steel Radial Tire. It's as close to being blow-out proof as any tire that ever came down the turnpike. It has more steering control than ordinary tires, more traction, safer cornering, better braking.

When the ordinary tires that come on most new cars are worn bald, The Michelin X Steel Radial Tire is just getting its second wind. Michelin, Inc., guarantees it for 40,000 miles. But in most cases this is a minimum mileage . . . and mileage of 50,000 miles and more isn't uncommon.



In The Michelin X Steel Radial Tire the tread is built in a new way with two continuous belts of steel reinforcing the tire like a girdle. The rayon cord sidewalls are free to flex with little distortion in the tread. The tire keeps its tread flat on the road. A longer footprint than ordinary tires.

The Steel Radial Tire cuts rolling resistance, and releases more available horsepower. That could mean up to 10% better gas mileage. There's more to the story.

The Steel Radial Tire has up to 39% more resistance to skidding out on wet curves. That makes it the ultimate rain tire. More grip on ice, too. That makes it an all-weather, all-year tire. What more could you ask of a tire?

Price? Depending on your tire size, The Steel Radial Tire will cost you from $38.11 to $57.41 including mounting and excise tax. Use your Master Charge, BankAmericard, Charge Key or take a year to pay with any oil company Credit Card.

You can pay $75 or more, but you won't get more tire from anyone, anywhere. Cain's guarantees it.

* * *

Michelin guarantees The Michelin X Radial Tire, so long as it is used with Michelin Radial Tubes on passenger cars or station wagons as follows:

Guaranteed against tread wear-out and all failures from road hazards for 40,000 miles. If tread wears off or if tire fails before 40,000 miles, we will, at our option, in exchange for your tire, replace it or give you a refund, in either case charging only for the mileage received (charge will be pro-rata share of then current regular selling price plus Federal Excise Tax).

Guaranteed against all failures from defects for the life of the original tread. If tire fails, we will, in exchange for your tire, replace it, charging only for the tread worn (charge will be pro-rata share of then current regular selling price plus Federal Excise Tax).

IF THE MICHELIN X STEEL RADIAL PLY WAS LIKE ANY OTHER RADIAL PLY TIRE . . . THEN WE WOULD GUARANTEE IT LIKE ANY OTHER RADIAL TIRE.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

Exciting Battle With Huge Sturgeon Off Paradise Cove

STEVENS

In time to come, when his hair is gray, his back a bit stooped, and his actions have slowed down, Marcelino Melena may hold a grandson on his lap, and at the request of the little boy relate a story of an epic battle with a monstrous fish. He'll explain how he cast out his grass-shrimp baited hook in the calm waters of Paradise Cove (California City), hoping, but not really expecting a fish to grab the bait. How he made himself comfortable in his boat and lit a cigarette.

From time to time Marcelino watched his brand new 40-pound test line where it entered the surface, he will tell his grandson, and how after a period of no action whatever, he noticed the line coming alive. First, just a small agitation, then, as he carefully reached down and grasped his rod, the line tightened and began unreeling line from his reel.

HE WILL tell how he casually upended the rod to set the hook, and prepared to retrieve line. How his breath shortened and his heart pounded as, by the resistance felt, he realized he had a fish hooked of over-average weight. Carefully he played give-and take with his hookup. At times the line literally flew off the reel, and at other times he had to reel frantically to pick up the slack as the fish approached the boat.

MARCELINO WILL pause in his recital to scan the face of his grandson. He sees it is eager for the conclusion of this battle of the century. The grandfather smiled as he said earnestly: "At several times I figured I couldn't bring to gaff whatever was on the end of the line, but I kept the fight up for a long time, well over an hour, my arms were getting tired, but I kept on reeling or letting the fish take line up to the point where any greater strain on my rod or the leader or line would break."

Again our hero paused, then smiled as though to himself as he concluded his tale.

The fish proved to be a sturgeon measuring 7 feet 9 inches in length and weighing an even 230 pounds. Marcelino told me through Joe Wun of the Sports Center bait and tackle store in Castro Valley he is having the monster smoked.

SPEAKING OF congratulations, here are some belated ones to Lenny Govinetti, Ron Govinetti and Bill Andrade who returned recently from a deer hunt in Wyoming with three gorgeous bucks, one with an antler spread of 34 inches. Ray Bartleson of Hayward reported on the above and included in his note a colored snap of the heads of the big bucks — an interesting picture but not such as to take to newsprint. Which reminds me to caution all my readers not to submit any photo that is so dark you can't tell what it is about. Pictures are welcome, understand, but only if sharp enough to be usable.

Beware of the express-train approach. Some nights, when we feel a little more full of vim than usual, we gradually increase the speed of our approach. I say "we" because it happens to pros as well as amateurs. The usual result is a last-minute snapping of the wrist, instead of a smooth, easy delivery. Slow down.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

STEVENS

In time to come, when his hair is gray, his back a bit stooped, and his actions have slowed down, Marcelino Melena may hold a grandson on his lap, and at the request of the little boy relate a story of an epic battle with a monstrous fish. He'll explain how he cast out his grass-shrimp baited hook in the calm waters of Paradise Cove (California City), hoping, but not really expecting a fish to grab the bait. How he made himself comfortable in his boat and lit a cigarette.

From time to time Marcelino watched his brand new 40-pound test line where it entered the surface, he will tell his grandson, and how after a period of no action whatever, he noticed the line coming alive. First, just a small agitation, then, as he carefully reached down and grasped his rod, the line tightened and began unreeling line from his reel.

HE WILL tell how he casually upended the rod to set the hook, and prepared to retrieve line. How his breath shortened and his heart pounded as, by the resistance felt, he realized he had a fish hooked of over-average weight. Carefully he played give-and take with his hookup. At times the line literally flew off the reel, and at other times he had to reel frantically to pick up the slack as the fish approached the boat.

MARCELINO WILL pause in his recital to scan the face of his grandson. He sees it is eager for the conclusion of this battle of the century. The grandfather smiled as he said earnestly: "At several times I figured I couldn't bring to gaff whatever was on the end of the line, but I kept the fight up for a long time, well over an hour, my arms were getting tired, but I kept on reeling or letting the fish take line up to the point where any greater strain on my rod or the leader or line would break."

Again our hero paused, then smiled as though to himself as he concluded his tale.

The fish proved to be a sturgeon measuring 7 feet 9 inches in length and weighing an even 230 pounds. Marcelino told me through Joe Wun of the Sports Center bait and tackle store in Castro Valley he is having the monster smoked.

SPEAKING OF congratulations, here are some belated ones to Lenny Govinetti, Ron Govinetti and Bill Andrade who returned recently from a deer hunt in Wyoming with three gorgeous bucks, one with an antler spread of 34 inches. Ray Bartleson of Hayward reported on the above and included in his note a colored snap of the heads of the big bucks — an interesting picture but not such as to take to newsprint. Which reminds me to caution all my readers not to submit any photo that is so dark you can't tell what it is about. Pictures are welcome, understand, but only if sharp enough to be usable.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I'm 54 and am ready to do some investing after years of piddling around, speculating and losing money. Whatever I bought went down and whatever I sold went up — I've had it. I'm now convinced that one should buy a stock of proven growth and let time function and work for you. What do you think of life insurance stocks at present? They have come down and if you think they are cheap, I would welcome a recommendation as to a specific issue—M. K.

A. Piddling around means literally trifling with your money and that's exactly what you've been doing. I commend you warmly on your change of heart and on your selection of the life-insurance field. The group has come down sharply in recent years and still shows no sign of renewed investor favor. If you are patient, though, and buy and hold a high-grade stock, I believe you will be well rewarded over a period of five to 10 years. I suggest that you buy Republic National Life Insurance Co. of Dallas, which has had a good record of growth and stock-dividend payments for many years.

Q. Last February I sold 300 Avco short at 3½. I have watched it climb to 65 and then come down some. I am deeply concerned and would appreciate your advice on what I should do. — F. W.

A. I dislike preaching to any reader, but if I may say so, selling short is a risky procedure for the average untrained investor. Avco's merger with Paul Revere will bring together a company with a good deal of industrial know-how and another with considerable financial strength. The result should be an ideal combination from the standpoint of growth through acquisitions. Avco's recent decline was due in part, I believe, to fund selling on a technical basis and I do not believe the shares will go much lower — barring a severe market decline. I advise you to cover your short position.

This record tops a previous mark of 3.11 billion cubic feet set on Dec. 17, 1965.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I'm 54 and am ready to do some investing after years of piddling around, speculating and losing money. Whatever I bought went down and whatever I sold went up — I've had it. I'm now convinced that one should buy a stock of proven growth and let time function and work for you. What do you think of life insurance stocks at present? They have come down and if you think they are cheap, I would welcome a recommendation as to a specific issue—M. K.

A. Piddling around means literally trifling with your money and that's exactly what you've been doing. I commend you warmly on your change of heart and on your selection of the life-insurance field. The group has come down sharply in recent years and still shows no sign of renewed investor favor. If you are patient, though, and buy and hold a high-grade stock, I believe you will be well rewarded over a period of five to 10 years. I suggest that you buy Republic National Life Insurance Co. of Dallas, which has had a good record of growth and stock-dividend payments for many years.

Q. Last February I sold 300 Avco short at 3½. I have watched it climb to 65 and then come down some. I am deeply concerned and would appreciate your advice on what I should do. — F. W.

A. I dislike preaching to any reader, but if I may say so, selling short is a risky procedure for the average untrained investor. Avco's merger with Paul Revere will bring together a company with a good deal of industrial know-how and another with considerable financial strength. The result should be an ideal combination from the standpoint of growth through acquisitions. Avco's recent decline was due in part, I believe, to fund selling on a technical basis and I do not believe the shares will go much lower — barring a severe market decline. I advise you to cover your short position.

Gas Use Record Set On Weekend

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — An all-time peak for the delivery of natural gas to customers of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. was recorded last Friday and Saturday.

In the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m. on Saturday, PG&E delivered 3,172,000,000 cubic feet of gas to more than two million customers in Northern and central California.

This record tops a previous mark of 3.11 billion cubic feet set on Dec. 17, 1965.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Feldron Industries Specializing In Coloring Of Vinyls, Leathers

A new manufacturing business just getting under way in the Northgate Industrial Park is engaged in the production of dyes for the coloring of vinyls and other synthetics and leathers.

The corporation, known as Feldron Industries, Inc., is a project of five local businessmen: Lee Ceccotti of Larkspur, president; Northgate builder Ronald Antonioli, vice president in charge of manufacturing; Donald Hanne of Sleepy Hollow, vice president in charge of sales; Frank Williams of Santa Venetia, vice president — marketing analysis and distribution; and San Rafael certified public accountant E. T. Ghirado, secretary-treasurer.

The corporation has purchased the formula for the dyes from another manufacturer and is now occupying a temporary location at 178 Paul Drive where test runs are presently being made under the supervision of Ralph Garik from the East Bay, technician in charge. A permanent location in one of Antonioli's new buildings in the industrial park will be occupied later.

According to Ghirado, up to now the dyeing of vinyl and synthetics after manufacture has been almost impossible, due to the nonporosity of these materials and their inability to absorb the dyes. The perfected Feldron formula, he says, consists of two preparations — a "reducer" to soften the material and open the pores, and the dye itself, which may be applied a few minutes later. All types of synthetic materials may be treated — shoes, purses, upholstery, vinyl coats, wallpapers and other articles. Light colored materials may be given darker colors and vice versa.

The company expects to get into bulk marketing in about two weeks. Also planned is the production of the reducer and dye in aerosol cans which the housewife may use for spraying materials in the home. The latter will be marketed through retail stores.

PERRY T. JOY of Larkspur has been named manager of the California Bankers Association and will serve as secretary of its trust division. He was previously assistant manager. Before joining the association in 1950 he was with United Air Lines and the Arabian American Oil Co.

Framm

Morrill

EDGAR FRAMM of San Anselmo will observe his 40th anniversary with Bank of America next Saturday. He is an assistant vice president in the international services department at the San Francisco head office and has specialized in international banking throughout his career which includes three years as assistant manager of the Dusseldorf branch in Germany. He has been an assistant vice president since 1960.

INSURANCE. Robert H. Morrell of San Rafael has been appointed West Coast manager of Affiliated F M Insurance Co. . . . Keith M. Askew of San Anselmo has been elected a director of the National Automobile Club, to serve until the next annual meeting in May, 1968. . . . Fred C. Gilberti of Novato, assistant vice president for the Pacific region of Fireman's Fund American Life Insurance Co., qualified for the company's "Conference of Leaders" at Boca Raton, Fla., last week. He works out of the company's home office in San Francisco.

DAVID H. OLESEN of Corte Madera has been promoted to operations officer at Bank of America's branch in that community. For the past year he has served as head of the Travis Air Force Base facility. He joined the bank in 1964 at Fortuna and advanced the following year to assistant operations officer at the First Napa branch.

A Gunboat On Yangtze 30 Years Ago Today . . .

Today is the 30th anniversary of an attack on an United States gunboat in the Yangtze River that has gone down in history as "the Panay incident."

It is worth recalling because of both similarities and dissimilarities between it and a pair of incidents involving U.S. Navy vessels nearly 27 years later in the Gulf of Tonkin.

JAPANESE MILITARY forces were rapidly overrunning China in December of 1937. The various foreign powers that had long enjoyed extraterritorial rights in China were busily removing their installations and evacuating their citizens.

On the bright Sunday afternoon of Dec. 12, the gunboat Panay was escorting three Standard Oil Co. vessels up the busy Yangtze, 27 miles above Nanking.

At 1:27 p.m., Japanese bombing planes suddenly swooped on the flotilla. They bombed and strafed the Panay, the Standard Oil vessels, four nearby British gunboats, and some tugs. The attack continued for over an hour, with gun crews aboard the Panay shooting back until their vessel began to sink.

Three were killed aboard the Panay, along with the master of one of the Standard Oil vessels and a sailor aboard a British ship.

THE UNITED STATES immediately demanded full reparations and an apology from Emperor Hirohito. There were some (including a then-young newspaperman now writing this editorial) who feared the U.S. and Japan would go to war over the attack.

However, Japan accepted full responsibility, made formal apology, recalled officers responsible for the attack, and promised indemnities of $2,214,007. The Panay incident ended with that.

IT WAS ANOTHER bright Sunday on Aug. 2, 1964, as the U.S. destroyer Maddox patrolled the Gulf of Tonkin, between Hainan Island and the China-North Vietnam coast. North Vietnam was aiding an uprising against the South Vietnam regime which was supported by the U.S.A.

Three torpedo boats — unmarked, but believed to come from North Vietnamese bases — opened fire on the Maddox with torpedoes and 37-millimeter guns. The Maddox fired back. Four jet fighters from the aircraft carrier Ticonderoga, also in the vicinity, attacked the torpedo boats and disabled one of them.

President Lyndon B. Johnson immediately dispatched more ships and planes to the area, ordering them to meet attackers "not only with the objective of driving off the attack but of destroying them."

Two days later, however, a half dozen torpedo boats fired on the Maddox and the destroyer C. Turner Joy. The following day, U.S. planes raided the North Vietnamese bases, sinking two dozen torpedo boats and leaving the bases in rubble.

No one was killed or wounded aboard the Maddox or the Joy.

THE PRESIDENT ASKED congressional approval of his action. Both houses of Congress on Aug. 7 voted a resolution supporting "the determination of the President to take all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression."

The resolution has been President Johnson's authority for ordering bombing raids on North Vietnam, which move ever closer to the Chinese border; for taking the offensive in South Vietnam, and for committing a force that now totals more than half a million U.S. fighting men.

There are interesting similarities and dissimilarities between the Tonkin Gulf incidents and the Panay incident of 30 years ago today.

Ancient Lupine Found Frozen

Now comes news about another, but related, kind of lupine — the arctic tundra lupine. Seeds of this plant were found frozen under six feet of silt in the Yukon Territory. Using the scientist's esoteric methods, it was estimated these seeds were 10,000 years old.

When placed in warm, moist soil, the seeds germinated and produced normal, vigorous plants!

Novato Not Feasible For Airport Plan

Editor, Independent-Journal:

It is difficult to know how to answer the questions of Mr. Theron A. Newell's column of Tuesday, Dec. 5, considering that he cannot understand the difference between developing an industrial complex in conjunction with a 40 million dollar established major all-weather airport in an ideal location, and starting from scratch in a location which forecloses such all-weather possibilites as well as being in a poor location for the purpose planned. . . .

To the headline question "Why not put all airport eggs in one basket — Novato?", the answer is simply; the Novato airport is not located so that it could ever be what is called an "all-weather" airport. It is located between the four KCBS towers, 530 feet high and one mile to the east, and a 1,600 foot hill two miles to the west. The Marin County Airport at Novato is very fine for just what it is — a good-weather airport for the personal plane owner and businessman plane owner. It may someday have a control tower, but that is bout the limit of its potential.

The whole idea of the Hamilton Industrial Park-Airport complex stems from the absolute necessity for the community to take action which will secure for all time the benefits to the whole area which can be made possible by the very existence of the fully developed radio and radar instrument navigation and landing systems connected with Hamilton Air Force Base. These have been developed over the last 30 years. These "all-weather" systems, coupled with the available vacant flat wand of approximately 2,150 acres, constitute an opportunity which we desperately need and which will be lost forever should either one of two things happen: 1. The land near Hamilton actually goes into development of homes. 2. The Air Force is forced to close its flying activities. Either one of these could easily happen. If the Air Force should inactivate the flying functions before the county has been able to develop an industrial base strong enough to be able to support it, the result would be a disaster for the county.

Since the whole idea is to prevent the loss of an irreplaceable asset and opportunity, there really is no question of trying to build the Novato airport into something it is not and can never be. The Novato airport is excellent now for its purpose, and I am sure it will be very successfrul, as a VFR (good-weather) airport for private plane owners. It does not have any potential for development as a major commercial-industrial airport because its location prevents development to "all-weather" standards.

It goes without saying that in order to get the plan started, the first step is to obtain approval of the United States Government. This, of course, is something that must be decided on a policy basis at the very highest level. . . .

Lastly, I would like to note the sly innuendo regarding "many years before the flightline at Hamilton is abandoned by the Air Force." This is typical of the type of thing practiced by Mr. Newell every time he writes about the subject. Let me say one more time: No part of the Hamilton Plan depends to any degree whatsoever on abandonment or joint possession of any physical part or aspect of Hamilton Air Force Base, with the one exception of calling for some very minor use of the landing runway only, for exceptional aircraft, which can never, ever be accomodated at all in Marin County without such cooperation. This minor use would be such as: airplanes over 25,000 pounds, jet airplanes, and instrument landings and departures.

On the contrary, the Hamilton Plan will result in prolonging the Air Force operation by better utilization, and I sincerely hope that we will aid the Air Force to continue operations indefinitely.

Here's Simple Plan To Ease Traffic

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I read with interest the story in the I-J, Dec. 5, by Paul E. Peterzell, detailing the project put forth by David E. Stovel for solving the commuting problem in Marin County. I am sure that the I-J is very interested in promoting any idea which would help alleviate the hazards of commuting.

I am not a crackpot, but just an ordinary resident of Marin who commutes to San Francisco, normally by Greyhound bus. Like others, I drive my car when, for any reason, I am going to go or come outside of the short commuting period. This means I drive alone in my car about once or twice a week.

Now, for my theory of improvement. It is one that will not cost millions of dollars. Establish a station at Novato, Terra Linda, San Rafael, Corte Madera, Strawberry and possibly Marin City. Provide a large parking area which is well lighted. Arrange for Greyhound Corp. to run buses between these stations and San Francisco at 10 or 15 minute intervals throughout the day and into the evening until approximately 11 or 12. My theory is that with transportation available as stated above, a great majority of individuals who drive intermittently so that they can conveniently return after commuting hours, will no longer drive to San Francisco, but will drive to one of these stations and use commercial transportation that is available. This would remove hundreds of cars from the freeways during the commute periods. In turn the traffic would move faster and smoother and there would no longer be a bumper to bumper line from Greenbrae to the toll gate.

Some people may even use commercial transportation between stations rather than travel on the freeway in their cars. I firmly believe that with proper planning and publicity, the use of commercial transportation would become more widely used, particularly in bad weather, which would help the success of the plan . .

I have one other thought I would like to mention since I am writing, and that has to do with the movement of traffic between San Anselmo and Fairfax. There are two thoroughfares which, in my opinion, if used more efficiently, would serve to unclog the congestion that now exists on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. If the county would make Sir Francis Drake and Center Boulevard each one-way and provide some additional access thoroughfare between the two, and also provide that the traffic move faster than the 15 or 20 miles per hour that now is the case, there would be no need for the state to talk of building a freeway to destroy the whole countryside.

(Editor's note: Making Sir Francis Drake and Center Boulevards one-way, as suggested, would be up to the cities of San Anselmo and Fairfax. The county has no jurisdiction within the cities.)

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Sadie Tishtuch's ne'er-do-well brother had been the Tishtuch's house guest now for seven solid weeks, and Mr. T. was really beginning to lose his cool. 'I've got a scheme to get rid of him," confided Mrs. Tishtuch one evening — also at the end of her tether. "We'll stage a brawl at dinner, and whoever he says is wrong will throw him out on his ear. Agreed?" "You bet," said Mr. T.

The fight they put on was a beaut. At its height, Mr. Tishtuch turned to his brother-in-law and demanded, "So who's right: your sister or me?" The brother calmly continued wolfing his dinner and announced, "I couldn't care less, but in any case, I'm staying four more weeks."

Cabinet To Include Two Republicans

By PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson plans to name at least two Republicans to his cabinet before the 1968 presidential campaign gets underway.

The first Republican will be appointed in January as Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's replacement. The second will be named to head the Treasury Department later in the year.

Former Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania; New York investment banker John J. McCloy; roving Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the GOP vice presidential candidate in 1960, and Texan Robert Anderson, secretary of the treasury under Eisenhower and a trusted Johnson adviser.

Scranton, Lodge, and McCloy head the President's list of possible successors to McNamara. Anderson is the number one choice to replace Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler when he departs next spring.

ACCORDING TO administration insiders, the President revealed his decision to bring at least two Republicans into his cabinet during a recent White House political discussion.

Taking part in the session were members of the White House staff, two long-time political friends of the President, and a member of Congress with whom the President consults regularly.

After listening to the political views of those present, the President expressed deep concern about the growing division of the country over the Vietnam war and the immediate urgency of doing something about it. He then mentioned appointing Republicans to the cabinet, and named those being considered.

DRAWING BATTLE LINES — By the end of the month, Michigan's Gov. George Romney expects to have 500 "Homes for Romney" lined up in New Hampshire.

The strategy is for Romney to be "at home" to voters in each before the March 12 presidential primary.

The plan is the key to the person-to-person campaign the Michigan governor will wage in the Granite State. In 20 days of campaigning there, Romney will seek to pick up support more through personal persuasion than through public speeches.

In each of these homes the wife is being signed on as a "Romney-for-President" worker. She will put Romney placards in her windows and pass out Romney literature.

When the governor comes to town, she will invite in friends and neighbors to meet and talk with the candidate over coffee and soft drinks.

This strategy is just the opposite of that planned by former Vice President Nixon. With the polls showing him the front-runner, Nixon has decided to limit his campaigning to a series of speeches and TV appearances. His aides say he will leave the hand-shaking to Romney.

NEW CHINESE ARRIVALS — Congress's liberalization of the immigration laws in 1965, designed mainly to unite families of European immigrants, has unexpectedly led to a flood of Chinese refugees entering the U. S.

According to Rep. Michael Feighan, D-O., chairman of a House Immigration subcommittee, more than 17,000 Chinese entered the U. S. during the first year, more immigrants than came from any other country. In previous years the number of Chinese immigrants has averaged less than 500.

To learn the reason for this influx and whether it should be stopped, Feighan plans to hold hearings and ask State and Justice Department officials to testify.

Final Cruise Of Liner Not Encouraging Omen

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Perhaps there is some sort of poetic justice in the fiasco final trip of the Cunard liner Queen Mary, purchased by the City of Long Beach with public tideland oil money as a convention center.

The city, with approval of Gov. Ronald Reagan and members of the state lands commission, is pouring more than $5 million out of its oil revenue into the obsolete vessel.

ACCORDING TO wire reports, about 1,200 persons, who paid up to $3,000 apiece to make the final trip, are somewhat unhappy, to say the least, over the trip, which was scheduled as the "fabulous final cruise around South America and Cape Horn."

Said the cruise brochure, "spend 39 exciting fun-filled days aboard the famous Queen of the Seas, enjoying the nostalgic and sentimental devotion that has always been hers to wear proudly . . . "

AFTER READING press reports of the trip itself, some California legislators feel they got a break because they were gypped out of the trip because of the special session.

The Queen Mary proceeded from Southampton to Long Beach, at times under curtailed power to save fuel. And the "custom-planned, shore excursions" planned for the "39 exciting fun-filled days" sometimes were chopped short because the "finest tradition" of Cunard, which is adhering to schedules, apparently was broken when the Queen fell behind schedule.

Reports were the liner ran out of food, was short on fresh water, served warm champagne, and was infested by rats and cockroaches. Also that passengers were forced to sleep on deck because the tropical heat steamed them out of the cabins.

Open hostility between passengers and crew heightened the dissatisfaction. A bartender was reported to have slammed the door in a lady's face, and waiters claimed fixings for drinks were rationed. So for $3,000 a copy, it looks like a good time was not had by all.

WHETHER THE LAST trip of the Queen is in the nature of being prophetic as to the future use of the liner remains to be seen.

However, the city of Long Beach may be able, with the expenditure of a few millions of public oil money, to get the vessel in shape to "rival Disneyland," as claimed when it was purchased with the oil revenues.

"Many couples who thought they couldn't stand to live with each other have found livng separated worse." worse."

The whole idea of the Hamilton Industrial Park-Airport complex stems from the absolute necessity for the community to take action which will secure for all time the benefits to the whole area which can be made possible by the very existence of the fully developed radio and radar instrument navigation and landing systems connected with Hamilton Air Force Base. These have been developed over the last 30 years. These "all-weather" systems, coupled with the available vacant flat wand of approximately 2,150 acres, constitute an opportunity which we desperately need and which will be lost forever should either one of two things happen: 1. The land near Hamilton actually goes into development of homes. 2. The Air Force is forced to close its flying activities. Either one of these could easily happen. If the Air Force should inactivate the flying functions before the county has been able to develop an industrial base strong enough to be able to support it, the result would be a disaster for the county.

Since the whole idea is to prevent the loss of an irreplaceable asset and opportunity, there really is no question of trying to build the Novato airport into something it is not and can never be. The Novato airport is excellent now for its purpose, and I am sure it will be very successfrul, as a VFR (good-weather) airport for private plane owners. It does not have any potential for development as a major commercial-industrial airport because its location prevents development to "all-weather" standards.

It goes without saying that in order to get the plan started, the first step is to obtain approval of the United States Government. This, of course, is something that must be decided on a policy basis at the very highest level. . . .

Lastly, I would like to note the sly innuendo regarding "many years before the flightline at Hamilton is abandoned by the Air Force." This is typical of the type of thing practiced by Mr. Newell every time he writes about the subject. Let me say one more time: No part of the Hamilton Plan depends to any degree whatsoever on abandonment or joint possession of any physical part or aspect of Hamilton Air Force Base, with the one exception of calling for some very minor use of the landing runway only, for exceptional aircraft, which can never, ever be accomodated at all in Marin County without such cooperation. This minor use would be such as; airplanes over 25,000 pounds, jet airplanes, and instrument landings and departures.

On the contrary, the Hamilton Plan will result in prolonging the Air Force operation by better utilization, and I sincerely hope that we will aid the Air Force to continue operations indefinitely.

Here's Simple Plan To Ease Traffic

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I read with interest the story in the I-J, Dec. 5, by Paul E. Peterzell, detailing the project put forth by David E. Stovel for solving the commuting problem in Marin County. I am sure that the I-J is very interested in promoting any idea which would help alleviate the hazards of commuting.

I am not a crackpot, but just an ordinary resident of Marin who commutes to San Francisco, normally by Greyhound bus. Like others, I drive my car when, for any reason, I am going to go or come outside of the short commuting period. This means I drive alone in my car about once or twice a week.

Now, for my theory of improvement. It is one that will not cost millions of dollars. Establish a station at Novato, Terra Linda, San Rafael, Corte Madera, Strawberry and possibly Marin City. Provide a large parking area which is well lighted. Arrange for Greyhound Corp. to run buses between these stations and San Francisco at 10 or 15 minute intervals throughout the day and into the evening until approximately 11 or 12. My theory is that with transportation available as stated above, a great majority of individuals who drive intermittently so that they can conveniently return after commuting hours, will no longer drive to San Francisco, but will drive to one of these stations and use commercial transportation that is available. This would remove hundreds of cars from the freeways during the commute periods. In turn the traffic would move faster and smoother and there would no longer be a bumper to bumper line from Greenbrae to the toll gate.

Some people may even use commercial transportation between stations rather than travel on the freeway in their cars. I firmly believe that with proper planning and publicity, the use of commercial transportation would become more widely used, particularly in bad weather, which would help the success of the plan . .

I have one other thought I would like to mention since I am writing, and that has to do with the movement of traffic between San Anselmo and Fairfax. There are two thoroughfares which, in my opinion, if used more efficiently, would serve to unclog the congestion that now exists on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. If the county would make Sir Francis Drake and Center Boulevard each one-way and provide some additional access thoroughfare between the two, and also provide that the traffic move faster than the 15 or 20 miles per hour that now is the case, there would be no need for the state to talk of building a freeway to destroy the whole countryside.

(Editor's note: Making Sir Francis Drake and Center Boulevards one-way, as suggested, would be up to the cities of San Anselmo and Fairfax. The county has no jurisdiction within the cities.)

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Sadie Tishtuch's ne'er-do-well brother had been the Tishtuch's house guest now for seven solid weeks, and Mr. T. was really beginning to lose his cool. 'I've got a scheme to get rid of him," confided Mrs. Tishtuch one evening — also at the end of her tether. "We'll stage a brawl at dinner, and whoever he says is wrong will throw him out on his ear. Agreed?" "You bet," said Mr. T.

The fight they put on was a beaut. At its height, Mr. Tishtuch turned to his brother-in-law and demanded, "So who's right: your sister or me?" The brother calmly continued wolfing his dinner and announced, "I couldn't care less, but in any case, I'm staying four more weeks."

Cabinet To Include Two Republicans

By PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson plans to name at least two Republicans to his cabinet before the 1968 presidential campaign gets underway.

The first Republican will be appointed in January as Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's replacement. The second will be named to head the Treasury Department later in the year.

Former Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania; New York investment banker John J. McCloy; roving Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the GOP vice presidential candidate in 1960, and Texan Robert Anderson, secretary of the treasury under Eisenhower and a trusted Johnson adviser.

Scranton, Lodge, and McCloy head the President's list of possible successors to McNamara. Anderson is the number one choice to replace Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler when he departs next spring.

ACCORDING TO administration insiders, the President revealed his decision to bring at least two Republicans into his cabinet during a recent White House political discussion.

Taking part in the session were members of the White House staff, two long-time political friends of the President, and a member of Congress with whom the President consults regularly.

After listening to the political views of those present, the President expressed deep concern about the growing division of the country over the Vietnam war and the immediate urgency of doing something about it. He then mentioned appointing Republicans to the cabinet, and named those being considered.

DRAWING BATTLE LINES — By the end of the month, Michigan's Gov. George Romney expects to have 500 "Homes for Romney" lined up in New Hampshire.

The strategy is for Romney to be "at home" to voters in each before the March 12 presidential primary.

The plan is the key to the person-to-person campaign the Michigan governor will wage in the Granite State. In 20 days of campaigning there, Romney will seek to pick up support more through personal persuasion than through public speeches.

In each of these homes the wife is being signed on as a "Romney-for-President" worker. She will put Romney placards in her windows and pass out Romney literature.

When the governor comes to town, she will invite in friends and neighbors to meet and talk with the candidate over coffee and soft drinks.

This strategy is just the opposite of that planned by former Vice President Nixon. With the polls showing him the front-runner, Nixon has decided to limit his campaigning to a series of speeches and TV appearances. His aides say he will leave the hand-shaking to Romney.

NEW CHINESE ARRIVALS — Congress's liberalization of the immigration laws in 1965, designed mainly to unite families of European immigrants, has unexpectedly led to a flood of Chinese refugees entering the U. S.

According to Rep. Michael Feighan, D-O., chairman of a House Immigration subcommittee, more than 17,000 Chinese entered the U. S. during the first year, more immigrants than came from any other country. In previous years the number of Chinese immigrants has averaged less than 500.

To learn the reason for this influx and whether it should be stopped, Feighan plans to hold hearings and ask State and Justice Department officials to testify.

Final Cruise Of Liner Not Encouraging Omen

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Perhaps there is some sort of poetic justice in the fiasco final trip of the Cunard liner Queen Mary, purchased by the City of Long Beach with public tideland oil money as a convention center.

The city, with approval of Gov. Ronald Reagan and members of the state lands commission, is pouring more than $5 million out of its oil revenue into the obsolete vessel.

ACCORDING TO wire reports, about 1,200 persons, who paid up to $3,000 apiece to make the final trip, are somewhat unhappy, to say the least, over the trip, which was scheduled as the "fabulous final cruise around South America and Cape Horn."

Said the cruise brochure, "spend 39 exciting fun-filled days aboard the famous Queen of the Seas, enjoying the nostalgic and sentimental devotion that has always been hers to wear proudly . . . "

AFTER READING press reports of the trip itself, some California legislators feel they got a break because they were gypped out of the trip because of the special session.

The Queen Mary proceeded from Southampton to Long Beach, at times under curtailed power to save fuel. And the "custom-planned, shore excursions" planned for the "39 exciting fun-filled days" sometimes were chopped short because the "finest tradition" of Cunard, which is adhering to schedules, apparently was broken when the Queen fell behind schedule.

Reports were the liner ran out of food, was short on fresh water, served warm champagne, and was infested by rats and cockroaches. Also that passengers were forced to sleep on deck because the tropical heat steamed them out of the cabins.

Open hostility between passengers and crew heightened the dissatisfaction. A bartender was reported to have slammed the door in a lady's face, and waiters claimed fixings for drinks were rationed. So for $3,000 a copy, it looks like a good time was not had by all.

WHETHER THE LAST trip of the Queen is in the nature of being prophetic as to the future use of the liner remains to be seen.

However, the city of Long Beach may be able, with the expenditure of a few millions of public oil money, to get the vessel in shape to "rival Disneyland," as claimed when it was purchased with the oil revenues.

The Country Parson

"Many couples who thought they couldn't stand to live with each other have found livng separated worse."

Honor Where Honor Was Due At Opening Of New Airport

When the new Marin County airport at Novato was opened last week, the first plane to arrive carried Supervisor William Gnoss as passenger. The honor was deserved because Gnoss has worked for years to get the money to construct this larger and better airport for the county.

The pilot was equally qualified for the honor. He was Paul Woody Binford, who rightly could be called the "father of the airport."

He constructed the original airport in 1946, grading the runway and constructing the buildings which are the offices of the airport and the small hangar which burned a few years ago.

He operated the airport and ran a flying school there from 1946 to 1949, when he left it to go into the television business. It was on his foundation that Marin County continued operating the airport and finally got federal funds for its improvement.

A COUPLE OF WEEKS ago I was at a gathering of people in Marinwood. The topic of conversation drifted around to Novato. Many men there expressed admiration for the young city and how it was trying many things which the older cities in the area were not.

The general gist of the conversation was that they felt that Novato was "going places."

"Maybe we should look more over the mountain toward Novato," one of the men said, expressing his opinion of the sprawling city just north of Big Rock Ridge.

SOME MEETINGS AGO, the Novato City Council turned down an appeal by a developer on the requirement of two parking places for each apartment in a projected development. The developer wanted it reduced down to one and one-half parking places per apartment.

Mayor J. Wayne Womack said that most families now are two-car families.

In the past Novato allowed many apartment developments with only one parking place per apartment. Thus the developer could put a five-unit apartment on one lot, which left very little yard and virtually no street parking. If this kind of development had been allowed to continue, there would not have been enough room on the street for all the cars from the apartments.

It now looks as though the council has seen the error of this thinking and will require two off-street parking places per apartment in the future.

Neither Deviates Nor Dirty Words Needed When A Genius Writes

The Yuletide approaches, but the news suggests the famed Reindeer Express may not make all its customary rounds this year. Vietnam, the Gaza Strip and Cyprus are currently off-limits, and, even in the demilitarized zones, Santa plans to wear a bullet-proof vest.

In other days one could, temporarily at least, forget the world's woes at a play or movie. But I am no longer the theater buff I was, since I am unable to identify myself with the main characters.

THE PLAYS AND FILMS I last saw fell into two categories, neither my cup of tea. The first was inhabited by sex deviates and/or hyperthyroid Casanovas, and all the action took place either in the bathroom or bedroom, with nobody ever bothering to close the door.

The second was populated by a group of hippies who sat around uttering alleged profundities which I was unable to decipher. This is no more for me than those modern art exhibits which depict a gas pipe, a sewer and two bananas under the title of "Beatrice Yearning for Dante." I've tried and tried, but I still don't know which is Beatrice — but, whichever it is, I don't know what Dante saw in her.

And, as a burnt child dreads the fire, I have learned to abstain from heavily advertised TV productions of the classics, designed to bring culture to the deprived masses.

THREE YEARS AGO, with much blowing of trumpets and beating of drums, TV announced weeks in advance a super-colossal updated version of Dickens' "Christmas Carol." Since that is one of my favorite tales, I looked forward to it. When it finally came, it turned out to be one of the most boring clinkers of all time. Even the avant-garde TV critics, usually patsies for anything new, turned their thumbs down and their dials off at the atrocity.

So I reached for a book the other night when I saw that TV's version of Shaw's "Saint Joan" was coming up. But then I fell off the wagon. Remembering that I had seen the incomparable Winifred Lenihan in the role some 30 years ago, I thought I'd turn the tube on for a few minutes, just for some dirty comparison.

I stayed with it the entire two hours, utterly engrossed in a superb production of Shaw's masterpiece, and was only sorry when it ended. Everything about it — direction, casting, adaptation — was flawless, and it may well go down as TV's finest hour. GBS himself, who was fussy on such matters, would have been delighted.

But, after all is said and done, and the Oscars and Emmys and whatnots have gone — as they properly should — to all who had a hand in the production, the laurels still go to the original author. Here are no cardboard figures, no papier-mache personalitites, no glued-together synthesis of shoddy cliches masquerading as genuine thoughts. Here are real flesh-and-blood people, placed in another time and clime, to be sure, but glowingly alive as they struggle with the age-old problems that beset man in his eternal quest for the salvation of his immortal soul.

IDENTIFY? It is part of Shaw's greatness that you find yourself identifying not only with Joan but with every character in the play, saint or sinner.

And this minus the four-letter words, the toilet and the bedroom without which so many of today's "creative" writers are so helpless. But then Shaw was somewhat of a miracle worker himself.

I try to say fumblingly what I would, but I fall back on the first time I took my son — then 9 or 10 — to see "Hamlet." I had no idea how he would react to Shakespeare, but I found out at the first intermission.

"Gee," he cried, his eyes shining, "that fellow Shakespeare could write, couldn't he?"

"That fellow" certainly could — and so could Shaw. Some of those college dramatic courses presently featuring such non-playwrights as LeRoi Jones might take a look-see at both.

ALL THIS — and Heaven, too! The same week that brought the miracle of "Saint Joan" brought McNamara's resignation. Which gives hope — don't miracles come in threes? — that we're through with the policy of a Hundred Years' War and that Ho may be brought more quickly to the conference table.

Christmas Party Is Set Saturday

The annual children's Christmas party of the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department will be held from 11 to 11:45 a.m. Saturday at the community center.

Girl Scout Troop 650 will sing carols and lead singing, and students from recreation department ballet classes will entertain.

Thieves Hit Two Schools

Thieves attacked San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools over the weekend but made off with only petty cash, police reported.

Alan W. Ellsberg, principal of San Rafael High School, said he arrived at the school Saturday and found the safe open and the combination lock missing.

He told police nothing of any value was kept in the safe or the office outside shcool hours.

The student store at Terra Linda was broken into yesterday, said police, and about $20 in petty cash stolen. A resident reported seeing a car with four juveniles in the area.

Nobel Winner Urges Use Of Genetics In Breeding

HAMILTON, Ont. (UPI) —A Nobel Prize-winning California inventor said last night that failure to use eugenic breeding — selection breeding and sterilization — in the United States was causing a lowering in intelligence among Negroes and could lead to "genetic enslavement" of the Negro race.

Prof. William Schockley, who shared a Nobel Prize in 1956 as the co-inventor of the transistor, said in a lecture at McMaster University that "high illegitimate birth rates have caused Negro genetic potential for intelligence to drop 5 per cent or more as compared to whites between World War I and now."

Shockley, professor of engineering science at Stanford University, and executive consultant to the Bell Telephone Co., said if this continues to be the case "the supply to demand ratio for leadership in the Negro minority will have become more than four times smaller as a result."

"Are we now seeing this shortage of wise leadership in riot situations?" he asked.

The professor, an ardent supporter of the genetic rather than the environmental approach to race, said that development of genetics as a science has been blocked by "entrenched dogmatism," in the scientific world.

The consequence of ignoring genetic factors, Shockley said, "can be a form of genetic enslavement which could provoke extremes of racism.

The inventor denied he was a racist or anti-Negro, and said he used the case of the U.S. Negro because of the "pressing nature of that problem.

He called for application of eugenics to improve the human race and to curb suffering caused by hereditary applications.

"The best first step should be an interdisciplinary study group of the National Academy of Science and of Engineering—the organized central corps of intellectual scientific integrity," he said.

Study Is Due On Red Cross Building

The proposal that the Marin County chapter, American Red Cross, be allowed to locate a headquarters building in the city park adjacent to Doherty Drive is scheduled for discussion by the Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission, meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Also to be considered is a request to establish hiking trails within the city limits.

Park Commission Session Moved

Marin County Park and Recreation commissioners will meet tomorrow at 2 p.m. in Room 420 of the civic center instead of in the planning commission chambers.

Pierre W. Joske, director of parks and recreation, said the smaller meeting room was chosen because it will be a workshop session to discuss the program statement outlining the department's aims and functions.

The commissioners will also discuss litter control and more effective litter warning signs.

Remembering that I had seen the incomparable Winifred Lenihan in the role some 30 years ago, I thought I'd turn the tube on for a few minutes, just for some dirty comparison.

I stayed with it the entire two hours, utterly engrossed in a superb production of Shaw's masterpiece, and was only sorry when it ended. Everything about it — direction, casting, adaptation — was flawless, and it may well go down as TV's finest hour. GBS himself, who was fussy on such matters, would have been delighted.

But, after all is said and done, and the Oscars and Emmys and whatnots have gone — as they properly should — to all who had a hand in the production, the laurels still go to the original author. Here are no cardboard figures, no papier-mache personalitites, no glued-together synthesis of shoddy cliches masquerading as genuine thoughts. Here are real flesh-and-blood people, placed in another time and clime, to be sure, but glowingly alive as they struggle with the age-old problems that beset man in his eternal quest for the salvation of his immortal soul.

IDENTIFY? It is part of Shaw's greatness that you find yourself identifying not only with Joan but with every character in the play, saint or sinner.

And this minus the four-letter words, the toilet and the bedroom without which so many of today's "creative" writers are so helpless. But then Shaw was somewhat of a miracle worker himself.

I try to say fumblingly what I would, but I fall back on the first time I took my son — then 9 or 10 — to see "Hamlet." I had no idea how he would react to Shakespeare, but I found out at the first intermission.

"Gee," he cried, his eyes shining, "that fellow Shakespeare could write, couldn't he?"

"That fellow" certainly could — and so could Shaw. Some of those college dramatic courses presently featuring such non-playwrights as LeRoi Jones might take a look-see at both.

ALL THIS — and Heaven, too! The same week that brought the miracle of "Saint Joan" brought McNamara's resignation. Which gives hope — don't miracles come in threes? — that we're through with the policy of a Hundred Years' War and that Ho may be brought more quickly to the conference table.

Fairfax Council Hears Bad News: Fire Station Unsafe

Fairfax city councilmen learned last night that the fire station and the city hall are just as dangerous as they thought.

The councilmen glumly heard a report from Harold M. Engle, a San Rafael structural engineer, who said that the firehouse could collapse in a strong earthquake, and the city hall wing, which also houses the police station, probably wouldn't be in much better shape.

Engle's report confirmed a November inspection report by the state Department of Housing and Community Development which found serious deterioration in both the fire station and the city hall. The fire station was built in 1926, the city hall in 1941.

Asked by the councilmen if it is safe for anyone to be in the fire station, Engle replied, "It's safe as long as there isn't an earthquake or a severe windstorm."

"We probably should be afraid even to sneeze in it," said Mayor George A. Pagni.

In response to a request from the Traffic and Transportation Planning Committee of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce for a resolution stating the council's position on Highway 17, the councilmen decided to abide by their previous resolution recommending a six month's delay in plans to extend that highway from Highway 101 to Point Reyes National Seashore. Councilwoman Adelaide Wilson expressed the conflicting feelings of many residents of the county about the highway.

She said that she would prefer the highway be a limited access facility through relatively unpopulated ares. She added, "We don't want it coming through the city of Fairfax, but we're putting our head in the sand if we think there'll be no major highway in the vicinity."

The council set a hearing on a proposed new fire prevention code for its next regular meeting. The Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has objected to a proposed section which would require its workmen to report faulty appliances to the fire department. PG&E is objecting to functioning as a policing agency.

The Fairfax City Council also:

BOARD — Appointed Harold S. Lezzeni to a three year term on the design review board.

PLANNER — Re-appointed Hugh O. Winn to four-year term on the planning commission.

FUNDS —Transferred $6,670 from the city engineer's budget to the building inspector's budget to pay for the services of Ward J. Bourgeois, recently hired as the city's building inspector.

USE PERMIT — Approved a special use permit allowing Joseph A. Perkins to operate a tropical and marine fish and pet supply wholesale store at 117 Mono Avenue, if building code requirements are met.

COMMENDATION — Passed a resolution commending fireman George R. Hettema for giving first aid to a motorist hurt in an accident.

Directors Re-Elected

Mrs. Nordmark Williams of Greenbrae and Dr. Earle H. McBain, San Rafael opthalmologist, have been re-elected directors of the Northern California Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Tax Accountant Guilty On Return

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—William O. Duffy, 63, a tax accountant, was sentenced to 60 days in jail yesterday for making false statements on his own returns.

Federal Judge Oliver J. Carter gave Duffy until Jan. 5 to start serving his sentence. The accountant also will be required to pay back taxes when the amount due is determined.

Duffy claimed on his returns for 1960, 1961 and 1962 that his total adjusted gross income was $8,564. The government claimed his taxable income for the three years was $40,734.

San Francisco's Ballot Count Is Official At Last

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tabulations of San Francisco's Nov. 7 municipal election results finally are complete.

In one mixed-up race, it showed James Mailliard defeated Supervisor Kevin O'Shea by 9,148 votes. Each had been the winner twice in a seesaw of counts and recounts that created so much confusion that the outside tally was decided upon.

Another switch involved Proposition O which would have imposed a $6.15 limit on the property tax rate. Originally counted as passed, it actually was defeated by 5,575 votes.

Supervisor Terry Francois finished second and not third, as tallied earlier. John Ertola retained the top spot. Leo McCarthy was moved to third spot, Robert Mendelsohn was fourth, Ronald Pelosi fifth and Mailliard sixth.
